FFA Elects New State Officers

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Ten FFA'ers from across the state of Pennsylvania were elected to the 1991-1992 State Officer Team last week at the summer convention. For the next year, the 10 officers will travel throughout Pennsylvania representing the Pennsylvania FFA Association at the Washington Leadership Conference and the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Missouri.

They will participate in statewide leadership activities such as the State Legislative Leadership Conference, Made For Excellence Conference, and Farm Show activities. They will visit most of the 196 FFA chapters across the state and speak at chapter banquets on behalf of the Pennsylvania FFA Association.

The new president is Melanie Brookhart from Millerstown, Pa. Melanie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Brookhart. She was graduated from Greenwood High School, where her principal was Edward Burns and her chapter advisor was Ms. Mee Cee Baker. Her chapter activities included chapter president, area FFA presi-

Rural Theft Increases, Published Reports To Help Find Stolen Items

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

BOWIE, MD—On Sunday morning at 4 a.m. the neighbors heard a tractor go past their house. The sound was unusual for that time of day, but the source of the sound was not. A thief was driving Frank Robinson's 1972 Massy Fergerson with an attached chisel plow to a secret hideaway in a machine shed on a farm two and one half miles away. Robinson, who owns a farm near Bowie, Maryland, has had two tractors stolen in recent years.

"Theft of farm equipment is on the rise and a rather dramatic rise at that," said Robinson. "Yet, there is no effective way to combat this crime. Police are overwhelmed with more serious crimes, and theft of farm equipment is given short shrift."

(In response to farmers' requests, Lancaster Farming will publish reports of stolen items for farmers and equipment dealers free of charge. See new column with this story.)

For Robinson, the theft started a series of events that finally led to the recovery of his stolen tractor and prosecution of the thief. But not without the expenditure of time, energy, and money. The plow was never recovered.

"I traced my stolen equipment to a neighboring farm," Robinson said. "Wheel tracks and a scuff mark in the sod from the chisel plow gave away the location in the locked machine shed. I notified the police, and they came out to the shed but would not search it without a warrant. And they were too busy to get a warrant.

"I later advertised in a local paper and a dealer from Baltimore called and said he thought he had sold my tractor. This call put me on the trail, and I notified the police. They later called me to come with

Off To The Nationals

Farmers Feel Effects Of Possible Drought

BELLEFONTE (Centre Co.) — Since May 3, one farmer recorded only 6/10 of an inch of rainfall.

At another Centre Co. location, only 9/10 (not quite an inch of rainfall) was recorded in more than a month and a half. Other counties, such as Lancaster, Lebanon, Dauphin, and York have received about the same, and need more than 4 inches of rain in order to avoid a severe drought.

Conditions throughout south central Pennsylvania have been so dry that many ag experts are certain there is an agriculture drought. Already, state Lt. Gov. Mark Singel has called on residents to voluntarily conserve water — a possible portend to more severe drought restrictions that will impact farming.

Though it may not be official yet, many counties, including Lancaster, Lebanon, Dauphin, York, Centre, and parts of Berks and Chester are feeling the effects of little rain. Statewide, rainfall is four inches below normal. (Lancaster Co. is 4.77 inches below

June 19, 1991

Prices were generally unchanged except in New England the extra-large and jumbo loose brown prices were higher, and carloned brown mediums trended lower. The market tone was steady with a fully steady one on the large sizes in the Midwest. Demand was mostly moderate, occasionally better where featured. Supplies of jumbo continued seasonally short, extra- large were tight to adequate, large were generally adequate, and the lighter sizes were at least adequate and usually better balanced. Breakers continued to purchase light weight eggs, particularly where heavy breaking stock prices increased. Live hen markets remained barely steady to weak.

N.E. Chicken Parts

Trucklot buying interest was light and selective. Boneless skinless breasts were irregularly available; however, where extra product was available it was often traded at lower levels. Whole breasts were readily available with spot trading again in the mid eighties. Leg items were about adequate to fully adequate at current prices. Wings remained short.

WHEAT PRICES MIXED CORN AND BEAN PRICES HIGHER WEDNESDAY. WHEAT MIXED, STEADY TO 1 CENT HIGHER IN KANSAS CITY AND PORTLAND BUT ST. LOUIS 5 TO 6 CENTS LOWER; CORN 3 TO 4 CENTS HIGHER; SORGHUM 5 TO 8 CENTS HIGHER; SOYBEANS 3 TO 6 CENTS HIGHER. HARD WHEAT PRICES CONTINUED HIGHER, SUPPORTED BY NEWS OF PHILIPPINE BIDDING FOR LARGE AMOUNT OF EXPORT BONUS WHEAT AS WELL AS CHINA. HOT, MOSTLY DRY WEATHER ON TAP FOR MUCH OF THE CENTRAL U.S. WHEAT HARVEST PROGRESSING BUT NOT WITHOUT CONCERNS OVER YIELD QUALITY FROM DISEASED CROPS. SOFT RED WHEAT PRICES SUBSTANTIALLY LOWER DUE TO POOR CROP QUALITY IN CORN PLANTS, FORCING QUITE A BIT OF SOFT WHEAT INTO FEED CHANNELS. CORN AND SOYBEANS ALSO ADVANCED STRENGTHENED BY REPORTS SOVIET CREDIT ALLOCATIONS TO BE ANNOUNCED SOON AND BUYING EXPECTED TO BEGIN IMMEDIATELY. CORN PLANTING FINISHED AND ANALYSTS BELIEVE BETWEEN 1 TO 1.5 MILLION ACRES WERE NOT PLANTED. CROP RATINGS DECLINED SLIGHTLY LAST WEEK BUT 78 PERCENT OF U.S. CROP IS IN GOOD TO EXCELLENT CONDITION. DRY AREAS OF THE CORNBELT ARE CONFINED MOSTLY TO ILLINOIS, IOWA AND OHIO. IOWA HAS DECLARED MORE COUNTIES DISASTER AREAS AFTER HEAVY RAINFALL IN NORTHERN IOWA OVER THE WEEKEND.

Jacques Scoreboard

Chief alfalfa

In 1988-89 Minnesota trials, Chief had the highest resistance rating against Phytophora and Bacterial wilt plus good scores on Anthracnose, Verticillium and Fusarium resistance. Big yields of top quality forage make this one an all-star.

Multi-plier alfalfa

Multifoliate with high yield potential and unmatched disease resistance ratings. In University of Wisconsin disease tests, Multi-plier scored 24 of a possible 25 points. Top quality forage, too.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

JUNE 24-30, 1991

Full Strawberry Moon, June 26.

June 24, 1665, Thomas Willett is installed as the first mayor of New York City June 25, 1630, Governor John Winthrop of Massachusetts introduces the table fork to America June 28, 1902, the United States purchases the unfinished Panama Canal from France June 30, 1906, Congress passes the Meat Inspection Act and the Pure Food and Drugs Act Today is the tomorrow you worried about yesterday Now you know why

Ask the Old Farmer: What was the purpose of putting leather hoof covers on a horse? J I , Pa

They were called trotting boots and protected the horse's hooves from interfering — striking one foot or ankle with another They also eased the shock of striking hard ground

Home Hints: To get rid of moles, put moth balls in their runs

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: Rain begins the week, but changes to intermittent showers with seasonable temperatures Heavy rain ends the week, with much warmer weather

Greater New York-New Jersey: Heavy rain and seasonable Rain persists through most of the week, becoming sunny in the south Finally, clear and hot

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Heavy rain begins the week, diminishing to sprinkles and finally turning sunny by Friday Clear and hot on the weekend

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Cloudy skies and showers prevail through midweek The rest of the week is sunny and hot with residual showers in the east

OPINION

Creative Service Project

An organization for men interested in careers in agriculture has been formed at the University of Delaware, and its community activity programs include helping handicapped adults.

The Alpha Gamma Rho (AGR) fraternity was formed during the recent school year and is officially a colony with full recognition as a chapter, expected to be recognized in 1992 by national AGR headquarters. The fraternity has 60 chapters and a national membership of more than 45,000 men in 50 states. There is an AGR chapter at practically every land-grant university.

Andy Model, a University of Delaware junior majoring in agricultural engineering, held a calf so Patsy Broughton could hug it. The Alpha Gamma Rho project included an entire "farm zoo" that helped entertain and educate residents at the Mary Campbell Center in Wilmington.

Richard Morris, chapter adviser and manager of the University of Delaware's dairy operation, said the fraternity has strict policies prohibiting hazing and alcohol. Late in the school year, the students adopted the Mary Campbell Center for handicapped adults in Wilmington, Deleware, as a community project. Morris provided the truck and trailer and the young men provided the muscle to transport a cow and calf, two sheep, two pigs, tws goats, a rooster, hen and six chicks to the center where residents petted, hugged and even kissed the collection of farm animals.

This project by the AGR men is an example of creative service that will not go unnoticed. Besides the love that is given and received between the center residents and the AGR men through the farm animals, the students gain character development that will be beneficial to them in whatever agricultural career they choose after graduation.

A lot of employers will look for a little entry under extracurricular activities on these students' job applications—an entry that says this applicant was a member of the Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity that strictly prohibited hazing and alcohol and adopted the Mary Campbell Center for handicapped adults as a community project.

To Manage Pastures

Pastures, like any other crop, need to be managed. By properly managing pastures, you will be providing livestock with a good source of feed.

With the recent dry weather, it would be a good idea to mow pastures now. By mowing pastures, you will be encouraging new growth while controlling weeds.

Most serious weed problems develop due to overgrazing, poor fertility, or low pH problems. By correcting these cultural aspects of pasture management, you will be reducing your weed problems.

Lime, mowing, and not overgrazing often will bring a weak pasture back to life. Remember, your pastures are a crop that need to be managed. This dry weather is giving you the opportunity to lime and mow areas often too wet for these operations. Why not take advantage of it?

To Control Thistles

Thistles are beginning to bloom. Now is the time to start your control program.

Thistles are a very hard weed to kill. They have a large food reserve in their root system. The goal in a thistle control program is to delete this food reserve. The best way is through mowing. The first 10 to 12 inches of growth is made from the food reserve. Once the thistle reaches this height, the plant starts storing food reserves back in the roots. By mowing the thistles when they are 6 to 8 inches high, you will eventually starve them.

Also, if you plan to use a herbicide, the herbicide will be more effective in killing the thistles second or third growth than the first growth. This is due to the thistles ability to generate new growth from its roots.

The important thing is to keep thistles from going to seed. Through an aggressive mowing program and use of herbicides, you should be able to control thistles.

To Protect Your Health

Eating right and getting enough sleep are two important areas that affect our health. Proper nutrition and rest helps to keep us alert, feeling good, and increases productivity.

We could learn some lessons from our livestock management practices. We know it is very important to feed animals the same time every day in order to achieve top performance. These animals receive a balanced ration not too high in fat, salt, or sugar. We monitor animal weights and make adjusts. We make sure they receive a good night sleep.

It is also important for us to apply these same management practices in our lives. When was the last time you had a complete physical from a doctor? Now is the time to take control of your health. Start by eating right, the same time every day.

If you need to lose a few pounds, make your snacks fruits and vegetables. Reduce your fat and sugar intake. Finally, make sure you are getting a good night's sleep. By being well rested, you will increase your productivity and reduce accidents. It is important to manage your life to insure good health.

BY LAWRENCE W ALTHOUSE

ON TAKING THE CURRENT

June 23, 1991

Background Scripture: Ezra 7.

Devotional Reading: Psalms 119:162-176.

Many of the people who come to me for counseling seem to share one common conviction: somehow, they were "behind the door when the goodies were passed out." Some of these people are quite certain that little good has ever come their way. Opportunities, good fortune, the grace of God — all seem to have passed by on the other side. Usually, then, one of my attempts as a counselor is to lead them to discover that often the poverty of their own lives is not because God has shortchanged the, but that they have failed to recognize the gifts of God and grasp them when offered. Just as beauty is in the eye of the beholder, so is bounty.

As poet Edward Rowland Sill put it, "We must do the best we can with what we have." His own life was proof of that. His parents died when he was young. He tried the ministry and gave that up. Then he tried journalism and that didn't suit him. He became a teacher, but failing health forced him to quit. Lots of people would have given up at this point, whining, "What's the use?" But, as someone put it, Sill "believed in making good, not in making excuses. " In one of his poems, "Opportunity. " he tells of a king's son who picks up a broken sword discarded by another, "And saved a great cause that heroic day."

Ezra seems to me the kind of person who was ready to seize the opportunity when it came. He would have understood Horace's great exhortation: Carpe diem!, which translated from the Latin is: "Grasp the sleeve of the day!" When, after years and years of dashed hopes and false starts, Artaxerxes, the King.of Persia, decided to send Zera to Jerusalem with a contingent of fellow Jews, Ezra grasped "the sleeve" of this opportunity.

No one knows why Artaxerxes made such an astounding decision. He was not a Jew. We know of no visions of heavenly voices that influenced him. All we know is that the King of Persia decided to send Ezra back to Jerusalem with a virtual blank check — whatever he needed there, he would be given. Ezra himself voices the appropriate reaction: "Blessed be the Lord, the God of our fathers, who put such a thing as this into the heart of the king, to beautify the house of the Lord which is in Jerusalem" (7:27,28).

That kind of thing can happen in our own time. Today, I understand that the Soviet Union and other Iron Curtain countries are not only tolerating the resurgence of Christianity, but in some cases welcoming it. Four years ago we would not have thought such a thing to be possible. But now that the opportunity is upon us, we need to be able to Carpe diem — to seize the opportunity we now have and say with Ezra: "Blessed be the Lord... who put such a thing as this into the heart" of these leaders.

I love these lines of Shakespeare in Julius Caesar:

There is a tide in the affairs of men,
Which, taken at the flood, leads on the fortune;
Omitted, all the voyages of their life
Is bound in shallows and miseries.
On such a full sea we are now afloat.
And we must take the current when it serves.
Or lose our ventures.

No one is behind the door when God passes out his blessings. It only seems that way when we fail to take the current he offers.

Why sacrifice working capital to buy farm equipment. . .

Leasing lets you have both!

You can move right into new equipment without investing your working capital. That's because there's no down payment, stock purchase, or other up front charges. You are free to use your capital for other purposes that generate more profits for your operation.

Your options are open. Make payments monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or annually, whichever fits your cash flow pattern the best. And you know exactly what your equipment costs will be since payments are fixed throughout the lease term. You can renew the lease for an additional term, purchase the equipment at the end of the lease, or simply return it. And there's more! Give us a call and we'll tell you about the tax benefits, how leasing improves your cash flow and makes better use of existing credit lines.

New England Shell Eggs

June 19, 1991

Prices were higher on loose jumbo and extra-large, unchanged to lower on cartoned mediums, and unchanged on the balance. Trade sentiment was mixed, strongest on the heavy sizes, and barely steady on the light weights. Demand was fair to good, and had slowed in most metropolitan areas as movement improved in resort vacation areas. Supplies were generally adequate on large, short to adequate on bigger sizes, and at least adequate on the light weight eggs.

PRICES PAID TO PRODUCERS, CASES EXCHANGED, GRADE YIELD BASIS, BROWN EGGS LOOSE, AT FARM, CENTS PER DOZEN.

RANGE JUMBO 69-72, EXTRA LARGE 65-68, LARGE 61-64, MEDIUM 32-35, SMALL 17-20.

BOSTON:

PRICES TO RETAILERS, SALES TO VOLUME BUYERS, USDA GRADE A AND GRADE A, BROWN EGGS IN CARTONS, DELIVERED STORE DOOR, CENTS PER DOZEN.

RANGE EXTRA LARGE 82-84, LARGE 80-82, MEDIUM 51-55.

Lehigh Co.'s First Farm Preservation Approved

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — The Pennsylvania Agricultural Land Preservation Board has approved the purchase of Lehigh County's first agricultural conservation easement on a 54-acre farm in Lower Milford township for $184,985.

The farm, owned by Wilmer and Erma Graber, will be preserved in perpetuity under the state and county's farmland preservation program.

Seventy-five percent of the cost of this purchase will be paid by the state and the county will contribute the other 25 percent.

The Lehigh County agricultural land preservation board is in the process of finalizing agreements with six additional landowners for the permanent preservation of another 800 acres of farmland within the county. The county board will soon be submitting proposals to the state board for the preservation of the additional farms.

17-Year Locusts Due Back

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — One of the most mysterious insects in the world is about to invade the skies over central and eastern Pennsylvania, but a Penn State expert said it's not a cause for serious alarm.

Residents of affected counties soon will see an emergence of periodical cicadas, commonly but mistakenly called 17-year locusts. "These insects are harmless to people, but they can damage fruit trees or high-value ornamentals," said entomologist Gregory Hoover.

Any damage caused by cicadas occurs during egg-laying. Using the blades of a saw-like device on her abdomen, a female will cut several small pockets in the bark of a twig, depositing 400 to 600 eggs. This process can cause small limbs or seedlings to wilt and may provide an opening for disease.

"Periodical cicadas are sometimes called nature's pruners," said Hoover. "Nursery owners or others with trees at risk may want to apply registered insecticides around the time mating starts — about 10 days after they first hear the males singing." He said other protection methods include covering the crown of valuable trees with a fine mesh, or delaying the planting of trees until the cicadas are gone. If a pesticide is used, label instructions should be carefully read and followed.

The periodical cicada is native to North America, and exists nowhere else in the world. There are six species of periodical cicada, three with a 17-year cycle, and three with a 13-year cycle. The 17-year cicada is the type generally found in Pennsylvania.

Adult periodical cicadas are about 1½ inches long with reddish eyes and wing veins. They are smaller than their cousins, the annual or dog-day cicadas usually seen and heard in the heat of late summer.

Periodical cicada populations called broods are assigned Roman numerals and are classified by the year in which they emerge. The cicadas surfacing this year are members of Brood XIV, which last was seen in 1974. Brood XIV distribution encompasses as many as 22 counties between the New York and Maryland borders, ranging as far west as Clearfield County and as far east as Lehigh County.

Cicada nymphs spend 17 years from 2 to 24 inches underground, sucking nutrients from plant roots. In April, they burrow to within an inch of the soil surface, where they await the undetermined signal for emergence. If the ground is too damp, they often build small earthen turrets over their holes to protect their escape routes from too much moisture.

When the time is right, usually in late May or early June, the nymphs exit the soil through half-inch holes and climb a foot or more up trees or other objects. Within an hour, they shed their nymphal skins and become adults.

The adult cicadas are clumsy flyers, often colliding with objects in flight. The males begin their constant singing shortly after they emerge, but the females are silent. When heard from a distance, the cicadas' chorus is a whirring monotone, sometimes described as eerie-sounding. On rare occasions when an adult eats, it sucks fluid from small twigs but does not feed on leaves. Ten days following emergence, mating takes place.

The adult cicadas live up to four weeks above ground. Six to seven weeks after the eggs are laid, the nymphs hatch and drop to the ground. There, they enter the soil, not to see the light of day for 17 subterranean years.

Dairy Promotion Volunteers to Train

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Dairy promotion representatives from throughout the Empire State will attend the annual training seminar on July 1-3, 1991.

The seminar is sponsored each year by the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council and will be held at Morrisville College.

The training seminar will be attended by dairy princesses, dairy maids and ambassadors as well as county promotion committee volunteers. A variety of workshops have been planned, designed to teach attendees how to promote dairy products to consumers.

The seminar will combine seminars with hands-on workshops in order to help princesses gain experience in promotion techniques.

According to County Promotion Director Shirley Griffith, "The dairy princess program has changed dramatically over the years. Workshops will focus on reaching elementary age school children, making radio public service announcements that reach the greatest number of people and writing news articles that get published.

A media workshop geared to preparing the promoters to respond to on-the-spot interviews will also be presented. This workshop will teach them to handle interviews with confidence, knowledge and poise."

This year's seminar will also include a workshop on news release writing and media contacts, being presented by Chris Kimball-Peterson, executive secretary of the Empire State Potato Club.

Ed Slusarczyk, president of Ag Radio Network and Karen Pritchard, Alternate State Princess, will present a session on the techniques involved in taping public service announcements.

As part of the three-day session, county dairy princesses will be briefed on the format of the annual New York State Dairy Princess Pageant to be held February 1992. Princesses will receive advice and information on participating in the pageant.

Over 150 dairy representatives are expected to take part in the seminar. For further information on the training seminar, contact Shirley Griffith at (315) 472-9143.

Pesticide Institute Provides Education, Credits

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A Pesticide Institute is being held July 10-11 at the Embers Convention Center in Carlisle.

The institute is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Nurserymen's Association and is open to all private, commercial, and public applicators and others interested in pest control information.

Participants must attend two 1-hour sessions in a track to receive credits in that track. Partial credits will not be awarded.

All credits have been preapproved by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture based on the proposed agenda. Changes to the agenda may result in adjustments to credit values. A full registration brochure is available by contacting the Pennsylvania Nurserymen's Association office, 1924 N. Second Street, Harrisburg, PA 17102, (717) 238-1673.

The Pesticide Institute is being offered to provide in-depth educational training on pest control topics, to develop new resources for pesticide training, to deliver a flexible educational schedule, and to promote a higher retention of knowledge by timing the institute so applicators may immediately use knowledge gained.

Lancaster Holstein Field Day Held

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

WILLOW STREET (Lancaster Co.)—In the beautiful setting of the lawn on the John Howard and family's Howcrest Farm, the Lancaster County Holstein annual field day was held with good attendance.

As usual, a judging contest started the evening activities with the excellent type found in the Howcrest herd providing stiff competition. Games for the children and a bar-b-que chicken dinner added to the festivities.

Pete Blodgett from Landmark Genetics was the judge for the contest and featured speaker of the evening. Blodgett said in a breeding program, dairymen should select for a balance between high production "with all the yield you can get, especially protein" and functional type. "You need longevity and reproductive soundness," Blodgett said.

"Dairymen must realize that they are competing for their share of the dairy product sales on a world market. And to do this, they must fine tune both their business and herd management. They must be willing to make changes, particularly in some of the new technologies that come along in breeding."

Blodgett said a tool for breeding that is new on the horizon is in the field of molecular genetics. Several systems of DNA markers will identify young bulls and females that have certain advantages in production and type traits by a simple blood test. "Because of the economy in the dairy industry, dairymen will need to be quick to take advantage of new technologies," Blodgett said. "The dairymen that survive will be the better managers."

Penn Ag Seminar Explores Views On Nutrient Management

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Manure from animal production facilities and general nutrient management were the focus of a Monday feed industry seminar held at Eden Resort in Lancaster.

About 30 representatives of feed and agricultural businesses attended the seminar, sponsored by the PennAg Industries Association. The program was moderated by David Brubaker, executive vice president of PennAg.

There were five speakers on nutrient management during the afternoon program. They were Paul Swartz, with the state Department of Environmental Resources; Tom Sexton, with the Chesapeake Bay Foundation; Walter Peechatka, with PDA; Bruce Limpert, director of financial services for Wenger's Feed Mill; and Cindy Dunn, spokesperson for the Alliance for the Chesapeake Bay.

In addition to the five nutrient management speakers, Earl Haas, a feed program specialist with the state Department of Agriculture (PDA) updated the group on two pieces of proposed legislation concerning animal feeds

Apparently, neither piece of PDA-created animal feed legislation will become law before the Legislature's summer recess, because of the budget crisis and because the proposals have yet to be sponsored by a legislator.

One proposal would change labeling, licensing and fee structure associated with the handling, manufacture and sale of animal feeds.

The other proposal would amend existing law, which forbids backhauling of food materials destined for human consumption in vehicles previously used to haul waste, to include animal feeds and feed components.

Nutrient management legislation could apparently have a chance of becoming law before current session ends.

Proposed nutrient management legislation is currently in the House Appropriations Committee, having been reported out of the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee on June 10.

In brief, the proposed law would set up the state Conservation Commission to create criteria for establishing nutrient management plans on farms and to act as the enforcement agency; establish a nutrient management advisory board consisting of representatives from each segment of the agriculture industry most affected by calls for nutrient management; give responsibility for local oversight of nutrient management to the county-level soil conservation district offices; and direct the PDA to establish a program for testing and licensing people to create nutrient management plans.

Some amendments were made to the legislation, HB 496, before coming out of the House agriculture committee:

- The enforcement authority was changed to the commission, rather than with DER;
- farmer liability protection was added so that landowners with nutrient management plans in effect would be protected to the fullest extent of the judicial system from civil and criminal prosecution;
- and wording was added to strengthen the state's preeminence over local ordinances concerning nutrient management.

Although it wasn't mentioned during the seminar, efforts to have state funds set aside to pay for the statewide nutrient management program have already been made — allocations for the nutrient management program have been included in the House Democrats' proposal for a 1991-92 state spending package

However, as of pressume, the Democrats have yet to propose a method for paying for the spending plan

Irregardless of the current political position of nutrient management, the range of views and opinion on nutrient management presented by the speakers was broad.

The views ranged from comments on the need for a whole cultural change in attitude and understanding about environmental-human relationships to comments about possible on-farm practices in order to fulfill anticipated manure/nutrient management laws.

Tom Sexton, with the 78,000-member Chesapeake Bay Foundation, said his perspective on nutrient management is to seek permanent solutions to all nutrient problems which affect the nation's environmental stability — not just agricultural problems.

The 25-year-old Chesapeake Bay Foundation, which Sexton represents, is an advocacy group. It's members actively and aggressively seek to clean up the Chesapeake Bay, which because of nutrient overloading, has developed a layer of water with no life-sustaining oxygen.

Restoring the ability of the bay's waters to provide oxygen rich waters for fish, shellfish and other forms of life within the aquatic food chain is not the organization's only goal. The bay foundation seeks to aid in the maintenance and preservation of the bay's aquatic and relate wildlife.

"We're not looking just at farms," Sexton said. "We're looking at development in a big way."

However, since studies have indicated that Pennsylvania agriculture is a major source of "non-point" pollution, and since governors from those states with watersheds draining into the Chesapeake have pledged financial and human resources to clean up the bay by certain deadlines, the foundation is involved in motivating changes toward reduction of nitrogen and phosphorus elements into the Susquehanna River watershed.

The Susquehanna River is the main body of water originating in Pennsylvania which affects the quality of the bay.

According to Sexton, a recently released book "Turning The Tide" offers a "state of the bay" report. "It is based on hundred of interviews with scientists," Sexton said.

In summarizing the contents of the book for the group of businessmen, Sexton said reports show that nitrogen levels continue to climb while phosphorus levels are dropping.

In helping to achieve a reduction in the nitrogen flow into the Susquehanna and thus the bay, Sexton said he would like farmers to consider the concept of adopting a nutrient balance on the farms — become efficient in using the nitrogen-bearing wastes; limiting the addition of commercial, outside sources of nitrogen to farming operations; and going to a permitting situation.

In the permitting situation, those desiring a high animal density operation would be required to submit a proposal and then be reviewed and permitted to expand beyond the normal ability of the specific farm's ecology to use the additional nutrients resulting from the increase animal population.

Sexton said he also supports targeting certain problem farms; moving away from using best management practices (BMP) to using best management systems (BMS); and controlling human growth in certain areas. Specifically he said he would like to see urban sprawl controlled, because of the additional problems with water quality presented with human wastes and surface water flows and quality.

He also said that the importance of air deposition in aggrivating the nitrogen level of the bay is only starting to be taken into account.

As far as on-the-farm operation of the program Sexton said he prefers the conservation district have responsibility, but as far as operation, most offices lack a good history of eye-to-eye community involvement.

He suggested a community outreach program to be conducted by the conservation districts in order to get more public awareness and involvement.

Sexton said Lebanon County's program probably has the best record as far as going out to the farm and discussing issues.

However, farms may not be as big a contributer to bay degredation as was once believed. According to Sexton, the Environmental Protection Agency figures are changing continually.

When figuring in the amount of nitrogen attributable to air deposition, the amount of non-point nitrogen thought to come from agriculture may be reduced by 85 percent from previous estimates, he said.

Walt Peechatka, with the department of agriculture, said he sees the whole issue of nutrient management and the superficially different viewpoints as a continuum. On one end is the preservationist extremist and on the other is the stout Jeffersonian landowner with everyone else somewhere in the middle.

He said the state Department of Agriculture is in the middle, but clearly aligned more closely to the farmer.

The distinction between farmer and environmentalist, Peechatka said, is that the "farmer looks at the environment as his farm, while the environmentalist looks at it all."

"The farmer can be sold on nutrient management if he understands the bottom line and the impact on the farm environment. There has to be a benefit (to the farmer) on those two issues," he said.

He suggested redesigned educational efforts to focus not on something as abstract to the average landowner as saving the bay, but rather to focus on the benefits on the farm of nutrient management.

And, referring to those who seek to save the overall environment, Peechatka said, "We have to educate ourselves as to what their goals and missions are."

Also, since "funds are going to very limited, we have to target high priority areas. The funds should be used for edcuation and for installation of equipment."

Bruce Limpert, director of financial services with Wenger's Feed Mill, did provide specifics, but rather called on the industry to use the capitalistic and competitive spirit to combat unmanaged nutrients. He tempered that with saying that cooperation is also needed and can be done.

From a business point of view, he said that individuals within the industry need to identify where they are and where they are going to, especially since the farm population is down, the demand for farm products is up, and farm competition is up.

"We need to manage the margins," he said.

Also he called on the industry not to shun those seeking to create an atmosphere of environmentally responsible industry.

"Regulators and advocates must invite us in, and we must be willing to go in while it's early," he said, or else the industry will find itself working under impossible terms and suffering needlessly, all because of a failure to become involved in the democratic process.

In short, he said that if the farmers and industry do not get involved, they will little chance of modifying rules and regulations and of establishing reasonable and still profitable methods of dealing with a problem, whether it is nutrient management or not.

The other speakers addressed similar views and opinions.

normal for the year.) Singel said some counties are about six inches below normal.

According to Peter Ahnert, meteorologist in charge at the Harrisburg office of the National Weather Service, "The long term Palmer Index — a drought index — indicates a moderate drought over basically all of Pennsylvania.

"On the short term, the crop moisture index — an index that shows the crop need verses available water — is a 'minus one' in the lower Susquehanna Valley, and that's the worst area. A 'minus one' means abnormally dry and prospects deteriorating," Ahnert said.

"As far as the forcast goes, here in the lower Susquehanna Valley, the next chance of rain is a 30 percent chance of a shower or thunderstorm on Saturday (today). But again, that's going to be probably scattered . . . we might not get any rain at all," he said.

Through the weekend, Ahnert said chances for precipitation were not good as well as slight for the rest of the week.

Statewide, with all the dryness, most crops are stressed; particularly corn, soybeans, alfalfa, and tobacco.

The vegetable crops, including snap beans, have been brought to a virtual halt in many places for the lack of rain.

Early this week, a cold front remained stationary through the Southeast through the Mid-Atlantic states, dumping some excessive rain amounts along the coastline and in the southeast states.

But agriculture areas in Pennsylvania and surrounding states, including Maryland, Ohio, West Virginia, and New York, only received a sprinkling at best. Areas in northern Lancaster Co. received about 2/10 of an inch. Other areas in Lancaster received about 1 inch.

And this is when the crops need moisture the most.

"All we can hope for is for a few showers to tide us through until a front stays around and it rains for at least a couple of days," said John Yocum of the Penn State southeast research laboratory in Landisville.

Yocum said that corn, alfalfa, and particularly soybean farmers are concerned that not enough rain will cause yield losses. In corn, expected yields, if the drought persists, could total 10 to 20 percent.

If a drought occurs later on, such as it did in 1988 during tassling and pollination of corn, huge losses can occur.

"If we don't get substantial rain within two weeks," Yocum said, "corn stands will be in big trouble."

The rain early in the week was widely scattered and variable — some areas, such as southern Lancaster Co., received up to 2 inches. Eastern Lancaster Co., around New Holland, said Yocum, received up to about an inch.

But according to Mel Brown, Centre Co. agent, farmers will need about 1 inch of water a week to obtain a good stand for any of their crops.

"The farmers who got the first alfalfa cutting early in May got a good cutting," Brown said. But he is recommending to farmers to wait, during the drought conditions, until blossom in order for the plant to build up enough root energy for further cutting.

According to Yocum, alfalfa hay losses have amounted so far to about 1 ton per acre. But the hay crop, if the drought persists, will not dry, it just will not produce enough for a cutting.

And for farmers who haven't planted the soybeans yet, extension agents are asking that farmers avoid planting until substantial rain arrives.

Those who transplanted tobacco late are also seeing their crops wither and die.

For vegetable farmers, most plants, because of their shallow root systems, are under stress, said Yocum. Snap beans cannot root without enough water. The production crops, including corn, can establish themselves under stress because of their deep root systems.

But so can some weeds, according to Brown. "Farmers put on herbicides after an appreciable rainfall," he said. But many of the herbicides have not had time, using moisture, to attack weeds and are still active on the soil.

If a substantial rainfall doesn't come, then "timely showers" will at least hold off a potential drought, said Paul Craig, Dauphin Co. agent.

"Overall, the upper part of the county, the Lykens Valley, is OK," he said. "Armstrong Valley looks OK. Dauphin Co. is in good shape up to this point."

Those who planted early, according to Craig, were spared the effects of a drought. "Timeliness was critical and people who delayed planting, they suffered," he said.

Craig said that the crops need about 1 inch of rain every week to sustain production. But he predicts a 10-15 percent yield reduction in corn.

In York Co., most areas need 5 inches of rain or more to make up the lack of rain.

According to John Rowehl, York extension agent, farmers who want to sidedress nitrogen on the corn should use a dribble application rather than broadcast — if they believe they have to.

Because of the drought, the sidedressing will do little to counteract the already expected 15-20 percent drop in yield potential.

"We really don't know what to say to them that I will be confident will be right because of the lack of rain," said Rowehl.

The northern section of the county received little relief from the rain the past week. Lewisburg, for instance, recorded only about 1/10 of an inch of rain. Western York received about the same amount and only the southern sections "got a little reprieve," said Rowehl.

This year, at planting, conditions were dry for corn, which has little effect on the standability. But in 1988, the drought came later, at the silking and pollinating stages (when the crop needs it the most) and created a 20 to 30 percent yield loss.

Extension agents are recommending that farmers, if they want to help their corn during the drought, cultivate lightly (about 1 inch) to loosen up the soil, help the drier soil act as a mulch, and provide better root aeration. But farmers should be careful not to prune the corn roots.

Other than that, farmers must be patient and hope that rain comes.

"It's on everybody's mind," said Craig. "What me need more than anything is for a two- to three-day front to get here and stay."

There apparently is no area in the state that has been spared some setback in crop production because of the unusual weather.

In Bradford County, with the second highest number of dairy farms in the state, behind Lancaster, the scenario is repeated.

Al Homan, extension agent in Bradford, said Thursday evening that, "Depending on what crops you're looking at, we have a variety of conditions."

He said that, in general, corn planted prior to May 15 has been looking good, until this past week when signs of drought stress began appearing. Corn planted after May 15 hasn't fared as well. He said he saw similar conditions near Bloomsburg about two weeks prior.

"The plant populations are quite low in some fields. The first crop of hay looks good, but the second growth on established hay fields looks very bad. It's not making much regrowth," he said.

Also, first year fields aren't getting too far. "Hay crops planted this spring got off to a good start and made 9 to 12 inches, but now has just stopped growing.

"The oat crop and other forage crops are almost a total loss. It's very poor this spring, because temperatures were quite high early in the year."

He said a few farmers have resorted to irrigation for the first time. Some are watering orchards, others are trying to get water to their hay or corn.

THIS WEEK

-Members of the Lancaster County 4-H council Thursday evening elected Donald Trimble and Joyce Denlinger presidents of the agriculture and home economics sections respectively.

Trimble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Trimble, Quarryville R1, was a leader at the state 4-H club congress last year and was elected to the county council by the Drumore community club. He succeeds Darvin Boyd, Ephrata.

Miss Denlinger is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Denlinger, 602 Enfield Drive, and represents the Conestoga sewing club on the council. She replaces Londa Boyd, Manheim R4.

-Other agriculture council officers elected:

David Lapp, Bareville R1, vice president; Mary Jane Herr, Refton, secretary; Wilbur Hossler, Manheim R3, treasurer; Jean Miller, Elizabethtown R1, parliamentarian; Elvin Hess, Bareville R1, publicity director and Paul Trimble, Quarryville R1; Richard Leaman, 2554 Creek Hill Road; David Denlinger of 2351 Horseshoe Rd., and Wilmer Wenger, 76 Greenfield Rd., members-at-large.

Other home economics council officers:

Lois Overgaard, Lancaster R4, vice president; Londa Boyd, Manheim R4, secretary; Sue Eshleman, Mount Joy, treasurer; Judy Stauffer of Manheim R3, parliamentarian; Nancy Keener, Manheim R3, publicity director, and Barbara Gamble, Columbia R2; Judy Warfel, Conestoga R1; Ellen Overgaard, Lancaster R4, and Mary Ann Johnson, Quarryville R2, members-at-large.

-Thirty-one Lancaster County 4-H club members, along with four leaders and junior leaders, will treck to the Pennsylvania State University next week to participate in the annual State Club Congress.

Until last year 4-H club week at the University included judging contests and demonstrations by University personnel, as well as leadership acitivites by club members.

Two Lancaster County 4-H members who attended club congress last year have been invited back in "Club 30" to act as junior leaders for the organization.

They are Lois Ann Overgaard of Lancaster R4 and Donald Trimble, Quarryville R1, but because of injuries sustained this week in an auto accident Miss Overgaard will be unable to attend.

Mrs. C. Warren Leininger, Denver R2 and Winthrop Merriam, assistant county agent, will chaperone the county contingent.

Mary Jane Kreider, Manheim R3; Mary Jane Myers, Mt. Joy R1; Catherine Rendler, New Providence R1; Carl Ann Krantz, New Providence R1; Mary Anne Johnson, Quarryville R2, Joanne Newcomer, Box 121 Mount Joy R1.

Also Marilyn Peifer, Box 16, Witmer; Phyllis Landis, 172 Oakview Road, Lancaster R4; Sara Eshleman, Box 275 Mt. Joy; Virginia Wivell, Columbia R1; Barbara Gamble, Columbia R2; Alta Groff, Lincoln; C. Jane Henry, New Providence R1.

Also Bonnie Sheaffer of Kinzers R1; Cynthia Bucher, Lititz R2; Sandy Davis, Kinzers R1; Elaine Stoltzfus, Ronks R1; Janet Frey, Marietta R1; Stephen Martin, Drumore R1; Gerald Kreider, Quarryville R1.

Also Jerry Snader, Ephrata R1; Jay Foreman, Lititz R1; Eugene Hosler, Manheim R3; Harold Hess, Manheim R3; David Denlinger, 2351 Horseshoe Road, Lancaster; Wilmer Wenger, 76 Greenfield Rd., Lancaster; Paul Welk, Strasburg R1; Harvey Heller, 751 Willow Rd., Lancaster, and Robert Hollinger, Lititz R4.

Soviet Credit Vital To American Ag

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — U.S. soybean farmers are hailing President Bush's announcement yesterday of the extension of $1.5 billion of agricultural credit guarantees to the Soviet Union as a vital step forward for American agriculture.

"The Soviet Union is the number one foreign customer for U.S. soybean meal, taking almost one-third of our total exports last year," said American Soybean Association President Merle N. McCann. "However, without the credit guarantees, the Soviets have been unable to purchase the much-needed protein supply that will bolster both their poultry and livestock industries."

McCann said that the Soviet broiler and egg industries have been particularly hard hit by shortages of soybean meal. "The shortages have resulted in emergency slaughterings, which, in turn, have caused shortages of eggs and broiler meat in many areas of the USSR."

Soviet purchases of U.S. agricultural products has declined in recent months due to the lack of credit. The decline in Soviet purchases has been a key factor in the weakness in the soybean market in recent months, McCann said.

"Soybean farmers are delighted with the President's decision," he said. "The credit guarantees are good, both for American soybean farmers and for the citizens of the Soviet Union."

state, Phil Wagner, dairy extension agent for Franklin County (the state's third largest dairy county), said, "It's getting worse as the days go on.

"We had some scattered showers. We got a few showers in a couple parts of the county. Some even got seven-tenths (of an inch), some got a tenth. Some didn't get any. Overall we're pretty dry.

"There's soybean lying in the ground that hasn't come up. On the shallower soils — they're really looking pretty rugged — the corn or alfalfa on some of those there's little or nothing. It's burning up.

"On the good soils, in general there's a second cutting there, but it's quite reduced ... it has bloomed out many days ahead of what it normally would."

Sponsors Seek Young Farm Couple For Award

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Sponsors of the Leo Briggs Memorial are seeking to award a young farm couple with a fully- sponsored trip to the United Dairy Industry Association's Annual Meeting.

This year's couple will travel to San Antonio, Texas, on Sept. 10-11.

The Briggs Memorial Award was established in 1983 following the untimely death of Leo Briggs. Mr. Briggs was a dairy industry leader both regionally and nationally, heavily involved in milk promotion and the cooperative effort.

The goal of this memorial in his honor is to encourage interest and involvement in dairy promotion among young farm families.

To qualify for the award, nominees must be a member of a dairy cooperative.

In order to apply, a letter of support must be submitted by the applicant's cooperative. In addition, each couple applying must write a letter relaying their reasons for wishing to receive the award as well as a description of their farm background.

To be considered for nomination, applicants must be 35 years of age or under and must ship milk within Federal Order 2 or the New York State Order.

The deadline for entries is July 25. They should be sent to: Leo Briggs-Memorial, Mr. Rick Naczi, American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc., 472 South Salina Street, Syracuse, New York, 13202 or fax it to American Dairy Association and Dairy Council (ADADC) at (315) 472-0506.

The committee is also looking for corporate and/or individual sponsorships in order to help continue the award.

Spiraling travel fees make it difficult to continue the awards program based on initial contributions from 1983. Contributions can be mailed to the same address listed above. Checks should be made payable to: Leo Briggs Memorial Scholarship.

The program is currently being administered through the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council.

The awards committee includes: Ron Harris, committee chairman, American Dairy Association and Dairy Council; Jim Patsos, United Dairy Services; and Leila Briggs, widow of Leo Briggs.

For further information on the award, call ADADC at (315) 472-9143. ADADC is a dairy marketing association funded by dairy producers from New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Grange Applauds Dairy Price Support

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania State Grange is pleased with the recent announcement by the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board (PMMB) to continue supporting dairy farmers with the over-order price of $1.05 per hundred pounds.

"Even though the Grange testified on behalf of continuing the over-order price of $1.35 per hundredweight (cwt) until December, we are happy that support will continue to be given to dairy farmers," said William Ringler, state master of the Grange.

The over-order price was raised last November to $1.35 from $1.05 because of the increase in fuel prices brought on by the Persian Gulf War.

Since March 1990, the Order 2, Class 1 price of milk dropped close to $4.00 per cwt. This drop from $16.49 to $12.71 per cwt puts the farm price of milk below the cost of production which makes the over-order price necessary, according to Ringler.

"I'm sure dairy farmers around the state are relieved with the PMMB's decision," Ringler said. "With increases of 6 percent for labor, 10 percent for gasoline, and 24 percent for fertilizers, the dairy farmer needs as much assistance as he can get."

The Grange is a fraternal organization voicing the opinions of farmers and rural people in Pennsylvania. With membership of 40,000 in the state and 325,000 nationwide, the Grange is one of the largest farming and rural organizations in the country.

Soil Seminar Mid-July

DILLSBURG (York Co.) — The annual Soil and Conservation Seminar scheduled for July 18-20 will be held at The New Villa Inn in New Cumberland, Pa. It will feature several prominent speakers for biological farming.

The featured speakers for Thursday, July 18 will be William Holmburg, an energy and environmental consultant from Washington, D.C., and Taze L. Senn, professor of horticulture from Clemson University, Clemson, S.C.

The featured speakers for Friday, July 19 will be Neal Knisey, of Kinsey's Agriculture Services, Charleston, Mo. and Dr. Akhtar Khwaja, of K-Ag Laboratories International, Inc. Oshkosh, Wis.

Featured speakers for Saturday, July 20 will be Dr. Daniel Skow of International Ag Labs, Inc. Fairmont, Minn., and the editor of "Acres USA," Charles (Chuck) Walters Kansas City, Mo.

The conference is sponsored by J&J Agri-Products & Services, Inc., 220 South Second St., Dillsburg, PA 17019.

For further information, call (800) 233-0138. Seminar fees are $75 per person, $100 per husband and wife.

Don't Blame Your Age For Poor Hearing.

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest hearing aid Beltone has ever developed will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

It's yours for the asking, so send for it now. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. The actual aid weighs less than an eighth of an ounce, and it fits completely into the ear canal.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Although a hearing aid may not help everyone, more and more people with hearing losses are being helped. Use SCC Report For Udder Health

LARRY HUTCHENSON, D.V.M.
CAROLYN BURNS
Extension Service

The most common and most costly disease in the dairy industry is mastitis. Many dairy producers do not realize how much mastitis is actually in their herd and what this disease is costing them. The loss to the dairy industry in Pennsylvania is estimated at more than $100 million. Most of this loss is attributed to subclinical mastitis.

Mastitis is an inflammation of the mammary gland (udder) usually caused by a bacterial infection. There are at least 80 different species of bacteria that can cause mastitis. Recognition of clinical mastitis is relatively easy. Infected quarters become hard and swollen, and are often warm and sensitive when touched. Frequently, the milk looks abnormal. It can be watery and contain flakes or clots. Unfortunately clinical mastitis makes up only 2-3% of the cases of mastitis in the herd at any one time.

The remaining cases of mastitis often go undetected because the udder and the milk are visibly normal. For every case of clinical mastitis seen, there can be many more subclinical cases in the herd at the same time. These hidden infections can be the source of new infections. Subclinical mastitis destroys milk secreting cells thus reducing milk production. Therefore, it is imperative to find some means of locating cows with subclinical mastitis.

Somatic cell counts (SCC) can be used to monitor udder health. The term somatic cells is derived from the Greek word meaning body (soma). Somatic cells come from the cow's body. They are comprised of white blood cells, mostly polymorphonuclear leukocytes which respond to infections.

Bacteria invading the udder produce toxins. The toxins cause irritating reactions to the milk producing tissues. An increased number of somatic cells are released in response to the irritation. These cells are a natural means for the cow to fight infection. As the degree of infection increases, the number of somatic cells that are released also increases.

The Dairy Herd Improvement laboratory has the means to accurately determine numbers of somatic cells that are present in a sample of milk. The automatic electronic cell counter reports the somatic cell as the Log_2. To simplify reporting, scale was modified to the linear score (LS) based on a scale of 0-9. For each increase, the number of somatic cells double. To give a more accurate representation of the somatic cell count, the LS readings are given in tenths.

The linear scores are grouped in a manner depicting the severity of mastitis. Scores of 0-2 are the most desirable. Scores greater than 4 indicates a high probability of a bacterial infection. Cows with LS of 4-6 should be considered as candidates for subclinical mastitis. Some cow may even show signs of clinical mastitis with a LS of 4. Although there is no set cutoff which denotes subclinical and clinical mastitis, LS of 7-9 are considered to be the most serious.

Numerous research studies have been completed which determine that relationship of milk production, mastitis and scc. As the scc increases, the infection rate increases and milk yield decreases. With each increase in linear score, the cell count doubles and milk production decreases accordingly. For each increase of one linear score, the average loss is 1.5 pounds of milk per cow per day for cows with multiple lactations. For first calf heifers the milk production loss is estimated at 0.75 pounds per day per cow. This loss in milk production adds up over time, especially when many cows in the herd have higher linear scores.

Much information about your herd's performance can be gained when reviewing the sheet titled PENNSYLVANIA DHIA SCC MANAGEMENT REPORT.

RAW SCC and MEAN LS: The effectiveness of your mastitis control program can be summed up by evaluating the Raw SCC and the Mean LS. The Raw SCC is calculated by multiplying the scc times the pounds of milk produced, then divided by the number of milking cows. The Raw SCC is converted into the Mean LS.

Raw SCC is not a true average of the herd's scc, but weighted by milk production. Therefore, it can give an indication of milk quality. The Raw SCC will be different from your bulk tank count because not all milk may be going into the bulk tank. Some milk may be withheld because of treatment or other reasons.

LOSSES DUE TO HIGH SCC LEVELS: Producers need to be concerned about what mastitis is costing them in lost milk production. Losses due to high SCC levels spells out how milk was not produced by your cows this month and how much this affected your milk check.

CURRENT INFECTION STATUS offers another way of looking at your herd's mastitis situation. The cows are subdivided into first lactation and multiple lactation groups. It is important to understand each category.

New listing will be any cow with a LS of 4 or higher for the first time during this lactation. Cows with a current infection have LS of 4 of higher this month. This will include the new cows. Chronic cows have LS if 4 or higher for two months. They may not necessarily be consecutive months, nor do they need to be a current infection. Since a cow can be entered in one or more categories, the numbers will not need to add logically.

USING AGE AND STAGE OF LACTATION TO HELP CONTROL MASTITIS PROBLEMS.

Since heifers should not be exposed to the organisms causing mastitis before freshening, their LS should be low. Hopefully only a few cows in this group will become infected during their first lactation.

Exposure to organisms causing mastitis increases throughout the lactation period. Infection rates often increase after 200 to 250 days in milk. Increase in LS at this time is due to a mastitis infection and not a decrease in milk production. When setting up a mastitis control program, set herd goals. A high percentage of your cow should have LS below 4. A very small percentage should have LS above 6 or 7. If you have a small herd, one cow with a high LS can throw the percentages off. Another way to set your mastitis control goals is by planning to cut your Raw SCC in half every year. For farms with a moderate to high Raw SCC, this goal should be easy to achieve. Remember, efforts to lower an already low Raw SCC will mean more milk going into your bulk tank.

While trying to understand your herd's mastitis problem, you need to look for patterns that have been set by your herd. This means looking at information on individuals cows. This is found on the report named COWS WITH HIGHEST LINEAR SCC THIS MONTH.

Of all that is on this sheet, three columns will offer the most information concerning what led to this month's mastitis problem. They are the %-Bulk Tank, Times Severe, and Date First Infected.

When thinking of milk quality, you need to know what animals are putting the most somatic cells in the tank. This is true especially if you're close to losing or have lost your premium. On this sheet, cows are listed in descending order by their Testday SCC Linear Score. The % Bulk Tank gives the percentage of cells high scc cows are contributing to the bulk tank. It may be desireable to withhold milk from high scc cows until their count is lowered.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's this week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Corn, No. 2y - 2.70 BU. 4.83 CWT.

Wheat, No. 2 - 2.64 BU. 4.73 CWT.

Barley, No. 3 - 1.75 BU. 3.13 CWT.

Oats, No. 2 - 1.41 BU. 2.52 CWT.

Soybeans, No. 1 - 5.60 BU. 10.02 CWT.

New Ear Corn - 67.95 BU. 3.40 CWT.

Alfalfa Hay - 89.00 BU. 4.45 CWT.

Mixed Hay - 76.00 BU. 3.80 CWT.

Timothy Hay - 73.00 BU. 3.70 CWT.

How Does Your Herd Compare?

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — This data is pulled from Pennsylvania DHIA's mainframe computer each week. It is a one-week summary representing approximately one-fourth of the herds on test, as they are tested monthly.

These data are valuable from a business management standpoint and can be used for comparing your operations to the averages from almost 1,400 herds across the state.

Pa DHIA Board Approves Mainframe Computer Purchase

New Mainframe Computer Planned

The PA DHIA Board approved the purchase of a new IBM mainframe computer and associated equipment at the April 1991 board meeting. The new system, an IBM model 9221, will replace the IBM model 4361 system that the association purchased in 1986.

The new system provides many advantages. It is considerably smaller and can be housed in the DHIA Service Center instead of Penn State facilities which will greatly improve programming productivity. In addition, it consumes one-third the electricity of the 4361 and does not require the machine room environmental conditions common to other mainframe computers like the 4361.

Along with the 9221 will come a high speed laser printer that will allow the association to convert all preprinted report formats to laser forms. This money saving feature, along with other advantages, will result in dollar savings for data processing over the life of the new system, while at the same time providing more flexibility.

This is a big and important advancement for the association.

your mastitis problems, look at the date of first infection column. Determine what months had the most numbers of new infections. During these times something caused a breakdown in your mastitis control program. Ask yourself several questions. Was there a new milker? Were some milking procedures changed? Was there a breakdown in the milking equipment? Was a newly purchased cow added to the herd that could have brought in contagious organisms? Or can it all be blamed on the weather? Now that you have an idea where the breakdown occurred, make changes to correct or prevent them from happening again.

By looking at how many times a cow was severe during her lactation will help in deciding her disposition. She will be listed as severe each time her LS is 4 and above. Of course deciding to cull her or to dry her off early will depend upon several factors. Her age or numbers of lactations, and if she is confirmed pregnant are just a few considerations.

To be able to fight mastitis successfully, knowing what bacteria is causing problems is helpful. Have your veterinarian or a trained person take aseptic milk samples from a representative group of cows with SCC scores 5 or higher. These cows should not have been treated for at least 5 days prior to sampling. Samples should be cultured to learn what organisms are causing the mastitis. They should also be checked for antibiotic resistance to determine the best drug therapy.

In summary, what you can learn from the individual Cow SCC can give you an idea on how to lower your herd's Raw SCC and Mean LS. By finding chronically infected cows, management procedures can be practiced to help meet your goals.

1. Milk high SCC cows last.
2. Dry high scc cows off early.
3. Don't put milk from high SCC cows in the bulk tank, especially if close to losing premium.
4. Don't buy mastitis. Check SCC before purchasing. SCC should be less than 4.

CHECK LIST THAT HELPS TO LOWER SCC.

1. Have all milking equipment checked by a qualified service person twice a year.
2. Use good milking hygiene when prepping before milking. Use single service paper towels to wash teats.
3. Dip all teats after milking.
4. Dry treat all quarters when cows are dried off.
5. Keep udders clean between milkings.
6. Prevent injuries to udder and teats.
7. Cull chronic problem cows who don't respond to treatment.
8. Keep housing and loafing areas clean.
9. Identify predominant organisms causing mastitis in herd by culturing.

Rural Theft Increases

a low boy truck to get my tractor.

"My neighbors advised me not to prosecute, but I went ahead anyway. We finally got the thief into the court room and then settled out of court for $1500."

While many farmers, like Robinson's neighbors, fear reprisal if they report and prosecute thieves, an enforcement officer said it doesn't work that way. The officer said that if you let the thief go, he'll do it again. If you prosecute him, you let him know you know who he is and he becomes the suspect for any other crime in the area.

Barbara Woodruff, Penn State extension community development director, who works out of Lewistown in Mifflin County, said that for machinery, thieves often use a flat bed truck to pick up equipment parked away from the farm buildings. "The truck may even have a fake farm equipment dealer's name on the cab door," Woodruff said. "For cattle, the thieves use a cattle truck, drop the tail gate and shove the animals onto the truck. Young animals like calves, colts and lambs are prime targets."

Within the past few weeks an Amish farmer in southern Lancaster County reported four Holstein calves missing from their hutches. In Franklin County, farmers have had a series of thefts, many related to the milk house facilities.

Douglas Reinhart farms on the outskirts of Chambersburg. "This was the worst week of my life," Reinhart said. "The milk inspector called and said we had contaminated a compartment on the milk tank truck. I said that could not be, because we had no treated animals on the farm."

But when every animal in Reinhart's 160-head Jersey herd was tested, three cows had been mysteriously treated with antibiotics and were contaminating the milk in the bulk tank. Tools were also stolen from the farm shop and two hydraulic cylinders were taken from the corn and hay choppers.

"These cylinders were taken from equipment sitting right behind the barn," Reinhart said. "It had to be done by someone who knew something about farming."

John Shearer, Franklin County agent, said dairy farmers in his county have experienced a series of incidents where six or eight bulk tanks on that many farms were contaminated. In every case the vandalism was done by someone who knows something about the items around the milk house.

Dr. Arthur Cosby, Mississippi State University, has studied rural crime as part of his work in the sociology department. Cosby said pesticides and ag chemicals are prime targets of theft because of their small volume and high value. He said a real problem exists because items around the farm lack serial numbers and other means of identification.

For Benjamin Shank, Holtwood, in Lancaster County, his Farmall M that disappeared from the same field where his son was raking hay is very identifiable because it is an antique. "Some guys like the old tractors because they worked with them as boys," Shank said.

But Shank's antique tractor was driven out of the field in broad daylight and has not been seen again. "I still half believe that a kid drove it off and left it in the woods," Shank said. "It's worth more as an antique than any real field work value."

To solve a rural theft crime, you need to be able to give positive identification of the items that are stolen. Woodruff suggests that you mark tools with spray paint. Spray the handles with fluorescent green or yellow and stick your thumb print in the wet paint. In addition, you can chisel marks or drill holes in the frame of your larger equipment. Then tell the local police how you have marked your tools and equipment.

The Michigan Crime Prevention Center says farmers should install high-efficiency lighting systems in areas where equipment will be stored and they should keep valuable supplies and small animals visible from the house.

If you must leave your heavy equipment in the field, make sure you park it where it's readily visible from the neighbor's house. Work out some arrangement whereby you can park tractors, combines, and other valuable equipment in each other's yards.

Use a small out-building or corner of the barn for storing maintenance equipment, tools, fertilizers, and other easily moveable belongings. The solid core door with a dead-bolt lock or hardened steel alloy hasp and padlock should be visible from your house. The door should open inward so the hinges are not exposed.

Drawn implements, irrigation pumps, and other equipment left outside should be chained and locked securely. Power driven implements should be equipped with hidden ignition kill switches. Remove the distributor rotor to prevent hit-wiring. Keep fencing and gates in good repair and locked.

"Because our only current means of coping with theft is through the police, and because the police are engaged in more serious matters, thieves are having a field day at the expense of farmers," Robinson said. "I suggest that Lancaster Farming create a column of "missing equipment" whereby a theft can be quickly reported throughout the farming community. Thefts would have to be reported by the owner and the report published as soon as possible in order to be effective.

The reports should include a description of the equipment, location, date it was noticed missing, and name and phone number of the owner, together with any reward offered," Robinson said. "Under this scheme, a person spotting a piece of stolen equipment would contact the owner, who in turn would take the matter up with the local police. I believe the police would act quickly if they had good information on which to act. Participation by Lancaster Farming would end with the publication of the reports."

In response to Robinson's comments, and a small survey of other farmers, Lancaster Farming will publish reports of stolen items for farmers and agribusiness free of charge. The owner of the stolen item should call the news department as soon as possible after the item has been reported missing to the local police. Be prepared to give the name, identification and or description of the item and any reward for its recovery. The notice will be run for several weeks to help alert those who may unwittingly purchase the stolen goods and to help the owner to recover stolen property. A sample of the column is published with this story.

Hopefully you will not need the service, but if you do, we're here to help.

• Douglas Reinhart, Chambersburg, Franklin County, had farm tools taken from his farm shop and two hydraulic cylinders removed from corn and hay choppers. Milk was also contaminated in the bulk tank. Anyone with information about this crime should call (717) 261-0927.

• Benjamin Shank, Holtwood, Lancaster County, had a Farmall M antique tractor driven out of the field in broad daylight. He thinks it may have been driven into the woods and left set. Anyone with information about this crime should call (717) 284-4820.

• Frank Robinson, Bowie, Maryland, had a tractor and chisel plow stolen on a Sunday morning. He has recovered the tractor but the plow is still missing. Anyone with information about this crime should call (301) 262-9037.

Damper Floats In Air When Fan Is On

WILLOW STREET (Lancaster Co.) — Roof vents have been built the same way for many years. But Airstream division of GSI offers a more efficient, revolutionary concept in vent design.

"Auto-vent," an exclusive GSI design, uses a wing-shaped damper that actually floats in the air when the aeration fan is on. The damper prevents "plugging" and air restrictions.

The vent drops down and closes when the fan is not in operation. With this feature, the wind on the outside forces up against the damper, making it close tighter.

Unlike conventional vents, this prevents wind, snow, birds, etc. from entering. If a totally closed damper is not desired, or if downdraft aeration is going to be used, a hinged wire grill is available.

June Dairy Month

June 14, 1991 - The best news for June Dairy Month is an increase of 19 cents in the Minnesota-Wisconsin Price Series for May, right in the middle of what we used to call the spring flush. This puts it up to $10.23 with more to come in June and July by which time the "normal" seasonal increases will begin. Much of the credit again goes to increasing cheese prices that started going up the first week of May. From $1.05 a pound for barrels on the National Cheese Exchange on April 26 the price has increased steadily to $1.15 on June 14 with no end in sight. That's a total of 10 cents higher in just seven weeks. So far you've only seen the increases up to May 15 in the M - W price but the rest will be coming in June. This is a lot more than expected and reflects a declining milk supply brought on by higher cow prices and lower milk prices. Nationally for April milk production was almost back to 1990 levels.

And that's not all. Powder prices have firmed up also and gained over three cents a pound in May. If that's not enough, even butter prices last week increased from three to eight cents depending on the grade. This brought butter prices up to the support price for the first time this year. Putting it all together it means higher prices at the time of the year when you least expect them. It also changes most predictions for milk prices this year. When the M - W dropped $2.31 from September to December last year most forecasts indicated we would only get back about half of that this year. Now the 10 cent increase in cheese prices plus the increases in powder and butter could be worth a dollar a hundred by mid summer with room for more improvement in the fall and winter.

Farm Prices

However, all of that is in the future except for the Class III price. Mainly your blend price in May comes from the M - W in March when it was only $10.02 and starting on its way up. With the new provisions for three classes of milk in Orders 2 and 4 it's interesting to note that when the M - W takes a sudden jump like this month, the Class III price is higher than the Class II price. That's good now because over 45 percent of the milk in Order 2 is Class III and only 17 percent is Class II for May. The Class II price was $10.01 and the Class III price was $10.11 if you're interested.

All this adds up to a Uniform or blend price of $10.84 for Order 2 in May. That's only three cents more than last month but with the 40 cent suspension in the Louisville Plan it's $1.99 under last year. May was the low month for the Class I price at $12.44 but this will go to $12.65 by July. I realize it isn't going up as fast as it went down but at least it's going up in the Spring.

Pennsylvania Premium

This week the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board reduced its over order premium from $1.35 to $1.05 a hundred on Class I milk but extended it for a year to June 1992. Other states have now taken action to collect Class I premiums and include Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine, Massachusetts, New Jersey and New York. New York set a minimum Class I price of $13.85 for June milk but most of the other states have chosen to add $1.39 over the Federal Order Class I price.

Not all of these are in place yet and may be challenged by law suits regarding the collection of compensatory payments by handlers on out of state milk. Even national legislation has been considered that would limit the participants in federal programs for producers getting over order premiums through state marketing orders. Watch for developments.

Study Completed

The USDA study of dairy supply management programs was completed last month and their report goes to Congress this week. Meetings of the House Agriculture Committee on June 18 and the Senate Agriculture Committee the next day will provide the first solid indications of what may be expected. The USDA study report was just a report and did not include anything to indicate a preference for any particular program. The report has been criticized for some of the base line data used in their projections of the impact of each program on producers and consumers but the decisions on what to recommend to the Congress are now in the hands of the agriculture committees of each chamber.

However, markup of the bills for each committee is scheduled for the following week on June 25 and 26 so you'll know a lot more by the end of the month. Just remember that this is only the first step toward passage of any new legislation and, depending on what is proposed, may not get to a final vote until the Fall when Congress returns from its summer recess. Speculation on what will be proposed that can get approved by the Congress without the risk of a Presidential veto will be interesting but don't be surprised if you don't get as much as you hoped for. Just pray that you get something because, once again as in the past, there's little consensus among producers and organizations on the smorgasbord of proposals that will be submitted.

In addition to what the agriculture committees may find in the USDA report some legislators and the National Milk Producers Federation, as well as other groups, used the opportunity before the June 15 deadline for the report, to make proposals of their own. Among these you can find a partial herd buyout program; increasing the minimum solids in milk; limiting Commodity Credit Corporation purchases; a producer board to market surplus dairy products and removal of the requirement for cross compliance in conservation plans that is required in all other government programs in agriculture.

How's Your AD-1026

Speaking of cross compliance the ASCS Form AD-1026 is the certification that you are in compliance with the sod buster program and eligible for a five cent refund for 1991 if you don't produce any more milk than you did in 1990. That nickel may not be worth having but if you think you really want it don't wait for Congress to exempt dairymen because it may not happen. The argument is that all other farmers have to live with it so why not dairymen?

That form AD-1026 must be completed each year to stay in compliance. If you never filed one then check at your county ASCS office. Right now they're acting like it will be required and putting it in their newsletters.

The first requirement is a Conservation Plan from Soil Conservation Service by 1991 that's implemented by the end of 1994. Depending on your farming practices you may not have to make many changes but you must, at least, have a plan this year even if the changes can't be made until next year. Funds for cost sharing conservation practices are also dwindling and that may be another reason to make a move now if you want to be in compliance in the future.

Holstein Association Advertising Opportunity

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Holstein Association is planning a new advertising opportunity for it's members and others — a membership directory.

The association is putting together a membership directory with featured advertising throughout. According to association officials, it will be an excellent publication to promote breeding programs, long range herd goals, or products for dairymen.

The last time the association published a membership directory was in 1986. The publication does last and is used regularly by many people.

The cost for a full-page ad is $300, plus extra feature costs.

If you would like to be involved in this promotional program, please contact the Pa. Holstein Association by June 24. Write to either the 839 Benner Pike, State College, Pa., 16801, or (814) 234-0364.

The is your opportunity to promote your herd or products on a long term basis to a progressive audience of dairymen.

Heifer Comfort, Cleanliness Paves Way For Improved Production

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

MOUNT AETNA (Berks Co.) — For Donald Landis, finding a new heifer barn was a matter of looking into a lot of things.

A combination of ideas "from here and there" were put together to create a work of dairy farming art.

The new heifer facility on Spring Breeze Dairy Farm is modified Virginia-style, without the short roof and the slight slope. When time came to construct it, he revised some of the original plans — instead of the 1-inch per foot requirement of most designs, Landis went to 2 inches. And Landis lengthened the roof to provide more shade in the summer and allow better heating for heifer warmth in the winter.

Altogether, the heifers are more comfortable — which may translate into better milking and more dairy profitability for the Berks Co. dairy farmer.

Several improvements

Landis has made several major improvements to his 222-acre Dairy of Distinction farm (in addition, Landis rents another 180 acres of land for cropping). He grows most of his own feed and, together with his son Tom, manages about 135 head of registered Holstein and 120 replacement heifers and calves.

Although the milking averages have not been up to par, according to Landis, (about 16,400 pounds for the herd), a combination of feed improvements and a total mixed rations system is slowing bringing it up to satisfactory levels.

A big change in the operation came last December, when the new heifer barn was completed.

"We kept looking around and we saw one with pits underneath them," said Landis. "The reason for the high roof is that, in the winter, the sun will shine the whole way back there, and heat it up."

Seven heifers to pen

In the summer, the roof overhangs enough to prevent sun from heating up the steel pens and concrete housing that went into the construction of the 285 foot long building. There are seven heifers to a pen — they are placed in the first pen at one day old and are rotated up the line until they are two years old. Then, they are moved to the main freestalls.

The slope of 2 inches per foot provides more of an angle for gravity and footwork to push the manure through slats, down eight feet. After the pit fills, a valve is opened and, in minutes, gravity pushes the manure into the huge manure pit outside. It takes only about 18 minutes until the manure is entirely emptied into the large pit.

The pit is eight feet deep, 12 feet wide, and runs the entire length of the facility. The pens allow more comfort and cleanliness for the heifers.

"Naturally, the more comfortable they are, the better they're going to do for you," he said.

Other projects

Landis has completed several other projects to add to heifer comfort and efficiency. In addition to the installation of a circular milking parlor, about three years ago a heifer fan and sprinkler system were installed.

The barn itself provides a great deal of cooling for the heifers on hot summer days. But the sprinkling system can sprinkle about 60 heifers at a time on one side before water pressure is switched to the other side every five minutes. The fans run constantly.

Landis said that when the temperature outside is 40 degrees, to a heifer, it feels like it would to a person at 70 degrees. So if the outside temperature is 90 degrees, "why, you can imagine what the heifer feels like," he said. "So anything you can do to cool them off will make them more comfortable and hopefully produce more milk."

Landis also uses corn fodder for bedding. They chop the fodder in the fall, put it into a pile like silage, rake it, chop it with a forage harvester, put it in a pile, and cover it in plastic. Used fodder is then

FOR THE WEEK ENDING JUNE 16

EXCELLENT WEEK FOR FIELDWORK: Hot and dry conditions continue to plague crop production across most of the Commonwealth. Little relief occurred over the past week. A front passed through the state at midweek, delivering rain in varying amounts. Respondents to our survey indicated that 6 days were suitable for field work. Activities for the week included repairing fence; hauling manure; harvesting hay, haylage, small grains and vegetables; maintaining machinery; spring planting; and caring for livestock.

SOIL MOISTURE: By week's end, topsoil moisture was rated short by 91 percent of our respondents and 9 percent rated it adequate. In the northern region, 90 percent rated it short and 10 percent rated it adequate. In the central region, 91 percent of our respondents rated soil moisture short and 9 percent rated it adequate. In the southern region, 93 percent of our respondents rated soil moisture short and 7 percent rated it as adequate.

CORN: The corn crop throughout the commonwealth was 98 percent planted by week's end. Last year at this time, 91 percent was planted with a five-year average of 92 percent. Planting completion by region were northern region-95 percent; central region-97 percent; and southern region-100 percent. The condition of the corn crop was rated as 10 percent excellent, 38 percent good, 33 percent fair, 16 percent poor, and 3 percent very poor.

SOYBEANS: Pennsylvania's soybean planting was 88 percent complete by week's end. As of this date last year, 72 percent was planted, and the five-year average was 72 percent. Planting was 92 percent completed in the northern region, 88 percent complete in the central region, and 85 percent completed in the southern region. Last week's soybean condition was rated 6 percent excellent, 38 percent good, 38 percent fair, 14 percent poor, and 4 percent very poor.

OATS: Ninety-one percent of the Commonwealth's oats was in the heading stage, 8 percent was in the turning yellow stage, and 1 percent was ripe. Last year at this time, 6 percent of the oats crop was in the boot stage and 94 percent of the crop was in the heading or headed stage. Oats condition was rated 9 percent excellent, 36 percent good, 34 percent fair, 17 percent poor, and 4 percent very poor.

BARLEY AND WHEAT: Pennsylvania barley was 21 percent heading, 33 percent turning yellow, 26 percent ripe, and 20 percent harvested. At this time last year, the State's barley was 1 percent boot, 48 percent heading, 46 percent turning yellow, and 5 percent ripe. Wheat progress was 48 percent heading, 46 percent turning yellow, 4 percent ripe and 2 percent harvested. Last year's progress was 1, 86, and 13 percent, boot, headed and ripe, respectively. The wheat crop was rated 12 percent excellent, 52 percent good, 30 percent fair, 5 percent poor, and 1 percent very poor.

TOBACCO: Eighty-six percent of the State's tobacco had been transplanted by the end of the week, according to our respondents. Last year at this time, 65 percent of the State's tobacco had been transplanted. The five-year average was 64 percent.

Black, White Show At Plainfield

NAZARETH (Northampton Co.) — The Northampton County extension service recently announced plans for summer dairy shows within the county.

A Holstein-only Black and White Show at Plainfield Fair is scheduled for July 25 at 10 a.m.

A youth show is scheduled for 10 a.m., on July 26 and a 4-H round up is set for August 3, also at 10 a.m.

Additionally, the Blue Valley Youth Show is marked for August 21 at 7:30 p.m.

The Black and White Show carries a $3 entry fee, per animal. Deadline for entry is July 12. Those who wish to enter animals after July 12 can only do so by paying a $5 per animal entry fee.

4-H and FFA exhibitors who will be showing in the black and white show must also pay a $3 entry fee per animal.

Health regulations apply. All exhibitors are to be governed by the "General Rules to Exhibitors" which is published in the Plainfield Farmers Fair book.

Also, the show committee reserve the right to assign barn space.

There are no entry fees for any of the youth shows (unless in the black and white) or the 4-H round up.

Animals showing in the black and white show must arrive no later than 9 p.m. July 24, except that animals that are milking ca arrive by 9 a.m. on show day as long as prior arrangements with management have been made.

Show cattle in milk will be released from the fair grounds to go home after the shows on Thursday or Friday. All animals not milking must stay at the fair grounds until released by the fair committee at 10 p.m. July 27.

Specifics for the Blue Valley Youth Dairy Show are similar to the Black and White, in that governing rules are contained in the general rules, this time published in the Blue Valley Farm Show book.

Also, there is a dress code: All exhibitors must show in white uniform, or a green and white uniform.

Cows entered in the Blue Valley must arrive by 7 p.m. on August 21. All non-milking animals must be at the grounds between 4 p.m. and 9 p.m. on August 20. Also, all animals will be released after the show.

Checks for entry fees to the black and white show should be made payable to the Northampton County Holstein Association.

Best bedding

"I think it's some of the best bedding there is," said Landis. "It really absorbs good. We use it for the calves, too."

Landis enjoys farming, but like many dairy farmers, has to face the lower milk price news everyday. "Right now, the money is the discouraging part," he said. "With all the money we spent and then the milk prices being down the way they are, it's not fair. The money and everything that we have invested and what we get back and the work we have to do."

Landis said the price offered now for milk is equivalent in value to what dairy farmers were getting 17 years ago.

"Well, when you were getting that, you weren't paying for everything that you are now," he said. "Gas was maybe 40 cents a gallon. Equipment — my goodness! — one of my tractors, for a 96-horsepower tractor, (back then) I paid $7,000. Now, for that, you'd pay about $50,000."

Multiple Component Pricing In Order 4 To Bring Gains, Losses

KARL BERGER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A recent decision by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to implement a multiple component pricing system in Federal Order 4 would mean small price gains for roughly half of Middle Atlantic area dairymen and small losses for the other half, according to area cooperative officials familiar with the details of the decision.

The recommended decision, announced in May by Daniel Haley, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, is not final. The department has solicited comments, which it will review before issuing a final decision, probably in early September, according to Constance Brenner, a USDA official. Assuming approval of the revised order by the bloc vote of the cooperatives operating in Order 4, the change would become effective sometime between November and January, she said.

The new system would include the level of nonfat milk solids in the calculation of both producer and processor prices under the order, which regulates milk marketing in the metropolitan areas of Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington, D.C. The current, longstanding system determines prices solely on the basis of volume and butterfat content.

It would be, in the jargon of milk marketing, "revenue neutral." Under the new system, there would be no change in the total amount of money paid by processors to producers, according to Jim Fraher, an economist for Atlantic Dairy Cooperative.

However, farmers whose milk contains more than the average level of nonfat solids in the order stand to gain a few extra cents per hundredweight from implementation while those marketing milk of below-average solids content would lose a few cents. In a study conducted by the Order 4 market administrator's office in March 1988, milk produced by roughly two-thirds of the 6,300 or so regulated dairymen fell within 10 cents of current prices.

"Half will get more; half will get less," said Boyd Cook, general manager of the Middle Atlantic Division of Dairymen Inc.

The nonfat solids provision would work something like the current butterfat differential does. But, Cook noted, the proposed nonfat solids "differential" differs from its butterfat counterpart in that its base point would not remain fixed (as the butterfat base point does at 3.5 percent). Rather, it would fluctuate with the average nonfat solids content of milk pooled in the order, which will tend to vary by season, Cook said.

The change also could affect a couple of cooperative-sponsored premium programs. Atlantic currently segregates a small volume of high solids milk from certain producers to sell to Dietrich's Milk Products Inc., a powder processor. If the order implements multiple component pricing, these farmers would get their premium, in effect, through the order without having to segregate their milk, Fraher said. Dairymen runs a similar program for producers who supply high solids milk to a cheese plant in Hancock, Md. In this case, Cook said, the implementation of the new pricing may not remove the incentive to continue a premium based on protein.

Processors who buy Class I milk for fluid use would not be affected by the change. But handlers buying Class II or III milk for manufactured products would have to take account of nonfat solid levels and pay a premium for shipments of above-average milk.

The change is supported by the four major cooperatives in the market — Atlantic, Dairymen Inc., Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative Association, and Valley of Virginia Cooperative Milk Producers Association — which, together, control more than 90 percent of the order's raw milk supply. And it has elicited little opposition from processors in the market, according to Fraher.

The four cooperatives, under the banner of the Pennmarva Dairymen's Federation, originally requested the multiple component pricing plan in the spring of 1990. USDA officials heard testimony on the issue at a two-day hearing in Philadelphia last summer. The only opposition to the proposal there came from representatives of the National Farmers Organization and two firms, Kraft General Foods and the Dean Foods Company, that buy a small amount of Order 4 milk for cheese production. These witnesses favored the use of protein rather than nonfat solids in any multiple component pricing plan for the Middle Atlantic market.

The Pennmarva proposal is based on a multiple component pricing program in effect in the Great Basin Federal Order in Utah. That plan does use protein rather than nonfat solids as its additional pricing component, but local conditions differ, Fraher noted.

Fraher, who testified for Pennmarva at the Philadelphia hearing, characterized the choice of nonfat milk solids primarily as "a producer distribution issue." Most handlers would find the prices they pay unaffected by the new system, he said. Among local buyers of Class II and III milk, the majority make products, such as milk powder and ice cream, whose yields depend more on nonfat-solids than on protein content. Less than 10 percent of the milk pooled in the order is used in cheese production, for which the yield relationship favors protein.

Under a protein-based system, the spread between "winners" and "losers" would be much wider than it would be under the solids-not-fat standard, Fraher noted. Given the lack of incentive for such a standard from the handlers' perspective, Pennmarva officials could not justify these wider swings in producer returns, he said.

Implementing the multiple component pricing plan will better reflect consumers' preference for lower-fat dairy products, according to Bob Yonkers, a Penn State University economist. The well documented gains in consumption of skim or low-fat dairy products has the effect of boosting the value of the nonfat components of milk, but this increased value generally has not been realized at the farm level.

PennAg Names Scholarship Winners

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — PennAg Industries Association, an Ephrata-based agribusiness trade organization which represents more than 500 firms, has recently announced the winners of its first scholarship awards.

The PennAg Scholarship Fund was created for the benefit of the children of employees of PennAg members. The fund is supported by fund-raising activities, including its "Divots for Degrees" golf tournament, and membership donations.

The 1991 award recipients are Tracey L. Weaver, Brownstown, Pa. and Jennifer R. Leer, Markleton, Pa. Weaver is the daughter of Larry L. and D. Jean Weaver and is a 1991 graduate of Conestoga Valley High School. She wil be attending Millersville University, Millersville, where she will major in elementary education. Leer is the daughter of Benjamin F. and Judith L. Leer and is a 1991 graduate of Rockwood Area Senior High School. Jennifer will be attending Conemaugh Valley Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, Johnstown.

FARM MANAGEMENT

DEBT REPAYMENT CAPACITY

Roland P. Freund
Farm Management Agent

Editor's note: This is the fourth of an eight-article series written by the five southeastern/ central Penn State Extension farm management agents.

Debt management is an important key to the financial success of a business.

Back in your grandpa's day, people viewed debt as evil, and tried to pay it off as quickly as possible. Some who were not able to do so lost everything in the Great Depression.

Twenty years ago, it was suggested that lots of debt was the way to get rich. Recently Donald Trump and others have found that this philosophy can lead to major liquidity (cash flow) problems.

Fortunately there are ways to determine how much debt can be carried by each business operation. But be careful of common "rules of thumb" such as $3,000 per cow. These can be very misleading. To be safe in our estimations, we need to look carefully at our own business records and analyze them.

Tax records are the IRS system of accounting. They pay no attention to your actual or scheduled debt principal payments. In place of these they allow you to claim "depreciation" on some of your capital assets, but never on land. So we need to make some adjustments to our records to see the picture more clearly.

What is available to pay debt?

We can start with net cash farm income. This is calculated as cash farm income (and includes income from routine capital sales such as cull breeding livestock) minus cash operating expenses (without depreciation). To this we should add nonfarm income to calculate cash available. But first the family has to live on this income, so we deduct family living and deduct income tax and social security payments. Now we have cash available for principal payments.

Debt repayments normally include principal plus interest components. So now we must add back from our expense statement the amount of farm interest paid. This is now the amount available for principal and interest payments.

Operating loans

Since line-of-credit and operating loans have payments which must be met, these have to be considered. The operating expenses should account for the principal payments, so we only need to deduct operating loan interest to find out how much is available for our scheduled or amortized debt payments.

When capital items (machinery, etc.) are purchased with operating loans, it throws our accounting system and our formulas into a tither. Because this loan should be repaid in less than one year, we must further reduce the cash available for scheduled payments by the cost of the capital purchase. This often brings up the "sorry, no-can-do" signal.

Capital Leases

Leases of capital assets may bypass the bankers veto, but they still have to be paid. They can be treated as an operating expense, or they can be included with the scheduled debt payments. In both cases they will reduce the amount of money available for debt repayment.

Term Debt and Capital Lease Coverage

If we work through the above computations, we can calculate how much money is available to cover debt and/or lease payments. We can compare this with what is needed to cover these same payments and see if we have enough.

For some reason, analysts like to use ratios. So they divide the payment dollars available by the pay ment dollars required. If this results in a 1:1 ratio, there is no margin for drought, disease, or other management problems. The higher it is, the better.

If the ratio is less than 1:1, then refinancing is a temporary solution possibility. In many cases it may be necessary to liquidate assets to reduce debt.

Capital Replacement and Term Debt Repayment Margin

This is the last of the Farm Financial Standards Task Force's financial measures. It is used to make sure that the business generates enough cash to replace non real-estate capital items (machinery, etc.) as they wear out. Otherwise it will eventually grind to a halt.

To maintain a line of equipment with a 10-year turnover, every year the business should expect that 20 percent of the current market value should be in purchases made in that year. Some items will last longer and some will turn over quicker.

Estimate the replacement needs of your business at somewhere between 10 percent and 20 percent of equipment fair market value. If non real-estate principal payments exceed this amount, then there is enough cash-flow scheduled to cover this level of replacement. If not, the shortfall needs to be added as an additional capital requirement in the cash-flow projection.

The FINPACK long range budget calculates these cash flow, capital replacement, and debt repayment needs very nicely. If you need help with such computations, contact your equal opportunity extension office for farm management assistance.

ULTRAFLO OUT-PERFORMS CHAIN IOWA PROVES IT*

Chore-Time's ULTRAFLO® feeder for layers, pullets and breeders

We have probably been too modest up to now about the merits of our new generation ULTRAFLO® cage feeder vs. the old style chain feeders some of our competitors are still trying to sell you. In fact, the only negative comments about our feeder come from our competition, not our customers. So we would like to point out the bare facts:

FEED SAVINGS: On-farm results show a feed savings of ½ lb. per 100 birds per day – over $10,000 per year savings on a 100,000-bird house Year after year

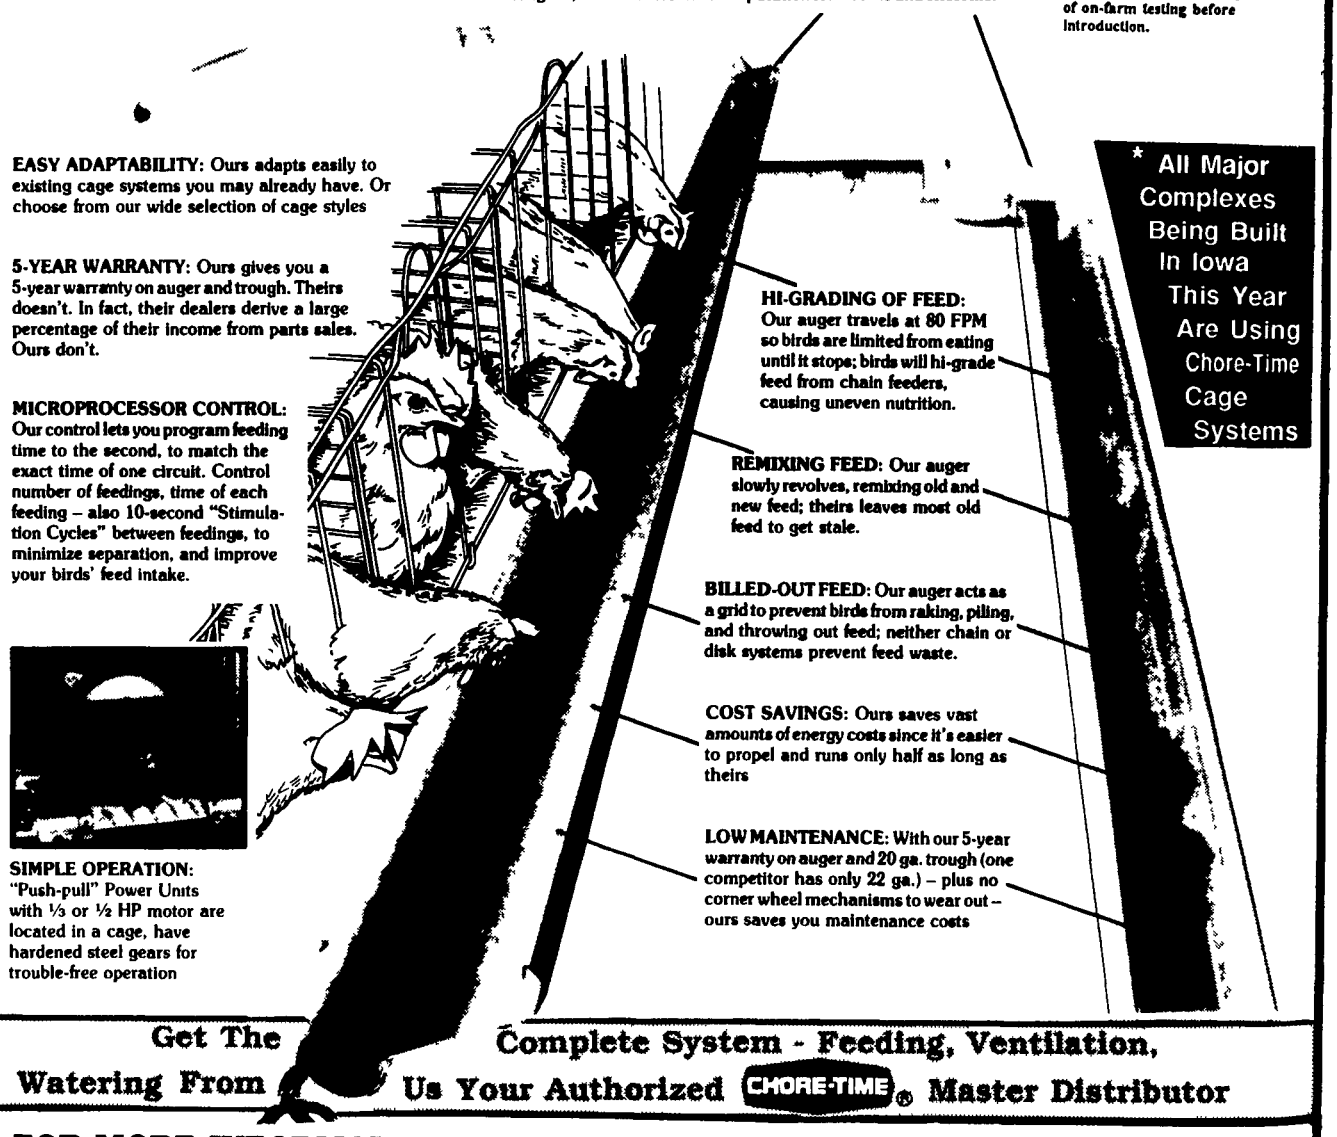
TROUBLE-FREE DESIGN: Our feeder has only two moving parts – the one-piece auger plus each drive wheel; their chain has more. Our corners are heavy 12 ga. zinc plated tubing for long life; their corners have a reputation for trouble and short life.

PROVEN DESIGN: Over 45 million birds are already on our feeder worldwide. Also, it was proven in 5 years of on-farm testing before introduction.

EASY ADAPTABILITY: Ours adapts easily to existing cage systems you may already have. Or choose from our wide selection of cage styles

5-YEAR WARRANTY: Ours gives you a 5-year warranty on auger and trough. Theirs doesn't. In fact, their dealers derive a large percentage of their income from parts sales. Ours don't.

MICROPROCESSOR CONTROL: Our control lets you program feeding time to the second, to match the exact time of one circuit. Control number of feedings, time of each feeding – also 10-second "Stimulation Cycles" between feedings, to minimize separation, and improve your birds' feed intake.



HI-GRADING OF FEED: Our auger travels at 80 FPM so birds are limited from eating until it stops; birds will hi-grade feed from chain feeders, causing uneven nutrition.

REMIXING FEED: Our auger slowly revolves, remixing old and new feed; theirs leaves most old feed to get stale.

BILLED-OUT FEED: Our auger acts as a grid to prevent birds from raking, piling, and throwing out feed; neither chain or disk systems prevent feed waste.

COST SAVINGS: Ours saves vast amounts of energy costs since it's easier to propel and runs only half as long as theirs

LOW MAINTENANCE: With our 5-year warranty on auger and 20 ga. trough (one competitor has only 22 ga.) – plus no corner wheel mechanisms to wear out – ours saves you maintenance costs

SIMPLE OPERATION: "Push-pull" Power Units with ⅓ or ½ HP motor are located in a cage, have hardened steel gears for trouble-free operation

Landhope Farms: We Are The Dairy Of The Future

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

KENNETT SQUARE — Every dairyman has his own idea of the perfect farm, but one farm manager is convinced the reality of his operation is the ideal for the future.

Landhope Farms in Kennett Square is the milk production dairy farm by which others will be modeled, according to farm manager Sam Shotzberger.

"There's no question about it, we intend to be the leaders," Sam said recently.

Landhope Farms is one of two large dairy operations in Chester County. They milk about 400 cows, twice a day. They are about to go on a tree-times-a-day schedule.

"Plans are to eventually go to three-times-a-day milking, and expect about a 15-percent increase in milk production. But we need to add some equipment before doing it. It will be done within the next couple of weeks," he said, adding that they have already hired a man to head the third milking crew.

Currently milking in the double-10 parlor is done with three cow groups — high producing, middle producing and low producing.

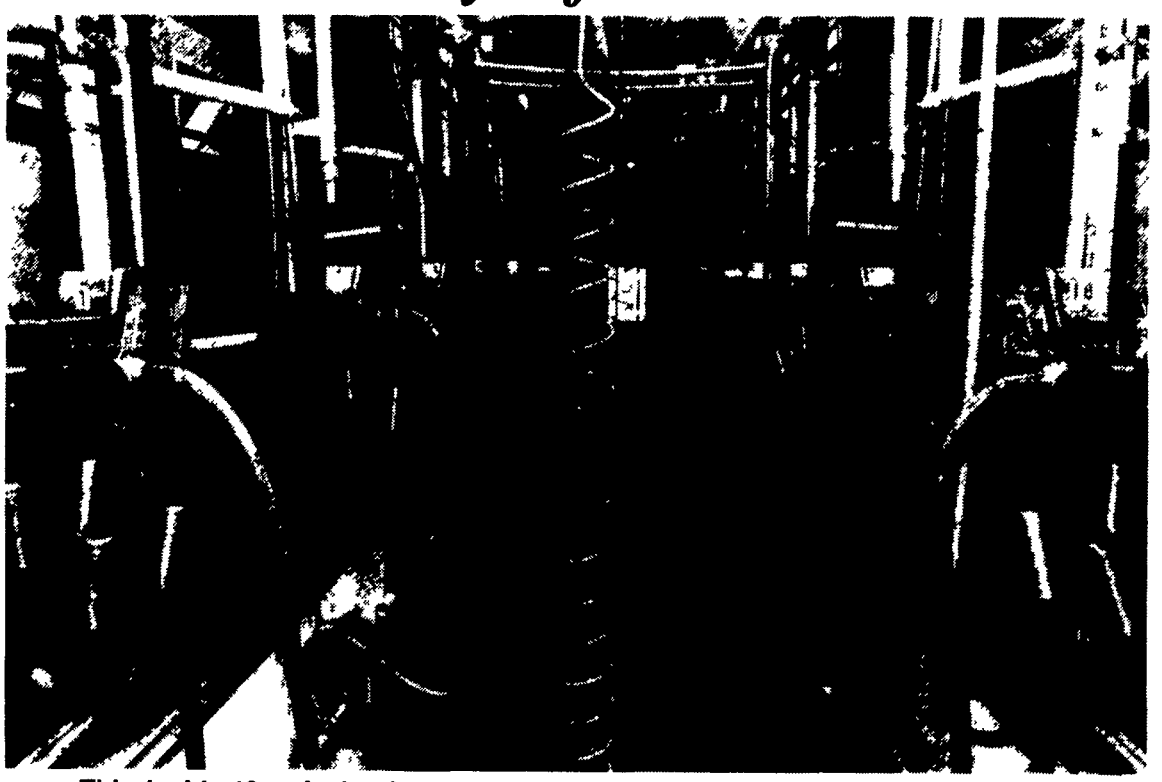
It requires two men about 5½ to 6 hours per milking, from start to cleanup.

The milking is done with two different shifts and weekend duty is rotated.

In addition to the sizable herd of grade and registered Holsteins, the operation has about 800 acres of land — 600 acres for crops, 200 in pasture.

The pasture is used double duty. Sam said they cut hay in the pasture, and that hay is used for dry cows. In early June, they harvested just a little over 200 big square bales from the pasture. The pasture is seeded with grass.

The milk from the cows is directed to a processor and the majority retailed at the nearby Landhope Farms dairy store.



This double-10 parlor has been used for 2x milking at Landhope Farms. It is about to be used three-times a day.

An interim cooling system was pressed into use at Landhope Farms with the record heat of May and June. The hose along the underside of the rood if perforated. A permanent system is planned.

Sam is young, in his mid-30s, and energetic. He's new to Landhope, taking the manager position in February. But he's not new to working at large operations or with working with dairy near Landhope.

For someone as eager to strive for excellence in dairying, Sam seems to be in the right place.

Sam and his wife Lisa live in a large brick house next to the main dairy operation. They have a son Ben, 5, and a daughter Aily, 8 months.

If the ideal commercial dairy operation were to be built — one that was on the leading edge of applied technology, effectiveness, and profitability — it would probably look a lot like Landhope Farms, in Sam's opinion.

Now add this in — the University of Pennsylvania's New Bolton Research Center, a key research facility for dairy animal health, is litteraly just down the road.

Researchers make weekly trips to the farm to check up on the breeding program, and other aspects of herd health.

Shotzberger knows the researchers well. He used to work for them at New Bolton.

"New Bolton's nutrition teaching program is big key. Just about everything on the farm is related to nutrition," Sam said.

They use five different rations for feeding their cattle, including the 300 heifers they raise for replacements. Sam tries to maintain about a 30 percent culling rate.

Haylage, corn silage, high moisture corn . . . all are stored in trenches. He gets soybean meal by the tractor trailer load. Also used in the rations are distillers grain, cotton seed, and blood meal, minerals and limestone. All rations are custom mixed and fed to the high group and low group.

Pending approval of building permits, Landhope is about to consolidate its heifer raising area near the main farm. The intent is to build a 328-foot long Virginia-style housing complex with slatted floor, and a manure facility capable of holding from four to six months worth of waste.

While looking over work being done to rennovate a large, older, completely walled-in freestall building, Sam said, "I don't think expansion is the plan sought now. Excellence is the goal."

The rennovated building is being turned into an airy comfortable freestall capable of housing 100 cows, including dry cow stalls. It will also provide some box stalls for better freshening conditions, one of the areas that Sam has isolated as requiring improvement.

"My strength is in dairy and what I need most education on is crops. It's important."

But the dairy knowledge Sam brings to the operation has made for some of the changes at Landhope.

They have Virginia style freestall housing and use three bottom lots for heat detection.

"(Heat detection) is a challange. The problem is, in the past we sat back, now we're developing a strategy to attack.

"The goal is a pregnancy rate of 35 percent during each cycle. In the past we've come somewhat short and in doing so spent too much money. We need to synchronize the whole herd."

(Turn to Page A35)

Landhope Farms

taglandin for those which didn't display heat.

Prostaglandin shortens the 21-day cycle down to about 14. He give two tries at a cow. "Every cow that hasn't been bred the first time, is bred the second time," he said.

But not all of those become pregnant.

The breeding program is especially important.

Sam keys in on days to first service, and calving interval.

Heat detection rate determines culling for reproduction.

"Too many get culled involuntarily. There are too many high producing cows being lost."

So he's been using the prostaglandin regime for about eight weeks. "The data is preliminary, but it is at 35 percent. That was promising," he said.

"With 400 cows, if you look at the probability, it will work. With the smaller herd, the variation is greater," Sam said.

The operation ships 22,000 pounds of milk a day, averaging 62 pounds per cow. "We'd like to do better and will do better," he said.

"Last month we had two cows produce over 140 pounds per day. There were six cows which produced more than 120 pounds a day and 23 cows produced more than 100 pounds a day."

Some of the other things Sam has been working on has been to reduce feed costs — which he has done significantly, he said, through coopeartive buying with another large area dairy.

He also has a goal to increase average peak production a little more than 10 pounds.

As far reducing feed costs, with the help of researchers at New Bolton Center, they've been able to knock down the cost of minerals per cow from 21 cents to about 10 cents per day. "We bid out, pay a little more attention."

Sam said the 11 cent savings is important, especially at Landhope. "A 1 cent-per-day-per-cow savings on this farm is $1,500 per year."

Most every freestall operation has something of a problem with the cattles feet becoming infected or sore.

Most of that has also been eliminated at Landhope through the strict application of a copper sulfate foot bath a couple of times a week, along with using a hoof trimmer regularly.

Other projects include installing a cooling system for the cattle.

With the record heat of late May and early June, Shotzberger had installed a sprinkler system that he called, "an interim solution." It was a water hose with pinholes extended along the underside of the feedbunk roof.

The plan is to install a system of high powered fans and a sprinkler system so that the cows will get thoroughly wet. The fans promote evaporation, which draws heat from the animal.

For cow comfort, three of the four freestall facilities have cement beds, which are bedded up once a week. "We rake the stalls every time we chase the cows off for milking. It makes a difference."

Landhope also employs nine fulltime workers.

There are Jackie Hicks and Jane Melvin. Juan Ocamp helps with getting cows' heat check at 12:30 a.m., and then starts the milking shift at 1 a.m.

Ralph Roop does afternoon milking and afternoon feeding and anything else.

Brian Harrop, milks weekends and is general handyman and maintenance.

Dave Anderson has been hired for third-shift, three-times a day man.

Robert Roop is the fieldman. He takes care of the crops, and advises Sam on needs and conditions.

Pattie Yarnall, has the primary responsibility of taking care of calves.

The calves are kept up to two months in individual hutches and another two more months in super hutches with a couple other calves.

She also keeps records on all the calves, when they need moved, takes care.

In addition to other responsibilities, she helps with field work.

The milking is done by two men. One man in the parlor, one man readies cattles, and chases them up to be ready.

Landhope has a two-stage fencing system so that the first group is hustled into an area next to the parlor and a hinged gate closes them in. Meanwhile a second group is brought up to the gate and they are also gated in.

As the last of the first group leaves the parlor, they are guided back to their area and the second group's front gate is opened to give them access to the parlor. Once they are in place, and the first group back in their area, the third group is brought into the second holding area.

Also on the edge of farming changes, the place already uses the manure for almost all of its nitrogen needs.

The open walled free stall facility at Landhope Farms provides cow comfort along with efficiency.

Sam's been involved with dairying for a long time. He grew up on and around dairy farms. His uncle George had a dairy farm and his father, William Shotzberger, worked for the DuPont Estate. DuPont had a strong interest in dairy cattle and produced the famous Ivanhoe bull. His rolling herd average was in the 17,000 back in the 1960s.

The DuPont herd had been dispersed by the time Sam was old enough to work. He went to University of Delaware and got an undergraduate degree in dairy science.

For a while he tried a partnership dairy with his brother, but that didn't work out.

Later, Sam worked for another large Chester County dairy, the Moore Farms. Even today the contacts made there continue. In fact, Landhope Farms and the Moore farms have started combining purchase order for feed and other materials in order to take advantage of bulk discounts. Sam knows Walter Moore, a Penn State grad, and the two get along well.

Sam also has an indepth familiarity with nearby New Bolton Center. He worked with nutrition, protein degradability and its impact on milk production.

While at New Bolton, Sam decided he needed to advance.

"I was all set to go to vet school, but I decided on business school," he said.

He said the advice to do so came from his mentors at New Bolton.

He said the reason they advised him to go into business is because more work needs to be done on the financial practicality of some of the technology being provided.

"It's not a question of can you do it, it's a question of 'Does it pay?'" Sam said.

He got a masters degree in business and spent a couple of years working as a product manager in the marketing division for American Cyanamid at company headquarters in Princeton, New Jersey.

As a product manager, Sam said BST "is the safetest thing I've seen.

"It's very safe, and works well. It would increase production as much as going to 3 times a day."

dent, chairman of the Parliamentary Procedure Team, project book contest, public speaking contest, and attending the Washington Conference and the State Legislative Leadership Conference. Other high school activities included student council, (SADD) Students Against Drunk Driving, National Honor Society, Greenwood Athletic Association, basketball and track teams, and holding the title of Perry County Fair Queen after fulfilling her year as state FFA president. Melanie plans to attend college, majoring in agriculture education.

State vice-president at-large is Wayne Hassinger, II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne J. Hassinger. Wayne was graduated from Middleburg High School, and his chapter advisor was Leroy Dreibelbis. Wayne's chapter activities included land and dairy judging teams, prepared and extemporaneous public speaking, and parliamentary procedure teams. He held the offices of president, treasurer, and agriscience research. Other high school activities included Pennsylvania Junior Academy of Science, Science Olympiad, Pennsylvania Junior Science and Humanities Symposium, 4-H, Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Association and he served as a member of his church board. He plans to major in dairy science at Delaware Valley College.

Eastern region vice president is George Inhop, Owen J. Roberts High School, Pottstown, Pa. George is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Inhof and his chapter advisor is Chet Raught. He was chairman of his chapter banquet, citrus sales and tulip bulb sales, and Food For America Program. Other high school activities include intramural basketball and volleyball, German Club, Lettermen's Club, and Just Say No Club. His future plans include attending Delaware Valley College and to eventually own and operate his own dairy farm.

North Central vice-president is Alison Fry, daughter of Richard W. Fry. At Mifflinburg High School, her chapter advisors were Terry Woodling and Glenn Spangler. She was president of her chapter, on the Parliamentary Procedure Team for four years, attended the Washington Conference, National Convention, and Freshman Leadership Conference at Penn State. Other high school activities included soccer, basketball, and she received the Young American Award. Alison wants to attend college to become an agricultural education teacher.

The Pennsylvania State FFA south central vice president is Tim Lehman of Cumberland Valley High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lehman and his chapter advisors are Bruce Lemmon and Robert Leib. Tim's chapter activities included livestock judging, dairy judging, citrus sale chairman, and participation in Ag Olympics and Enviro-Olympics. Tim will continue working on a grain operation and hopes to go to a trade school for diesel mechanics.

Christopher Reichard was elected state FFA treasurer. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Reichard and was graduated from Waynesboro High School. His chapter advisor is Gerald W. Reichard. Christopher's chapter activities were chapter president and treasurer, participation in public speaking contests, and working on his SAE dairy project. He was on the high school basketball team. Chris hopes to go on to college and major in dairy science.

Jodi Hall is the new FFA state secretary. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Hall and was graduated from State College High School. Her chapter activities included chapter president and reporter, fundraisers' chairman, public relations chairman, and liaison to the school activities committee. Other high school activities were Key Club, varsity basketball and track, yearbook editor, Hugh O'Brien Youth Leadership representative, school newspaper reporter, and school advisory committee to the school board. Jodi will be attending Penn State University, majoring in agriculture education and production horticulture.

New state FFA reporter is Michelle Kerdeman from Manheim Central High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jules Kerdeman, and her chapter advisors are Debbie Seibert and Dominic Centonze. Her chapter activities included livestock judging, horse judging, dairy foods contests, and ag in the classroom. She also was on the yearbook staff, Bandfront, and was 1989 alternate farm show queen. She would like to attend Delaware Valley College.

Andrew Smeltz is the new state FFA sentinel. He graduated from Upper Dauphin High School and his chapter advisor is Stanley Weaver. His chapter activities included poultry, land judging, livestock and dairy judging, public speaking contests, and he attended area leadership conferences. He would like to continue his education at Penn State University, majoring in dairy and animal science.

Dale Heagy is the new FFA chaplain. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Heagy and his chapter advisor is Gretchen Oberst. He was chapter president, vice president, chaplain, county secretary, Star Greenhand, and Chapter Farmer. He was on the Parliamentary Procedure Team and in the agronomy contest. Other high school activities included band, chorus, National Honor Society, student of the month, Math Quiz Bowl Team, Envirothon Team, and outstanding senior boy. His future plans are to farm with his father.

Pasture Grazing Management During Dry Summers

WARREN J. PARKER AND LAWRENCE D. MULLER
Penn State University

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — A slump in pasture growth during the summer is normal in Pennsylvania. The dry weather during May and June in Central Pennsylvania and other parts of the state have caused the decreased pasture growth earlier than normal this year. Although early spring pasture growth and first cutting forage yields and quality were excellent, the dry weather and low levels of soil moisture have made the management of a pasture system more challenging than ever. In fact, many dairymen may be questioning their decision to implement a grazing system this year compared to the less risky practice of providing feedstuffs under a dry lot system. Even in a good pasture growing season, maintaining a supply of high quality pastures by grazing can be more challenging and requires more management than "traditional" stored feeding systems.

Dairymen who have adopted or are thinking about implementing intensive grazing must remember that a pasture system is an important part of the total (12 month) forage program. During excellent growing seasons such as 1990, proper management of pastures including harvesting of pasture surplus to the cows requirements in the spring can provide forage for a major portion of the year when pastures are not productive. Most dairymen using grazing should already have the 1991 spring surplus in storage but the decisions that now need to be made are more difficult than those faced in 1990, because of the dry conditions. Learning how to manage grazing of pastures during dry periods as well as in good years is important.

Cows have been grazing for about 7-8 weeks until mid June, but the dry weather has necessitated the need to reduce grazing and begin more supplementation. While the dry conditions impact on the feed supplies for all dairymen, the shortage of pasture has a more immediate and obvious impact where grazing systems have been adopted. Following are some points that may help improve grazing during dry conditions.

1. Regularly measure the amount of pasture available. Use a visual assessment or a measuring aid such as a capacitance meter or sward stick. This information, together with the tonnages of stored forage, provides a feed inventory for the farm. Knowing the amount of pasture available in each paddock enables the number of grazing days to be calculated and can indicate the need to adjust the supplementary feeding program. The decreased rate of pasture production during the past couple of weeks should be compensated for by increased feeding of stored forage in the ration. The nutrient composition of the grain rations may need to be adjusted for any change in the type and quality of the forage fed.

2. Make adjustments to grazing management. Avoid over-grazing, but utilize the pasture that is available while the quality is still reasonable. To avoid over-grazing, reduce the grazing period and (or) increase the level of supplementary feeding. With the anticipation of low forage supplies during the dry year, it is tempting to let animals graze. However, cool season pastures will be more productive later in the year if overgrazing is avoided. Temporarily stopping grazing due to dry conditions should not be viewed as a failure.

Our experience on items (1) and (2) with the Penn State Dairy Pasture Systems Research project may be helpful. At the time we started grazing in the spring, we did some forward planning based on the expected intake of Holstein cows and the land area available. Nearly 60% of our land area was not grazed in the spring but was "set aside" for harvesting in late May. This stored silage is normally the "bank account" reserve for summer (if needed) or winter feeding. We harvested nearly 2 tons of high quality grass silage dry matter per acre in early May. When the dry weather continued into early June, our measures indicated inadequate pasture availability for the forage dry matter needs of our cows. With no rain the land area from which we harvested silage had little regrowth and was not ready to be introduced into the grazing rotation. Initially, the cows remained in the barn during the hot days and were fed stored grass silage from our "bank account". The amount fed was based on the difference between the amount of forage dry matter required in relation to the measured amount of pasture dry matter available. For example, the cows required approximately 30 lb. forage dry matter DM per day. The pastures could only provide 15 to 18 lb. (DM) each day ((pre-graze pasture per acre — post-graze pasture per acre) - number of cows). The 12 to 15 lb. (DM) difference was made up with silage fed in the barn. After the most recent grazing cycle, the lack of rain and low levels of available pasture have necessitated keeping the cows in the barn and feeding all the forage from the stored "bank account". The amount of grain fed has not been altered. The quality of grass silage harvested in mid-May is high and of comparable quality to that of the early spring pastures. Thus, the nutrient composition of the grain has not been altered.

3. Make important decisions to maintain productivity and profit. The tendency in a dry year is to put off decisions with the hope that it will rain. Collect all the relevant information on your feed position (inventory of supply and needs), list alternative courses of action, and make a decision. Some alternatives and potential decisions during this time include:

- Cull low producing, non-profitable cows. The lack of forage supply, low milk prices, and high cull cow prices make this a high priority decision to improve profit.
- Allocate the highest quality pasture and forage to the early lactation cows.
- With the marginal available pastures and high temperatures, adopt night time grazing if adequate pasture is available and keep cows in the barn during the day.
- Make sure an adequate supply of cool water is available.
- Consider a summer brassica crop to provide late summer and autumn forage. This will only be worthwhile if there is sufficient rainfall in July and to establish the crop.
- Consider purchasing some forage now in case the dry year persists.

When the dry period is broken initially adopt a slow rotation and maintain a high level of forage supplementation to allow feed reserves to rebuild. An application of nitrogen should be considered as soon as the dry period breaks because the increased amount of dead plant material may cause a short term deficit of nitrogen.

Making Money With Heifers

GEORGE F. W. HAENLEIN
Extension Dairy Specialist
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. — In these hard times for dairy farmers, when milk prices have hit rock bottom, advice on how to survive on the farm is widespread and varied, from how to make more money, with a new "wrinkle" in production equipment perhaps, to how to cut expenditures--the so-called "fat" in farm management.

Certainly, the calving interval, current and projected, is an accurate barometer for where the "fat" in a particular farm management might be.

The calving interval could reveal where something is wrong in the reproductive management of the dairy herd.

According to our recent DHIA herd summaries, 25 percent of the herds showed 14 months and longer calving intervals instead of the optimum 12 to 13 months. One herd actually averaged 17.0 months!

Another way to look at the calving-interval barometer is to find the average stage of lactation of all cows in the herd. Cows peak in lactation and then trail off, with less and less persistency towards the low end of productive levels at the cessation of lactation.

Thus, the "smart" dairy farmer maximizes the majority of his herd to be always at or near peak lactation level. This means in terms of "days in milk" an average not much beyond the lSO-day halfway mark of the normal 305-day lactation.

But, again according to our recent DHIA herd summaries, there are few "smart" dairy farmers, only one in four to be exact.

Twenty percent of all herds with averages of more than 200 days listed the worst 280 days!

These farmers also had cows with the longest "days open," that is, not bred or at least not pregnant. These dairy farmers no doubt are working as hard as their neighbors, seven days a week, but with the majority of their cows beyond peak lactation, they are getting less money for their hard labor.

An additional consequence of such management is that these farmers are short of calves and short of replacement heifers.

Fewer pregnant cows means fewer available calf replacements, and with an average herd age of less than 5 years, at least one-fifth of the herd has to be replaced annually to maintain herd size.

A good conception rate is about 75 percent, and if half of the calves born are normally bull calves, one can expect half of 75 in a lOO-cow herd, or a little better than 35 heifers, provided mortality is not too high.

This means when one-fifth of the herd needs replacement annually, only 20 of the 35 heifers are needed and 15 heifers are spares that can be sold for profit to neighbors or culled to maximize genetic progress.

However, our bottom herds that averaged 200 days in milk or more and went beyond 14 months' calving interval will not come up with more than 40 to 50 percent conception rate.

You can easily check this figure for your herd by counting how many cows calved during the last 12 months in your herd. Compare this figure to the total number of cows in your herd to arrive at an approximate current conception rate percentage.

With a 40- to 50-percent conception rate, you can expect at best no more than about 20 heifer calves per year in a lOO-cow herd.

If you need one-fifth for replacements, you would have barely enough for yourself, and certainly none to spare for sale to neighbors or for genetic culling.

So, the first way to make money with heifers is to have some to sell and cull by having a good herd conception rate.

However, at least two more ways of making money with heifers exist.

Looking at our DHIA herd summaries again, more than two-thirds of all our herds have first calf heifers coming into milk for the first time at 26 to 28 months of age or later, instead of the optimum 24 months, which adds up 2 to 4 months of milk income not received by the dairy farmer for every one of those heifers!

At a daily average of 50 pounds milk and about one-third heifers in most of our herds, this means that for a lOO-cow herd the following is true: 33 heifers X 60 days X 50 pounds milk/day X $11.00 per 100 pounds of milk = $10,890.00 per year, a significant sum of money lost because the heifers were raised too slow, bred too late, and calving 60 days, on average, beyond the optimum 24 months of age.

And this sum of more than $10,000 in a 100-cow herds translates from the 60-days delay to a LOSS OF MORE THAN $180 — MONEY NOT MADE FOR EVERY DAY BEYOND 24 MONTHS DELAYED FIRST CALVING!

You can blame it on feeding, heat observation, genetics, but in any case, the bottom line is the same: in these hard times, you can survive better if your heifers calve at 24 months the first time.

There is a third opportunity for making more money with your heifers — A.I. (artificial insemination).

Sure, you might say, I do A.I. with my cows. It is good enough for genetic progress, but I do not want to hassle with heifers for breeding. I am too old for this and I do not have a restraining breeding chute for catching heifers in heat.

But when you need a new tractor, don't you go and buy one?

Why, then, if you need a breeding chute and a catching gate, don't you just buy one? It will make you money and I can tell you how.

The latest figures just released nationally on the genetics of U.S. dairy bulls tell the story.

Natural-service bulls, that is bulls used on heifers or as "clean-up" bulls, on average have about only one-tenth to one-hundredth the genetic values of all current U.S. A.I. bulls.

This is an enormous advantage that dairy farmers not using A.I. on their heifers forego, and only because it is more "convenient" to let a bull do the job! What a price to pay!

Current Holstein A.I. bulls average + $160 predicted transmitting ability difference (PTA) versus natural service Holstein bulls +$10; for Brown Swiss, the respective difference was +$103 vs. +$3; for Guernseys +$117 vs. +$13; for Jerseys +$139 vs. +$8; and for Ayrshires +$97 vs. +$1!

Many of our dairy farmers are now very particular about picking the best A.I. bulls possible for their cows, even at premium prices for the semen.

Why, then, breed the heifers of such cows back to less valuable natural-service bulls, diluting the initial expensive semen investment in the good cows?

Furthermore, heifers usually have a 10 percent better conception rate than cows, so using expensive semen is wiser on heifers in which the conception success rate is likely to be higher.

Overall, there are at least 3 ways that you can make money with heifers: 1) get the herd average calving interval in line with 12 to 13 months; 2) get first calf heifers to come into milk at 24 months of age; and 3) use A.I. sires on all heifers, even if it costs buying a breeding chute.

Accomplishing these 3 aims will pay you handsomely in these hard times.

Manure Handling Tour Set

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — The Chesapeake Bay Program is now over five years old. Since then, major emphasis has been placed on manure management and nutrient loading on farm fields.

The cooperative extension and conservation district offices of Dauphin, Lancaster, and Lebanon counties have arranged a traveling tour of six farms to highlight manure storage management practice alternatives.

The tour will be on Tuesday, July 16, from 9:30 a.m. until 3 p.m. in the area near Elizabethtown, Campbelltown, and Deodate. A map is available upon request from any of the above offices.

The tour features manure stacking, gravity flow transfer systems, barnyard runoff collection, concrete tanks, and reception pits. Lunch is available for no charge for anyone pre-registered by Tuesday, July 9. To register, call the Dauphin County Conservation District at (717) 921-8100.

Penn State Opens New Facility

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — State and federal officials have joined Penn State President Joab Thomas and College of Agriculture Dean Lamartine Hood to dedicate the new Agricultural Sciences and Industries Building that faces Shortlidge Road on the University Park campus.

"With the completion of this building, we have enhanced instructional and research laboratory facilities for virtually every academic unit in the College," said Hood.

The $24 million structure is the centerpiece of a $42 million College of Agriculture facilities improvement program, funded jointly by the state and federal governments and the university. Other components of the program are new dairy and poultry research centers, new and renovated greenhouses, and remodeled swine research facilities.

"We expect the state to release funds for construction of some of those remaining projects later this year," said James Starling, associate dean for administration. "These enhanced facilities will help us to attract and educate more top-notch undergraduate and graduate students, and many of our faculty for the first time will have appropriate laboratory resources to support a first-rate research and education program."

Ag Sciences and Industries is the new primary base of operations for the agronomy and entomology departments. The dairy and animal science and veterinary science departments also occupy space in the six-story edifice, which is connected to the main offices of those departments in Henning Building by a covered walkway.

Construction on the building began in early 1989. The 150,000-square-foot building contains a 202-seat auditorium/classroom; one 70-seat and two 15-seat classrooms; two computer equipped classrooms with 18 work stations; an undergraduate learning center; five teaching laboratories; 46 large and 35 small research labs; more than 145 offices for faculty, staff and graduate students; laboratory animal holding rooms and support facilities; seven conference rooms; specialized space for the land analysis laboratory in agronomy and the expert systems laboratory in entomology; and several other facilities.

Use Of Phosphate In Soils Varies

ATLANTA, Ga. — Phosphate fertilizers represent highly available phosphorus sources for crops.

However, when applied to the soil, they react with soil iron, aluminum, and calcium compounds to form compounds that are less water soluble and slowly available to plants.

The speed at which these undesirable reactions occur is a function of soil pH, clay content, and concentrations of iron, aluminum, and calcium.

According to Dr. Bob Thompson, Potash & Phosphate Institute (PPI) midsouth director, differences in efficiency and availability of various commercial phosphate fertilizers are small. Movement of all phosphate fertilizers in soil water is extremely limited. Because of the quick attachment of phosphate fertilizers to soil particles, erosion is a more serious threat to phosphorus losses than is leaching.

Best phosphate fertilizer use efficiency occurs when phosphorus is concentrated in soil bands, usually close to the seed at the time of planting, on soils testing low or very low in available phosphorus, but not on soils testing medium or higher, where efficiency from broadcasting might be greater.

Dr. Larry Sanders, PPI Great Plains and southwest director, notes that three years of recent field studies in Kansas have provided good evidence of the importance of starter phosphorus for grain sorghum on acid, low phosphorus testing soils.

Dr. Ray Lamond and Dr. David Whitney of Kansas State University banded varying rates of a 7-21-7 liquid fertilizer in direct seed contact for grain sorghum. Yields were increased an average of 21 to 27 bushels per acre — yield increases that were comparable to wheat and corn under similar conditions.

Phosphorus "best management practices" for crops include building phosphorus soil tests to a high level, then applying maintenance applications by an easy and inexpensive method. University research has shown that high phosphorus availability is one of the critical components for high crop yields and profits.

Producers Not To Blame For Improper Food Preparation

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff told members of the Mid-Atlantic Poultry Health Council that egg producers are too often adversely affected when food preparers make mistakes.

"If food handlers make mistakes when preparing egg dishes and somebody gets sick, tracebacks sometimes point the blame at the farmer who provided the eggs," Wolff said. "I know of no other animal food product where farmers get blamed for problems that result from improper cooking or storage."

The council, made up of poultry health experts from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and Virginia, concluded two days of meetings here recently.

Wolff told council members that he hopes new egg refrigeration requirements will help encourage proper egg handling.

"Eggs are nutritious food that should be part of a healthy person's diet," Wolff said. "Like many other foods, they must be properly refrigerated and cooked before they are served."

Wolff, who serves as council chairman, said the council met to discuss cooperative efforts to regulate the poultry industry on a regional basis.

The council was formed by a joint agreement signed by Gov. Robert P. Casey and the governors of Maryland, Delaware, and Virginia in 1987.

Two Keystone Holsteins Enter Proving Program

PLAIN CITY, Ohio — Two Pennsylvania Holstein bulls were recently selected to enter the Select Sires Proving program.

Based on their outstanding pedigree, both bulls have been selected to join the ranks of 175 Holstein bulls from throughout the United States to enter the program in 1991.

7H4028 Russelldale Seavers-ET, a young sire bred by Ray E. Bicksler of Richland, has been chosen to enter Select Sires' Program for Genetic Advancement (PGA) sire sampling system.

This Blackstar son is from three generations of dams that average 88 points and all have made over 24,OOOM and 1,080F. The Rotate dam of 7H4028 is heading for over 30,OOOM, 1,250F, and 1,000P this lactation.

7H4040 Swampy-Hollow Sprint-ET, a young sire bred by Joseph and Sandra J. Lusby of Atglen, has been chosen to enter Select Sires' Program for Genetic Advancement (PGA) sire sampling system.

7H4040 is a Mark son from a "Good Plus" (83) 2-year-old Ned Boy dam with over 25,900M, 1,lOOF, and 855P. The dam was sold for export and not reclassified, but was a good candidate to go "Very Good". Both the "Very Good" (88) Valiant grandam and "Excellent" (92-3E) Elevation great-grandam are very high solids cows with over 990F and 810P.

Select Sires is a family of 12 farmer-owned and controlled A.I. cooperatives, serving the largest number of co-op members in the United States.

Somerset Friends Named Top Knitting Designers In Nation

GAY N. BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

SOMERSET (Somerset Co.) — "We were so happy we couldn't sleep," recalled Shanta Moitra when describing her own and the feelings of her best friend, Jodi Berkebile, after they learned their knitting designs were chosen as number one in the nation. Shanta had designed and hand-knitted the winning men's sweater, while Jodi had done the same to win the women's best designed sweater. For Shanta, it was her second successive national title. It was the first for Jodi.

Putting the frosting on the cake, to use a cliche', was the triple honor Shanta received when her sweater also took the People's Choice and Best of Show awards, at the St. Louis National Design Competition held in March by the Knitting Guild of America.

"We were roommates," says Shanta. "We finally turned on CNN to get to sleep," she said, bringing forth a chorus of spontaneous laughter from the others sitting with her. (Jodi, sitting nearby comfirmed that the Cable News Network subject matter was dull enough to help them get drowsy.)

Jodi's winning design was a beautiful, artistically designed, mohair creation with raised pink flowers. Muted blues and greens were used for the background and the leaves and stems of the flowers.

Shanta's sweater is now being modeled and professionally photographed for publication in Cast-On, the national knitting magazine. The sweater is a geometric masterpiece that combines all manner of shapes, diamonds, zigzags, and circles, done in a strong black and white color scheme.

Both winners learned to knit at a young age. Shanta was about six when her mother taught her to knit. "It was a matter of survival," she said since she grew up near the Himalayan Mountains where woolen stockings, gloves, sweaters and shawls were needed for protection from the cold weather.

Jodi learned to knit when her mother taught a Girl Scout troop the craft. "I wasn't really interested and I didn't do anything with knitting until four years ago when a friend wanted to learn to knit," she said. Eventually, Jodi joined the knitting guild and has been knitting ever since.

According to the competition rules, designers can have another person do the knitting. These gals prefer to do their own knitting. Good technical and mathematical skills are required to correctly figure the amounts and types of stitches needed to construct a professional-looking garment.

Jodi questions why a person would go to all the trouble to design a sweater, yet lack the ability to knit it.

"I don't see how you could design something and not feel able to knit it yourself." she says.

Both women are obviously meticulous about their craftsmanship. "If you are going to put your time into it," says Jodi, "You want it to last."

Adds Shanta, "If a knitter doesn't know good finishing techniques, the sweater will look homemade. We want our sweaters to look 'handmade,' not 'homemade.'"

The women use only natural fiber yarns, shunning the synthetics, saying that the natural fibers will last a lifetime. Much of what they use is imported.

Another qualification for entering the national competition is membership in a knitting guild. Shanta and Jodi belong to two guilds. One is the Laurel Highlands Knitting Guild in Ligonier. The other is the Roof Garden Knitting Guild in Somerset, of which Jodi is the president. The downside of this honor, she says, is that while she is conducting the meeting, all the other members sit around kitting. Her own fingers just itch to grab needle and yarn and get to work. These gals declare that, once begun, knitting is addictive and you won't want to quit.

Where a knitter finds inspiration for a new design? Jodi says it can pop up anywhere. It might come from seeing an unfamiliar stitch or design which can give birth to a new idea.

Three years ago the pair met at the local knitting guild meeting. In the other, each recognized a kindred spirit. Both are homemakers, but out of their shared love of knitting has blossomed a close bond of friendship.

A native of India, Shanta is the perfect foil for her fairer-complexioned friend, Jodi. At the ceremonial awards night in St. Louis, Shanta put aside western dress in favor of wearing her native Indian sari of vivid green.

"If you join a guild," says Shanta, "you already know knitting." However, both women say that the more they know, the more they realize they don't know about knitting.

The sweater designing skills of both women are being sought by prestigious magazine publishers who search for new talent.

Shanta says her filial duties would conflict with becoming a professional designer. The mother of teenagers— son, Vivek, 16, and daughter Alika, 14 - Shanta said that she may consider going professional when the extra-curricular activities of her children have abated. Because her husband, Dr. Shomendra Moitra, is the director of Emergency Services at the local hospital, he is extremely busy; therefore, he is unable to accompany the children as often as he would enjoy going with them. Shanta feels a strong parental commitment to support them by attending their activities. She is also a registered nurse.

Jodi, on the other hand, has already had three of her original sweater designs accepted by McCall's magazine. They will appear in the needlework and crafts issue coming out later this year. She says, "If somebody pays me for my hobby — that's great!"

A college romance brought about Jodi's marriage to Guy Berkebile. Their two children are Garrett, 6, and Lindsay, 3. Guy and his mother operate the Berkebile Oil Co. in Somerset.

When Jodi earned her college degree in finance, she little dreamed her bent for numbers would be most used to figure inches and stitches for sweater designs.

Serving her guests with an unpretentious grace, Shanta shares a bit about her country. She says the northerners and southerners of India each speak a separate language. Her husband comes from the south and she comes from the north. He can speak both languages, but his family and Shanta cannot. Since the second language in India is English, which is taught in the schools, Shanta and her husband's family must converse in English. She says this is a problem. She would like for all the people in her country to share the same Indian tongue and be fully able to communicate with one another.

Excitement is already mounting for the women since the 1993 knitting convention will be held in Pittsburgh at the Vista Hotel. Next year's convention is set for Sacramento which is a discouraging 3,000 miles away. Yet, there's a bright spot about the Sacramento affair. A member of the local guild, Marie Kieffer, from the Somerset County Extension Service will teach a class there. For Shanta and Jodi, this is nearly as good as if the honor belonged to one of them.

Another guild member, Peggy Black, will teach buttonhole and button band construction at an August seminar in Philadelphia.

To make knitted garments last, take proper care of them say the women. "Never hang them." The garment should be carefully folded and stored in a cedar chest or a box. Hand laundering should be done at lease once a year. Give the same gentle care to storing the unused yarn. Although Shanta and Jodi say that they know better, they confess to the knitter's sin of buying more yarn than they need and having to store it. It can easily happen when they shop at Kathy's Kreations in Ligonier and spy a new imported yarn or perhaps an irresistible new color.

Shanta Moitra's sweater received the People's Choice and Best of Show awards at the St. Louis National Design Competition sponsored by the Knitting Guild of America.

"This is only some of it," says Shanta, somewhat guiltily, as she pulls out stored yarn which she bought on impulse knowing it is best to buy only what you need for the job.

Homestead Notes

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

A strange contest takes place here every morning.

The activity kicks off about daybreak, with the high-pitched "cock-a-doodle-do" of a rooster ushering in the morning.

And, almost as if in echo, a more deeply-pitched crow bounces off the still, quiet air.

Our local Crow-Off has gone into another round.

Until recently, only one rooster voice greeted the dawn's coming. Then a newcomer stalked into the wooded housing development which adjoins our pasture. A sort of diminutive, half-pint chicken, this boisterous fellow is probably at least partial bantam lineage. What he lacks in size he makes up for in vocal ability.

None of our good neighbors seems to claim him. We suspect his original home was on an adjoining farm, where the small, pet flock gradually diminished in number to this lone rooster. Seeking companionship to his lonely life, he came scouting out the few remaining chickens -- like two -- still pecking around our place.

Our own old, tough, but still very handsome rooster hasn't taken kindly to this neighborhood newcomer. As they both get to crowing insults at each other every morning, our golden-feathered fellow edges farther and farther out into the pasture, hurling chicken-type insults toward his challenger.

"Just try and move in on my territory!" he seems to be daring the smaller bird.

Now, he has even more reason to defend his turf, with the hatching of a nest of a half-dozen fluffy baby chicks to our sole hen. That's what remains from a flock that ten years ago numbered some three-dozen assorted hens, chicks and roosters.

Until a week or two ago, there was a second hen. She, too, rose to the seasonal instinct to nest. It was her choice of site that probably ended her life.

This hen squatted down to hatch in a round bale feeder on the sun-baked west side of the old bank barn. Cows and heifers tearing the bales apart to eat continuously covered her with hay and munched their way around her. And, she was repeatedly evicted by The Farmer, who removed her every time he refilled the feeder with another bale.

The unseasonably hot, dry weather which has continued to plague our area the past two months finally took its toll of at least one chicken. Steadfastily, with single purpose, this hen simply refused to move to a more sensible spot, or even to leave long enough to eat or drink. She literally baked herself in the dreadful heat.

Much as we praise and admire Mother Nature, instinctive behavior is not always pretty, or even sensible. Sometimes it seems downright cruel.

For instance, we recently intervened in another very natural, but un-pretty, instinctive behavior that threatened this year's Canada goose hatch at the pond.

Most farm ponds offer hospitable living conditions for snapping turtles. Over the years, friends and relatives have occasionally caught some whopper turtles from ours. These snappers boast nasty, beak-like "choppers" that reportedly can bite through a decent-sized stick and do major damage to a finger or toe -- given the opportunity.

One of their favorite meals is newly-hatched ducklings and goslings, which they grab from underwater and pull under to drown and down. When turtles snagged two of our five baby geese, within mere hours of their hatching, we decided the pond's balance of nature was hanging lop-sided against the geese. There is plenty of other stuff for those turtles to eat besides the baby geese.

Of the two turtles we snagged, one was moved to another body of water and the other ended up in a soup pot. More remain.

I suspect, if he could pull it off somehow, our resident rooster would figure out some way to introduce his crow-off challenger to the remaining snappers.

But when roosters swim, we'll know the balance of nature has gone completely wacko.

Contestants Needed For Poultry Queen Pageant

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Pennsylvania and Lancaster County Poultry Association seek contestants for the annual Poultry Queen Pageant scheduled for August 2, at 6:15 p.m.

Applicants must have a knowledge or sincere interest in the poultry industry, have finished their junior year in high school and be unmarried. Contestants must be willing to participate in parades, banquets, and school promotions.

In addition to being the Lancaster County Poultry Queen, the winner also will be crowned Pennsylvania Poultry Queen. She will receive a $500 scholarship or $300 in cash, a $150 wardrobe fund, and numerous other prizes. The alternate queen will receive a $300 scholarship or $150 in cash. All contestants will receive a watch from Koser Jewelers, Mount Joy.

For more information, call before July 12, Debra Wolgemuth, (717) 653-1249 or Bev Ginder (717) 367-3833.

Greenwood FFA Celebrates Anniversary

MARY LAEGER-HAGEMEISTER
Dauphin Co. Correspondent

MILLERSTOWN (Perry Co.) — There's a common thread that runs through everyone's testimonial. After being closed for 18 years, the Greenwood School District reopened the FFA chapter 10 years ago.

When talking to various community members, school officials, and students, they all say the same thing — the FFA chapter is a vital part of the school and offers a unique learning experience for 20 percent of the school's population.

Ten years ago, through the efforts of school board members and a community that values agriculture, the school district reopened the chapter. Of course, there were previous years of campaigning to reorganize everyone's thinking and energies.

When it did open, it "started on a shoestring," said Glenn Cauffman, the first part-time instructor.

Over the past 10 years the program has grown in leaps and bounds.

"It's a great organization - I learned a variety in my first year. Last year I was really shy, but being in public speaking contests brought that out. I also learned a lot of leadership skills," said Heather Benner.

Heather is a freshman at Greenwood and the 1991 Star Greenhand. During the past year she attended the National Convention in Kansas City, the State Leadership Conference, speaking contests, including competition at Penn State. She also showed market hogs, market lambs, and breeding sheep through FFA.

In addition to her FFA activities, Heather is the President of Perry County 4-H Livestock Club and newsreporter for 4-H County Council. At school she is involved in student council and plays basketball and softball. Her goals are to possibly become an agriculture teacher and learn more about the family farm. "I'm starting to understand the 'why' of what I've been doing all these years," she said.

Amy Byers' senior year will be spent being president of the local FFA chapter as well as Area President, covering Perry, Cumberland and Dauphin counties.

FFA has given Amy the opportunity to learn leadership skills. "Her first year all she could do in front of a crowd is giggle - now she's providing the leadership and giving speeches!" said advisor MeeCee.

Over the past few years, Amy has attended the National Convention, state mid-winter convention, and FFA week at Penn State. Her other activities include State Legislative Conference, speaking contests, parliamentary procedure team and prepared public speaking. She has advanced to area competition in speaking and dairy foods. Amy is also part of the livestock judging team and exhibiting animals at the county fair and Farm Show.

Amy is active in the community as well. She is vice president of the Perry County 4-H Livestock Club, president of the church youth group and a member of SADD (Students Against Drunk Drivers) as well as student council.

Involvement in FFA has "given me more self-confidence and helped me be more accepting of others," she said.

MeeCee Baker is a hard-working individual who sincerely cares about the students, and as agri-science teacher, has done much for FFA at Greenwood.

Baker is just ending her 4th year at Greenwood. Prior to teaching at Greenwood, she taught in New Jersey, in Susquenity School District (Perry Co.), and the governors school, plus many other professional growth experiences. At present she is pursuing her Ph.D. in Ag. Education at Penn State. Her research is on "Career Paths and Gender Differences in Ag Educators."

When coming to Greenwood, the FFA program was still going through many growing pains. "I have to give the district a lot of credit. They made the commitment to support the program and had a very visionary approach to agriculture."

One of her first tasks was to build the program. "We revamped the curriculum to change it to be agri-science oriented, then recruited like crazy! We now have 20 percent of the student population in FFA which is in line with the percentage of employment in agriculture in Pa."

Undoubtedly one of the biggest contributing factors to the growth of the program was Baker's idea

TAKING TIME

by Rebecca Wolf

Extension Home Economist

Family Summer Fun

I don't know how your schedule has been. Mine has been hectic! I've found myself mumbling, "Stop the world. I want to get off!"

When I begin letting my work and "adult" obligations overwhelm me, I realize I should call time out. For me, the thing that helps me relax when I've become too serious and driven is children.

I surround myself with children. I watch them play. And, I join them in play. Now for harried parents who think their stress comes from their children, this time out with kids may not seem to be a solution. But when is the last time you relaxed and laughed and "let your hair down" with your children?

I've been reading some startling statistics and comments about how Americans have forgotten how to relax and live at a healthy life pace.

So, if you want to slow down and be silly with some kids (or daring adults) in your life, try some games the next time you are together.

Cooperative Musical Mats is a take-off on musical chairs. The difference is that with this game everyone wins in the end, and everyone usually ends up laughing instead of having many people with hurt feelings. You start the game by having "mats" (sheets of paper, old paper bags, or rug remnants) scattered on the floor or in the yard. Start the music. When the music stops, each person must find a mat to stand on. Then restart the music, and the players move.

Each time remove some mats. This means that as the spots get fewer, more people have to share a mat. Depending on the size of the group and the size of the mat, make rules like "everyone must have at least one foot/one toe on the mat." End the game with as many people as possible on one mat.

Another great game is a paper cup relay. You can do this having two teams, or you may do it with one team racing against the clock.

In the relay, each person has the task of moving from one point to another carrying the paper cup (empty or filled with a small amount of water) on a part of his body. For example, one might carry it on his hand, another on her elbow, a third on her head, a fourth crab-style on his stomach. Get the idea? This is a great one for community picnics or family reunions.

Remember people of all ages can play. Involve grandparents, parents, teens, and young children in the same game. You may want to form teams that have someone older than 60, someone who is between 13 and 18 years old, and someone under 10 years of age, etc. on each of them.

Another quick filler that I've introduced to several parent and day care provider groups this month is the sponge toss. It is similar to the spontaneous balloon tosses that often occur at birthday parties where people just start bouncing a balloon around a room. The goal is to not let it touch the floor.

You and your children can do this with sponges. (The bigger the sponges, the better. I like to use giant car wash sponges. They are easy to grab.) Begin by tossing one sponge into a group. As the pace picks up, add two or three more.

Within two minutes everyone is laughing, and laughter is one of the best stress relievers!

For a particularly scorching day, add excitement by plunging the sponges in a bucket of water occasionally. Insist on under-hand tosses.

Not only does this play time help you to relax, your children are learning. They are improving eye-hand coordination skills, balance, concentration, strategic planning, and cooperation skills.

It's easy to let the hectic pace of life, with work and farm time, to squeeze out family time. But we all need to take breaks. Our bodies need the down time. Our kids need our attention.

Greenwood FFA Anniversary

to develop a class plan along with the guidance counselor that enables students to take academics as well as agriculture. "That's one of the advantages to being in a small school!" Students can now choose from three different tracking systems — agriculture/academic, agriculture/business, and agriculture/industrial arts.

As principal of Greenwood High School, Ed Burns sees the FFA program as very beneficial. "Under MeeCee Baker, we're looking to 2000, looking at agriscience, it's hi-tech oriented! Over the years we've accepted the curriculum for not being lesser - just different. A lot of kids go on to academics — the stigma of vo-ag is gone!

"I'd like to see it continue in its diversification - very few kids actually come from farms. I also want to see the continued growth with non-traditional female enrollment. The male students are becoming more accepting."

Burns attributes the success of the program to the school board and Baker's enthusiasm.

When asked what benefits he felt FFA had, Burns said that "It's given kids a hands-on experience and sense of belonging. Many of the goals are similar to education in general. I see a lot of acceptance among the kids — they accept each other for what they are!"

Glenn Cauffman was part of the team that campaigned 10 years ago to reinstate FFA at Greenwood after it had been dropped in 1964 due to a low point in the agriculture economy. He was also the first part-time agriculture and FFA instructor 10 years ago.

Glenn Cauffman is able to see the fruits of the seeds he helped sow several years ago. "It's heartwarming to see the program develop. I give MeeCee a lot of credit for helping it grow. She is making it a respectable program."

More excitement has come for Cauffman in seeing the facilities expand at Greenwood, offering an agricultural science diverse approach for the students.

As a parent, school board member, educator, and concerned community member, Cauffman feels very strongly about FFA. "The training the kids get in FFA is not duplicated anywhere else in education. It has a lot of depth — opportunities for diversity. All kids can feel a part of something with the opportunity to achieve they can build their self-esteem."

As a farmer in the community, Sid Witmer sees the importance of FFA in the school to be vital for the future of agriculture. "As farming becomes more technical, the more training kids have, the more beneficial it is. With the number of farmers decreasing, an agricultural science background can help the food industry."

In addition to learning more about agriculture in the classroom, "kids also learn composure and leadership." Part of that composure and leadership is the pride they have for the industry.

As another vital team member in reinstituting the FFA chapter 10 years ago and a present board member, Lloyd Byers has invested much time and energy to support the program. When asked "Why should the board keep funding FFA?" Lloyd said, "The amount of money we invest in the kids comes back to the community. The kids are learning about agriculture — the largest employer in Pennsylvania as well as being good citizens." Another attribute of the program is the diversity offered for the students — positive outlets for their energy.

Lloyd reiterated what so many others had said — the school board supports the program and the instructor, MeeCee Baker is positive about every kid. She is preparing the students for agriculture diversity.

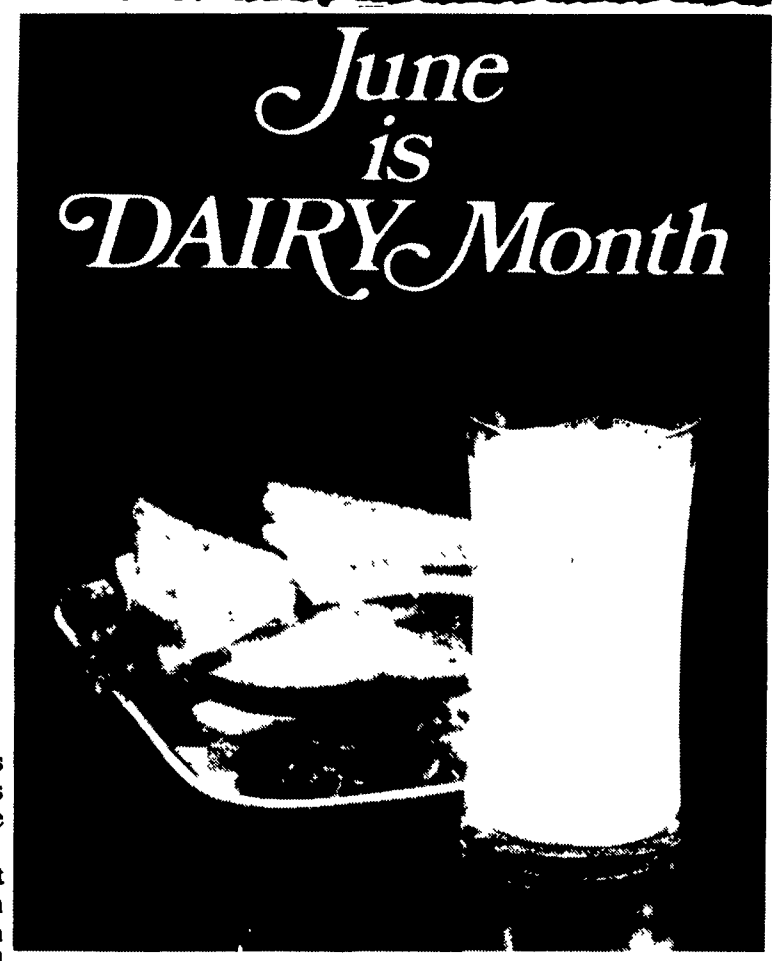
Dairy Delicious Recipes From Our Readers



PEACHES AND CREAM KUCHEN

2 cups flour
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon baking powder
½ cup butter
1 1-pound 14-ounce can peach halves, well drained
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 egg yolks
1 cup heavy cream

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. In medium bowl combine flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, salt and baking powder. With pastry blender cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Turn mixture into an 8 X 8 X 2 inch baking pan; pat firmly against bottom and sides of pan to within ¼ inch of top. Arrange peaches (cut side down) in pastry-lined pan. Combine remaining sugar and the cinnamon; sprinkle over peaches. Bake 15 minutes. Beat egg yolks with cream; pour over peaches. Bake 30 minutes longer or until golden brown. Let stand 10 minutes. Serve warm. Serves 9.

ELEGANT PEANUT BUTTER PIE

9 inch prepared graham cracker crust
¼ cup semi-sweet chocolate morsels
8 ounce cream cheese
1 cup peanut butter
½ cup brown sugar
3 egg yolks
¾ cup unsalted roasted chopped peanuts
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Place crust in a preheated 350 degree oven for 5 minutes. Remove and sprinkle with chocolate morsels and when they melt, spread them over bottom of crust using a knife. Refrigerate until chocolate hardens (about 5-10 minutes). In the meantime blend cream cheese, peanut butter, sugar, egg yolks until smooth. Fold in ½ cup chopped peanuts, then whipped cream. Spoon mixture into crust and sprinkle with remaining ¼ cup peanuts. Refrigerate until well-chilled. Serves 12.

YOGURT CHEESE PIE

Crust:
1¼ cups graham cracker crumbs
¼ cup sugar
⅓ cup canola oil
Filling:
2 cups yogurt cheese (drain 3-4 cups nonfat plain yogurt through a cheesecloth-lined strainer for about 24 hours in the refrigerator).
¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup cholesterol-free egg substitute or 6 egg whites
Topping:
10-ounce package of frozen strawberries, thawed
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon lemon juice

For the crust, combine crumbs and sugar. Add oil and mix. Press on bottom and side of 9-inch pie plate.

For the filling, blend yogurt cheese, sugar, and vanilla. Beat in egg substitute or egg whites with rotary beater or electric mixer until smooth and creamy. Pour into crust. Bake in 350 degrees for 35 minutes or until firm. Remove from oven and cool.

For the topping, place cornstarch in saucepan and gradually add strawberries. Bring to a boil and cook until thick and clear. Remove from heat. Add lemon juice. Cool. Spread over top of cooled yogurt cheese pie.

Note: You can substitute frozen peaches instead of strawberries for the topping.

My husband and I operate a dairy farm on his father's farm. We milk 55 cows, raise replacements, and produce our hay and corn.

We've been married almost six years and have one son, Thomas, who is 1½ years old. Both Thomas and Tom, his father, enjoy most of my experiments in baking.

OREO COOKIE DESSERT

Sauce:
1 12-ounce can evaporated milk
½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
1 package liquid chocolate
Crust:
30 Oreo cookies
½ cup softened butter
Filling:
½ gallon vanilla inc cream
2 cups peanuts
3 cups whipped cream

For sauce, bring ingredients to a boil. Cook 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool to room temperature.

For crust, crush Oreo cookies and add butter. Press into a 9-inch by 13-inch pan. Freeze for ½ hour.

ICE CREAM BARS

1 (15 ounce) package Oreo cookies, crushed
½ cup melted butter
½ gallon soft ice cream
1 cup Spanish peanuts
Topping:
2 cups brown sugar
1 cup chocolate chips
1 large can evaporated milk
½ cup butter

Mix crushed cookies and melted butter; pat into bottom 13x9-inch pan. Chill crust for about one hour. Spread with softened ice cream and sprinkle with peanuts. Freeze until firm. Cover with toppings. Boil all topping ingredients together for 8 minutes, stirring often. Cool and pour on top of ice cream. Freeze again until firm.

My husband and his dad are in partnership on a 500-acre dairy farm near Somerset. We have a little boy named Daniel. He's over 15 months and he really enjoys talking and playing with the cows and cats. A future farmer? We'll see.

MY MOM'S BREAD

1 pound butter
1 dozen eggs
12 tablespoons yeast
6 cups milk, scalded
¼ cup salt
4 cups sugar
½ cup honey
½ cup Karo
30 cups flour

Scald milk and butter; add 6 ice cubes to cool. Dissolve yeast in 1 cup water. Add sugar to yeast to make it raise faster. Add to milk when cooled. Add salt.

When Marty, the son of Anna and Bert Barber, dresses like the little farmers pictured in the popular print that appears on many calendars, people ask if Marty is the little boy in the picture. Marty dresses in a different character every day. His mother writes: Right now, he is on a pirate kick — that's the only way I can get him to wear shorts. A mother has got to do what she's got to do!

Mom says mix well like a cake mix before adding flour.

She also adds Karo, honey and sugar together because it lasts longer in the bread box. She makes a lot of bread because she gives it to her children and friends. A lot of people say that she should sell her bread. Mom's been baking for 30 years. She says you can reduce the amount to make less loaves. I really think that she makes this much bread to keep the family together. That's her way of keeping the kids together because she knows that we will show up on baking day. The grandchildren love when she puts hot dogs, kielbasa or pepperoni in them. My grandmother always had all the kids at her doorstep when she was baking bread in Pittsburgh. Her specialty was cinnamon rolls. With this recipe she makes donuts and all kinds of things. Mom taught us all to bake so we could carry on the family tradition.

I'm married to Bert Barber. I have a 3½ -year-old son named Marty. He's the reason I love being a mom, homemaker, and housewife. He's a real comedian and makes my day everday. He's got both grandfathers' wit. It's hard keeping up with him, they bother were characters. Neither of them are with us now, but they live on through my son.

We don't have a farm yet, but we are working on it. I have chickens and two cows named Babe and Emily. I'm collecting cows. I love crafts. I paint saw blades and tinker with everything.

COTTAGE CHEESE SALAD

½ cup milk
1 pound marshmallows.
1 large package cream cheese
1 (no. 2) can crushed pineapples (drained)
½ cup chopped pecans
1 12-ounce carton cottage cheese
1 12-ounce whipped cream

Melt marshmallows in milk and add cream cheese. Cool. Add remaining ingredients. Mix all together. Very delicious!

WHITE CHRISTMAS PIE

½ cup sugar
¼ cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon coconut extract
1 cup milk

Cook together the above ingredients until thick in double boiler. Take ¾ cup of milk and 1 package of unflavored gelatine and, when dissolved, add to first mixture and chill. Take 3 egg whites, ½ cup sugar, and ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar and beat until stiff, set aside. Whip ½ cup whipping cream. Put chilled mixture and egg white mixture in mixing bowl with whipped cream and beat slowly till smooth. Fold in 1 cup of frozen, wet coconut. Garnish with an additional ½ cup coconut, chill 5 hours. This can be put in prepared pie shell or dessert dish.

ANSWER — Verna Achenbach, Lebanon, requested recipes for mountain leeks. Thanks to Eva Southard, Glen Rock, Pa. for the following recipe:

Mountain Leeks

Part of the green top, as well as the lower white section, is used. Beardlike roots, upper tops and outer skins must be removed. Wash and boil, uncovered, in a large quantity of salted water, 20 minutes or until tender. Drain, dress with melted butter, margarine or cream, or sprinkle with mild grated cheese, cover and leave over lowest heat 5 minutes or until cheese melts. Allow 3 or 4 leeks to 1 serving. Can also be boiled with potatoes in meat broth.

ANSWER — For the reader that requested a recipe for pickled beets recently, Virginia Hayden, Bushwood, Md., sent the following recipe:

Pickled Beets

Small whole beets
2 cups water
2 cups vinegar
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablesppon mixed spices

Select small beets, cook until tender in boiling water, then drain, cover with cold water, and slip off the skins. If beets are larger, they should be cubed or cliced. Make syrup of the water, vinegar, sugar, salt, and spices tied in a bag, pour over beets and heat to boiling, then cook 5 minutes. Remove spice bag, pack in clean hot jars, and seal at once.

Apple Butter Pie

1 gallon apple butter
6 quarts apple sauce
4 cups sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons of cinnamon
¾ teaspoon nutmeg
2 cups of clear jel mixed with water

Mix all together and put in unbaked pie shell along with a crust on top. Brush with beaten egg for a nice brown crust. Bake at 375 degrees for 30-35 mionutes. Makes around 22-24 pies. The filling can also be frozen for later use.

ANSWER — A. Hoover, Reinholds, answers a request for boiled apple dumplings.

Boiled Apple Dumplings

Dumplings in apple syrup sauce:
1½ cups corn syrup
1 cup water
2 tablespoons butter
3 medium apples, sliced
½ teaspoon cinnamon
Dumplings:
1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons sugar
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1/8 cup of milk
1 egg

Mix sauce ingredients, bring to boil. Mix dumpling ingredients and drop by spoonfuls into boiling syrup. Cover tightly and cook 20 minutes. Don't remove cover during cooking period.

ANSWER — Ruth H. Bushong has sent along two recipes for Mary Ann Ebersol for ice cream toppings. These two are mint toppings:

Marshmallow Mint Sauce

½ cup sugar
¼ cup water
8 marshmallows
1 egg white
1 drop oil of peppermint

Boil sugar and water 5 minutes. Add marshmallows cut in small pieces (using scissors) and add gradually to egg white, which was beaten until stiff. Flavor, add green coloring to a desired shade, and chill.

Pineapple Mint Sauce

1 cup crushed pineapple
1 cup sugar
¾ cup water
Green coloring
6 drops oil of peppermint

Simmer pineapple, sugar, and water for 10 minutes. Cool, color, and add peppermint. Chill.

Greenwood Student Elected FFA President

MARY LAEGER-HAGEMEISTER
Dauphin Co. Correspondent

MILLERSTOWN (Perry Co.)— Her one-year duties include being the leader of 10 FFA Chapters in Perry, Cumberland, and Dauphin counties, preside over meetings, and coordinate and implement the area leadership conference for the officers of individual chapters to be held in September.

Amy Byers, a junior at Greenwood High School, was recently elected area president for FFA.

MeeCee Baker, FFA advisor, explained the process. "The cream of the crop of the junior class in each school are qualified. Each school chapter selects one person who meets the qualifications to compete to be an area officer. Amy then filled out an application and was interviewed by last year's officers."

When asked what her goals are for her term as officer, Amy said, "I want to have a successful leadership conference. I hope to have it motivational so that it can help individual chapters."

Amy has already been motivating others in her own chapter.

Baker said, "Amy has been a very dedicated leader in our chapter. She did an excellent job in coordinating our citrus sale. Currently she is president of the parliamentary procedure team, which recently won first place in the three-county area competition. Furthermore, she is very responsible and I'm sure she will do a fine job as area president."

Amy demonstrates her sense of dedication and responsibility in a variety of ways. In FFA, she has attended national convention for two years, state mid-winter convention, and FFA Week at Penn State. Other activities include State Legislative Conference, speaking contest, parliamentary procedure team, and prepared public speaking. She has advanced to area competition in speaking and dairy foods. Amy is also part of the livestock judging team and exhibiting animals at the county fair and Farm Show.

In addition to her various FFA activities, Amy is involved in the Perry County 4-H Livestock Club and serves as vice president. She is involved in the youth group at her church, SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving), and student council at school.

Amy's personal career goals include becoming a state FFA officer and attending Delaware Valley College to get a degree in animal science. Of special interest to Amy is research.

When asked what FFA has done for her, Amy said, "It has given me more self-confidence and a better attitude to others."

Cooks Question

QUESTION — Marie Geisinger wants to know what went wrong with a recipe for crock jam. She said she used the following recipe using fresh cherries. It turned out terrible, she said. Marie said it never thickened, and the cherries were "tough." "Because of the sweetness, it wasn't even good as an ice cream topping," she said. "Any suggestions (about) what may have gone wrong?"

Crock Jam

2 cups fruit
2 cups sugar

Cook for 20 minutes on low heat. Cool. Place in crock or large glass container. Use any fresh fruit as it comes in season. Fruits you can use — apricots, cherries (sweet and sour), rhubard, pineapple, blueberries, plums, strawberries, raspberries, apples, pears, currants, peaches, blackberries. Don't put in berries such as blackberries, raspberries, currants and etc. until they have been strained to remove the seeds. You can use this jam anytime and you can add fruit the following year if you have any jam left. Does not need to be refrigerated.

ANSWER — Eunice J. Petersheim, Bethel, shows how to take "Cheese Whiz" to can.

"Cheese Whiz" To Can

3 two-pound blocks of Velveeta cheese
3½ cups evaporated milk or cream
1 quart milk
¼ pound butter

Melt together over low heat. Fill pint jars and cold pack 20 minutes. Makes 20 pints.

MAKING FLAVORED VINEGARS

Flavored vinegars have become very popular in the supermarket. However, it is easy to make your own, and if you grow your own herbs it is inexpensive.

The addition of herbs, spices, and fruits to vinegar will soften and mellow the sharpness of vinegar while adding their characteristic tastes. The combinations and flavors can be varied to suit individual tastes. It is an easy process and there are just a few guidelines to follow:

• Be sure the containers used are sterilized to prevent the vinegar from clouding. Use containers made of glass or crockery.

• Either apple cider, distilled white or wine vinegar, or a combination of vinegars may be used. Apple cider vinegar blends well with fruit flavors while distilled white may be preferred for the more delicate herb flavors. Wine vinegar has a more robust flavor that can support the stronger flavors of garlic, tarragon, and the like.

• A great variety of herbs, singly or in combination, may be used. Try mint, basil, tarragon, dill, rosemary, oregano or chives. Use about 3 to 4 fresh sprigs of fresh herbs to each pint of vinegar Herbs should be completely immersed.

• If fresh herbs are not available, dried herbs may be substituted. Use about 3 tablespoons dried herbs to each pint of vinegar. Let the vinegar stand 3 to 4 weeks, then strain through damp cheesecloth or damp coffee filter and discard herbs.

• Fruit flavors that have appeal are lemon or orange peel, strawberries, raspberries, and pears. Try fruit in combination with other flavors such as orange or lemon with mint or spices such as cinnamon and cloves. Use the peel from one lemon or orange for each pint of vinegar.

• Experiment with your own combination of seasonings. The flavors will mellow and blend in the bottle and the possible combinations are endless.

• It takes about 3 to 4 weeks for the flavors to develop. Let the container stand, tightly capped, in a cool dark place. Use within 3 to 4 months.

To speed the process up by a week or so, heat the vinegar to just below the boiling point and bruise or coarsely chop the herb leaves. When the flavor has reached the level you prefer, strain the seasonings out and retum vinegar to a clean container. Add a fresh sprig of herbs for decoration and identification.

• If the flavors become too strong, flavored vinegars may be diluted with more of the same kind of vinegar.

• Let your creativity take over in finding uses for flavored vinegars. They add a new dimension to vinaigrettes and salad dressings, vegetables, meat, poultry, or marinades and seasoned mayonnaise.

If you would like to receive your free copy of Flavored Vinegar Recipes, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me at the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension Office, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster, PA 17601.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Adams Co. 4-H Officers Training Session

Adams County 4-H Club presidents, vice presidents, secretaries, treasurers, news reporters, song leaders, and game leaders were acquainted with their duties and responsibilities at the 1991 4-H officers training session.

An Adams Co. 4-H senate committee planned the session to help each officer become better informed of their particular office responsibilities.

Specific workshop presenters were Mary Jane Hilbert, Gettysburg National Bank, treasurers' workshop; Darlene Resh, extension 4-H program assistant, news reporters' workshop; Carol Rex, Upper Adams 4-H leader, secretarys' workshop; 4-H teen leaders Dan Ludwig, Gettysburg, Mariebel Gabrielson, Abbottstown, Raquel Piper, New Oxford, and Sonja Smith, Gettysburg, game and song leaders' workshop; and Jared Tyson, county 4-H agent and Amy Miller, 4-H teen leader, presidents' and vice-presidents' workshop. More than 60 4-H members attended.

Special recognition was given to Balow/Mount Joy and Sheep Club for having all their officers present at officers training. Registration was done by Heidi Miller, Jean Sterner, Sonja Smith, and Heather Herfel. Each officer received a 4-H notepad and 4-H pencil. Refreshments were served by the Abbottstown 4-H Club.

CONFLUENCE (Somerset County) — Hey, kids! Did you ever think about learning to paddle a boat called a kayak? Some excellent teachers are waiting to show you just how it's done at a paddling school near Confluence, held annually at Kid's Camp, the last week in June.

Let me explain what a kayak is, just in case you've never heard the name before. It is a long flat boat, wide enough at the middle for one person to sit in it with his legs stretched straight ahead. It tapers to pointed ends, similarly to a canoe only a kayak isn't open or deep like a canoe. It is closed and flat with an opening for you to slide into its seat.

Using an oar with a broad paddle on each end, you propel and control your kayak in the water. Some persons can do this so well that they are going to compete during the Summer Olympics next year in Seo, Spain. They steer their kayak through gushing whitewater rapids and very difficult gates at the same time.

At a place called Riversport Base Camp in Confluence, Kid's Camp is held for one week each year. Everybody stays in a tent. The Ruppels, who own Riversport and conduct paddling school say that you can bring your own tent or they will furnish one for you.

Besides learning to paddle a kayak, they take you biking down woodsy trails and on one called the Appalachian Trail. They take you hiking, swimming and rafting. You will do some sightseeing, have free time and play games around the campfire at night. You will be introduced to a river called the Youghiogheny (Yah ka gay nee). It's just a short walk to reach from the camp.

There's also volleyball and soccer says instructor, Erica Ruppel, who is 14 years old, and very expert at paddling. She is the current Pennsylvania Cup champion in the women's kayak slalom. Her parents are Bob and Karen Ruppel.

She has a sister named Kara, who is 22 years old. Right now, Kara is traveling around North America and Europe as a member of the United States Canoe and Kayak Team to compete for the World Cup. You have to be really good and fast to make the team. If you read sports news in your local newspaper, you may see her name if she wins a race.

Erica says the food served at Kid's Camp is just the kind all kids love, like pizza. She says when you have free time you can read or sleep or just please yourself. Campfires at night are fun. She says, "We made up songs and danced around the campfire."

You are never left by yourself at Kid's Camp. Erica says you always wear life preservers when in the water. The worst injury in 10 years of the camp has been a minor bee sting.

Not far from the camp are interesting places like Ohiopyle and a famous tourist attraction called Falling Water. Here, a brilliant architect named Frank Lloyd Wright built an unusual house right over the water, which can be seen beneath it. Maybe the Riversport folks will take you there.

Erica says she has been paddling since she was three years old. Her goal is to be in the 1996 Summer Olympics. She and Kara want to participate together in the 1996 event.

Two friendly Labrador Retgriever dogs belonging to the Ruppels stay at Base Camp. The black one is Sarge and the golden-haired one is Brutus. Sarge is so smart that Erica has taught him tricks. She can get him to sit in a kayak which is really funny to see. Then she tells him to carry the helmet. After he gets it between his teeth he goes everywhere with it and doesn't want to let it go. These dogs hardly bark at all. Instead they just sort of trot around the place wagging their tails happily.

You can get more information about Kid's Camp by calling this telephone number: 814 395-5744. It is the number of the Riversport canoe and kayak shop the Ruppels operate in town. A woman named Betty will probably answer your call. She can give you all the information you need.

1991 BARN PAINTING
Aim For The Best - In Coating Film Thickness

To do it right use the finest kind of bristle brush evening out the coating into a film thickness that does not peel in normal moisture stress (found on most barn siding from outside and inside by livestock or stored animal feed.)

1. PREPARATION. Peeling old coatings (improperly brushed) needs to be removed. The best method is simply water blasting or power washing! High volume of water - medium pressure is best! Done professionally or do it yourself, especially on the easy to reach areas. This is resurfacing!!!
2. BEST NEW START ON RESURFACED WOOD SIDING After spraying on this kind of barn paint or stain, take time to pay attention to brush out in all directions to create a film thickness that will prevent future peeling & resurfacing costs & effort This film will let excess moisture breathe through it Depending on the amount of weather wear it can be recoated lightly in 10-15 years Southern exposures usually wear faster

Somerset Chooses Dairy Princess

GAY N. BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

SOMERSET (Somerset Co.) — Vicki Stahl, Somerset, was named the 1991 Somerset County dairy princess at a recent contest held at the Somerset High School.

It was dairy farming's annual night of glitz and glamour as four of its delightful daughters challenged each other for the right to wear the crown and represent the dairy industry the coming year.

The other girls were Amy Gontis (alternate), Jennifer Ringler, and Suzy Stutzman. Appearing in evening gowns first, followed by the presentation of their original dairy commercial, each contestant had to answer the questions asked by master of ceremonies, Bob Brown, from the Somerset County Cooperative Extension Service. There was also an array of little princesses and escorts dressed to the nines, as they say, to impress and delight the audience.

Besides the brief farewell address given by the 1990 princess, Karen Jenkins, Meyersdale, some other former princesses recapped their reign experiences.

Members of the Somerset County Dairy Promotion committee are Barbara Berkley, Melissa Fox, Tracy Blair, Tomalee Will, Dicky Stellingwerf, Brenda Slingluff, Jill Friedline, Penny Reiman, Evelyn Moyer, Bonnie Ringler, Dodie Mishler, Deb Hillegass, Sue Tressler, Dorothy Naugle, Barbara Brant, Charlene McWilliams, Angie Shober, and Lisa Paxton.

Parents of the 1991 contestants are George and Audrey Stahl, Eugene and Linda Gontis, Jim and Bonnie Ringler, and Mike and Barb Stutzman.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 20

Lancaster Farm Women #20 met Thursday, June 6, with Nancy Axe and Vivian Trout as co-hostesses. Following the refreshments the scripture was read by Nancy followed by a reading "Greet each day with gladness." After praying the Lord's Prayer and the Salute to the Flag, the president, Vera Herr, conducted the business meeting.

The Sunshine Report consisted of six cards, fruit and two bouquets of flowers. The Ways and Means Committee chairperson, Valaria Ferguson read a letter of thanks from those responsible for the Horse Races in March. A vote was taken whether or not to continue this project for another year but it was voted down. The president announced the County Project is "Make-A-Wish" and that the County Picnic will be August 6 at Hoffman Building.

Peggy Atkins was present and gave a very informative talk on cataract surgery and showed a video.

For the foll call each member gave a safety tip. The next meeting is scheduled for July 11 with Emily Gallimore and Martha Hart and Sara Conroy as co-hostesses. Each person is to bring a wrapped gift for the game at the picnic.

Lancaster Society 25

The Lancaster Society of Farm Women #25 met at the home of Mrs. Emma Goss on June 8. Twelve members attended and responded to roll call by telling how or where they met their husbands.

The program was about how to recycle everything that is recyclable.

Entertainment was by Mary Millhouse who played the mandolin and by Mary Helen Herr who played the accordian.

There will be no July meeting. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. John B. Metz, 65 River Corner Rd., Conestoga, PA.

Berks Society 4

Society of Farm Women #4 of Berks County met at the home of Ferne Kulp, Boyertonw, for their May meeting. Eight members responded to roll call by naming a biblical plant.

President Elsie Rothenberger presided over the business meeting. Mary Fizz gave a report on the county board meeting. She will represent the group at the Berks Heim Festival in June.

Flower plantes were exchanged and each one received a begonia plant in honor of Mother's Day. Nancy Stehle of Douglasville director of Developmental Enterprises Corporation of Pottstown division spoke on stress management and the importance of proper breathing and relaxing.

The next meeting will be a progressive dinner at the Boyertown home of Renee Ketterer with Georgeanna Fullerton as co-hostess.

Lancaster Crowns Robyn Groff Dairy Princess

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Just like Dorothy wanted to go home, the scarecrow wanted a brain, the lion needed courage and the tinman craved a heart, so Robyn Groff, 17, Ephrata, wanted to be Lancaster County dairy princess.

What an honor, to represent the county with the most number of cows of any county in the state, comprising 1,930 dairy farms and 90,000 cows!

What an honor, on the 55th anniversary of June Dairy Month, to represent an industry that feeds 2.5 million people and generates about $220 million in income!

What an honor, to be a dairy princess!

Last Saturday night, Robyn, dressed as Dorothy in "The Wizard of Oz," went hand-in-hand with the audience down the yellow brick road. Along the way, she asked various witches, munchkins, and other Ozzian denizens about the benefits of milk. Afterward, she was crowned Lancaster Co. dairy princess at the Farm and Home Center.

Robyn found out a lot of things during the journey. The most important — milk products such as cottage cheese (low in fat and cholesterol, containing only about 1 percent milkfat); frozen yogurt (96 percent fat free); cream cheese (low in fat and cholesterol); ice cream; ice milk (50 percent less fat and cholesterol than ice cream); and lowfat milk are good for you.

"So follow the yellow brick road to healthier eating habits using dairy products," she said.

Robyn, the daughter of Robert and Esther Groff, Ephrata, is a recent graduate of Ephrata High School. After being crowned, she thanked her family for help in "finding lots of information for my speech.

"I would like to thank my mom for helping me those long hours for the skit and everybody else who contributed and helped me decide what I wanted to do," said Robyn.

Robyn will now assume the duties formerly held by Jacy Clugston, 1990-1991 Lancaster Co. Dairy Princess. Jacy, in her farewell speech, described the year as one of "education and growth," she said. "My experiences have changed me into a more mature, responsible person.

"It has been an honor and privilege to represent the highest producing dairy county in Pennsylvania," she said. Jacy said she is excited to move on, "but I know I'll always be the dairy princess at heart."

Also at the coronation, the 1991-1992 Dairy Darlings were selected. They are Sarah Bard, 9, daughter of George and Jackie Bard, Conestoga; Laura Blank, 8, daughter of Clifford and Joyce Blank, Gap; Megan Good, 10, daughter of Leon and Linda Good, Marietta; Laura Hershey, 10, daughter of Steve Hershey, Manheim; and Amber Shellenberger, 9, daughter of Harold and Cindy Shellenberger, Mt. Joy.

Sarah Bard is in 4th grade and enjoys roller skating and swimming. She won Master Showman at a local fair the first time she showed. She enjoys feeding calves and once wrote a book for a school project about Rudy the cow.

Laura Blank, second grade, enjoys feeding the calves and helping around the farm.

Megan Good, 4th grade, reads and collects baseball cards, and also works feeding the calves. She also raises geese and goats, and also takes care of her pony, Dalmatian, and a rabbit.

Amber Shellenberger, 4th grade, feeds the calves, and enjoys helping unload hay and straw. In

Capacity and reliability for on-time harvesting

When it comes to harvesting valuable forages, you need capacity and reliability to get the crop off fast. New Holland forage harvesters give you on-time harvesting with built-in features to improve reliability, ease maintenance and lower operating costs.

Leader in its class

Put a Model 718 in corn or haylage and you'll see why it's the most popular medium-duty harvester in its class. This cut-and-throw designed harvester offers maximum efficiency. A heavy-duty 540-rpm PTO handles up to 90 horsepower. The 12-knife cutterhead delivers a fine uniform chop.

Powerful performance.

The heavy-duty Model 790 gives you smooth and efficient harvesting, thanks to the 12 cutterhead knives set at a steeper rake angle and a two-speed blower. The heavy duty driveline handles up to 150 horsepower.

Energy-saving efficiency

The Model 900 is designed to meet the needs of today's big crop producers. The 1,000-rpm driveline is rated at 190-PTO or 210-tractor horsepower. You get smooth feeding and controlled chopping because of a design that lets the feedrolls pivot up and toward the cutterhead as a unit for ideal length of cut.

Peace of mind protection

Optional Metalert® II, available on the "790" and "900", looks for trouble before it happens. You get a five-year guarantee against cutterhead damage caused by ferrous metal. More important, it keeps nasty bits of scrap metal out of livestock feed.

To get all the facts on New Holland forage harvesters, come see us about a demonstration on your farm.

YOGURT

1 quart milk
⅓ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup dry milk
1/3 cup yogurt

Heat milk to 180 degrees. Cool down to 110 degrees. Take ½ cup of the milk and add the yogurt to it. Mix all ingredients together along with the milk/yogurt mixture. Put in a jar and set it in warm water (110-112 degrees) for 5-6 hours or until set. Chill.

This can be eaten plain or mix a little gelatin in when ready to eat for a different flavor. We also lilke to eat ours with rice crispy mixed in.

THE BEST GRAHAM CRACKER PIE

Crust: 1 pack graham crackers
¼ cup melted butter
Filling:
2 cups milk
2 eggs (separated)
1/3 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla

To make filling, heat 1½ cup milk. Combine sugar, salt, cornstarch, and egg yolks. Add a little milk to make a paste, then add to heated milk. Cook until thickened. Add vanilla. Put whipped cream on top. Chill and serve.

We live on a farm in Dauphin Co., have a 40-cow dairy barn, have lots of cats, a dog, calves, heifers, and horse. My job is being a housewife, so I find these recipes in the Lancaster Farming quite helpful in feeding a hungry husband. Keep up the good recipes.

RHUBARB SPONGE

2 egg yolks
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
2 egg whites, beaten
2 cups diced rhubarb

Beat egg yolks in bowl. Add flour and melted butter. Stir in milk slowly. Add sugar and lemon juice, mixing well. Stir in beaten whites. Place diced rhubarb in unbaked shell. (I use a 9-inch deep pan.) Pour mixture over. Bake at 350 degrees until inserted knife comes out clean.

SAUSAGE AND ASPARAGUS SKILLET SUPPER

1 pound sausage, bulk or casings
1 pound asparagus
4 medium potatoes
½ cup cheese, shredded

If sausage is in casing, remove before frying, saute until browned, drain fat. Add asparagus pieces and potatoes and enough water to cook in. Simmer about 20-30 minutes until vegetables are tender. Add cheese just before serving. Delicious! A handy, quick skillet dish.

MILK PUNCH

1 quart orange sherbet
1 pint vanilla ice cream
1 pint milk
2 liter 7-Up

Dip sherbet and ice cream into punch bowl. Add milk. Pour chilled 7-Up over the mixture.

This is the most refreshing drink. Our son Scott had about 40 friends over the other Sunday night after a chorus program and the kids kept coming back for seconds and thirds.

Our son Bob and his wife took over the dairy three years ago, but Bob Jr. still plants the corn and beans and does some mechanical work and milks occasionally.

Our 17-year-old son Scott attends LMH and works for his brother in the evenings and Saturdays. This weekend Bob Jr. will be helping Scott milk so Bob, Karen and Tanner can have a weekend in the mountains. We also have two married daughters, Boni, married to John Landis and Vonda married to Doug Smoker. Boni was the '82 Lancaster County Dairy Princess and is an RN at LGH in CCU. Vonda is a full-time mother to Shelby Paul, 18 months, and Tianna Jo, six days old.

We built a log home this past year and are still trying to finish it. Bob is a mechanic at C.B. Hoobers and still does custom corn and bean planting in the evenings and Saturdays. I work as a bookkeeper part time for Lancaster Vet Association.

TUNA COTTAGE CHEESE CASSEROLE

1 7-ounce can tuna
1½ cups creamed cottage cheese
¼ cup bread crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon onion
1 beaten egg

Combine ingredients in a 1-quart casserole and sprinkle on top: ¼ cup bread crumbs and 3 tablespoons Parmesan cheese.

Top with 2 tablespoons butter. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes. Serves 4-6.

We live on a beef and hog finishing farm in the Oley Valley with our major crops, corn and soybeans. For about the first 10 years of our marriage we raised tomatoes and carrots for Campbell's soups. About 1975, Campbell's stopped contracting vegetables in this area and we switched to a beef and hog operation.

We have three children, a lovely daughter-in-law and one sweet granddaughter. Greg, our oldest son, is married to Sharon and they have a daughter, Courtney. Jane just finished her sophomore year at EMC and Dwight is a junior in high school.

We live in an old stone house and we are always working on a "project." Lloyd, my husband, spent about 14 years repainting the entire house of 13 original rooms.

A highlight for our family was a hike through the Grand Canyon in 1983. We spent about 6 months planning for it and it was worth all the work. We spent two nights in the canyon and everyone carried a backpack.

SWISS HAM AND NOODLE CASSEROLE

2 tablespoons butter
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
10½ ounce can cream of mushroom soup
1 cup sour cream
8 ounce package noodles, cooked and drained
2 cups shredded Swiss cheese
2 cups diced cooked ham

Melt butter in saucepan. Saute onion and green pepper. Remove from heat. Stir in soup and sour cream. Add this to the noodles, cheese and ham. Pour into a 2 quart buttered casserole. Bake 350 degrees for 35-40 minutes. (This recipe is very good, quick and easy to make.

1 large box strawberry Jell-O
2 mashed bananas
1 to 1½ pints partially frozen strawberries
8-ounces cream cheese
8-ounces whipped topping

Prepare Jell-O according to directions. Chill until partially set. Add partially frozen strawberries and bananas. Chill until firm. Combine cream cheese and whipped topping. Spread on top of Jell-O mixture. Enjoy.

The Carpenter family, consisting of myself, my husband W.B., and two sons, Brad and Brian, live midway between Staunton and Harrisonburg in the beautiful Shenandoah Valley of Virginia. We are dairy farmers. Our oldest son, Brad, is employed full time on the farm and plans to marry in July. Our youngest son, Brian, is a junior at Spotswood Senior High School and active in FFA. He will serve as chapter president of his FFA group next year and will also serve as Federation Treasurer for the coming year. Brian also plans to work on the farm after finishing his education. Our boys are third generation dairy farmers at Maple Grove Dairy, Inc.

Along with farming, W.B. enjoys tractor pulling when he has time. He has been pulling for 15 years and is a superstock puller.

I serve as bookkeeper for the farm and fill all the roles that most "Moms" do. I also serve on the Christian Education Committee at St. Andrews United Church of Christ and edit the church newsletter.

As with most farm families, we never run out of things to do and are always tired at day's end. However, we feel it's the best life around.

ITALIAN LOVE CAKE

1 lemon cake mix
1 box vanilla instant pudding
2 pounds Ricotta cheese
3 eggs
2 teaspoons of vanilla
¾ cup sugar
1 cup milk
8 ounces of whipped topping

Grease and flour a 13-inch by 9-inch cake pan. Prepare cake mix according to directions. Pour into cake pan. Mix cheese with eggs, sugar, and vanilla until smooth. Pour over top of cake mix. Bake for 1 hour. Chill. Mix pudding and milk with 8 ounces of whipped topping. Spread over cooled cake. Keep refrigerated.

The original recipe used marble cake mix and chocolate pudding. Or try yellow cake mix and strawberry pudding. Delicious!

CHICKEN AND DUMPLINGS

Stewed chicken
1 cup all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons snipped parsley
1 beaten egg
¼ cup milk
2 tablespoons cooking oil
½ cup all-purpose flour

Prepare dumplings when stewed chicken is almost tender. For dumplings, combine 1 cup flour, baking powder, and ½ teaspoon salt; stir in parsley.

Combine egg, milk, and oil. Add to flour mixture, stirring with a fork only until combined. Drop dough from a tablespoon directly onto chicken in bubbly broth. Return to boiling. Cover tightly. Reduce heat; do not lift cover. Simmer 12 to 15 minutes. Remove dumplings and chicken to a warm servings platter. Strain broth. To thicken broth for gravy, in a saucepan bring 4 cups broth to boililng. Slowly stir 1 cup cold water into the ½ cup flour, gradually add to broth, mixing well. Cook and stir until bubbly. Cook and stir two minutes more. Season with ½ teaspoon salt and 1/8 teaspoon pepper. Pour some sauce over chicken and dumplings; pass remaining. Serves 12.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Today our middle daughter will be 35 years old. I've heard people say that they didn't feel old until they realized some of their children were forty years old.

When Judy was a toddler, I called her my "smile factory." She was such a pretty blond with a constant smile. When we walked down the street in Lancaster, folks would turn their heads to watch her.

She grew up as little girls do and went off to kindergarten and then through high school. She picked a small college after being very active in 4-H activities for 10 years. She had many projects including strawberries, flowers, sewing and cooking. She led a cooking club that met in my kitchen every week. Later she transferred to Penn State and switched to Food Science. In the summer she worked for Hershey Foods and eventually got a full-time job there. She became manager of their New Products Division and developed several items that are sold in Canada and the United States.

When our son married a girl from Pittsburgh, Judy met one of his ushers. Even though he lived in Atlanta, Georgia, and she lived in Palmyra, Pa., they managed to carry on a courtship and were married in the old Donegal Presbyterian Church near Mount Joy.

Now she lives in Atlanta with two little girls of her own. She just sent us a video cassette of Elizabeth on her swing set and of Catherine rolling over on the floor. It doesn't seem that long ago that I had children on a swing under the locust tree and a little one in the playpen on the porch. Lots of good memories.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Lancaster Co. 4-H Woolies Club

The Lancater County 4-H Woolies Club met at the Circle B Horse Facility, Elizabethtown, on Sat., June 8, 1991, at 9 a.m.

The meeting was held in the form of a lamb weigh-in and workshop for the members.

Lambs to be shown at the roundup on August 8 were weighed and eartag numbers recorded.

The club was also given demonstrations by some of the leaders on fitting and showing lambs. Members were shown how to slick shear a lamb, and also how to fit a lamb, leaving some wool on. Members were also given the opportunity to learn and practice showmanship skills.

The next meeting will be a swimming and ice cream social at the home of Angela, Jeremy, and Karinda Erb on Monday, July 8, at 7 p.m.

Kelly Helpers 4-H

The Kelly Helpers 4-H Club held their monthly meeting on April 18 at the Campbelltown United Methodist Church.

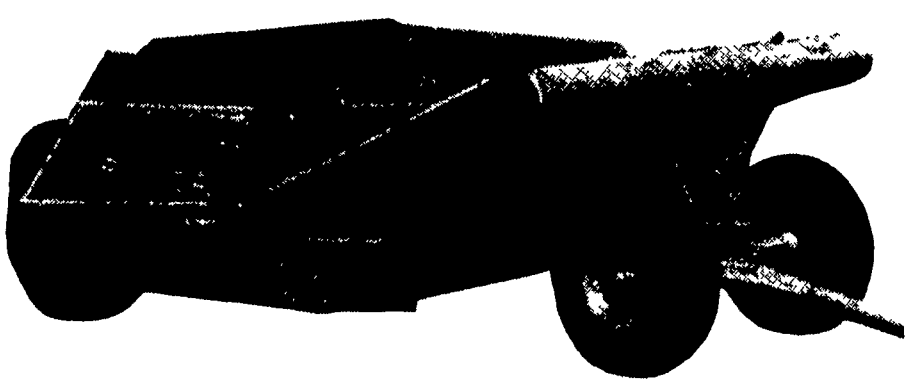
The meeting was called to order at 7 p.m. by President Wendy Pierce. The minutes were read and approved.

Under old business was Capital Days of which Londa Brant and Chris Habecker attended. Each of them reported on their trip.

Also Jenny and Shellie Ungemach, Stacey Habecker, and Sarah Goss went to Doubling Gap for teen leaders. Each of them told something about their trip.

Under new business, the group talked about Camp Shehaquah and when 4-H cookies would be picked up. Wendy Bordner did a demonstration on cake decorating. Then the group all experimented on cupcakes.

DO IT YOURSELF WITH A SOILMOVER



Automatic SOILMOVER

SCRAPE IT

With your tractor and a Soilmover, you can keep feedlots cleaner, handle manure easier . . . even build a complete run-off system or manure-handling facility.

Jim and Linda Zimmerman and sons are from Ephrata.

CHICKEN OR TURKEY PIE

Filling:
3 tablespoons butter
2 stalks celery — diced
2 carrots — peeled and diced
1 small onion minced
¼ cup flour
4 cups cooked chicken or turkey
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 cup chicken broth
1 can (10¾ ounces) cream of mushroom soup, undiluted

Crust:
1½ cups flour
¾ teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons butter
½ cup milk
2 cups shredded cheddar cheese

In skillet, melt butter; saute celery, carrots, and onion until soft. Stir in flour and salt. Gradually add milk and broth, stirring constantly until sauce thickens. Fold in mushroom soup and chicken or turkey. Spoon into 9-inch by 13-inch baking pan, set aside. For crust, combine flour, baking powder, and salt. Cut butter into flour mixture. Add milk and mix to form soft dough. Roll out to a 12-inch by 10-inch rectangle. Sprinkle with cheese and roll up jelly-roll style, starting from long side. Slice into ½ -inch wheels and place on top of chicken mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 35-40 minutes or until crust is lightly browned. Yields 6-8 servings.

CRAB AU GRATIN

1 stalk celery, chopped
1 small onion, chopped
¼ pound butter
½ cup flour
1 13-ounce can evaporated milk
2 egg yolks, beaten
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon red pepper (omit if desired)
¼ teaspoon black pepper
½ pound grated cheddar cheese
1 pound crab meat

Saute celery and onion in butter. Add flour, milk, egg yolks, salt, red pepper, and black pepper. Cook until thickened and add to crab meat. Put in casserole dish and sprinkle cheese on top. Bake at 375 degrees 10-15 minutes or longer if desired. Makes 6-8 servings.

WISCONSIN CHEESE PACKETS

2-2½ cups flour
1 package active dry yeast
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup warm milk (115-120 degrees)
2 tablespoons cooking oil
1½ cups (6 ounces) shredded mozzarella cheese
6 ounces salami, chopped
1 small tomato, peeled, seeded and chopped
⅓ cup grated Wisconsin parmesan cheese
1½ teaspoons dried sage, crushed
1 egg
1 teaspoon water

In large bowl, combine 1 cup flour, yeast, and salt. Add milk and oil. Blend thoroughly. Stir enough flour to make a soft dough. On a floured surface, knead until dough is smooth and elastic, about four minutes. Place dough in greased bowl; turn once. Cover, let rise in a warm place, until double, about 45-55 minutes. Meanwhile, make filling. In small bowl, combine mozzarella cheese, salami, tomato, and parmesan cheese. Toss to combine; set aside.

Punch dough down; divide into 6 pieces. Roll each piece into a 7-inch circle; sprinkle each with ½ teaspoon crushed sage. Spoon about ½ cup filling onto half of each circle. Combine egg and water; brush on outer edges of dough to moisten. Fold circle in half; use tines of a fork to seal edges. Place on greased baking sheet. Prick tops; brush with egg mixture. Bake in 375 degree oven for 20-25 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from baking sheet; cool on wire rack. Makes 6 servings.

Alternate: 2 cans (10 ounces each) canned refrigerated biscuits may be substituted for homemade bread dough. Roll 3 biscuits together to form 7-inch circle. Proceed with recipe directions. Reduce baking time to 15-20 minutes.

My husband Larry and I farm approximately 450 acres in Adams Co., of which we own 250 acres. We milk about 150 registerd Holsteins with about 150 younger heifers and calves. We've been farming at our present location for about 18 years.

We have four children. The oldest daughter, Lela, will be a senior at Wesley College in Dover, Delaware, majoring in business marketing. Our oldest son, Lane, is studying electronics at DeVry Technical Institute in Columbus, Ohio. Lisha is 16 years old and will be a junior at New Oxford High School. Our youngest, Ladd, is 14 years old and is also active in football and wrestling. They all know every phase of our business and have helped with the chores between their school activities.

I enjoy collecting recipes from Lancaster Farming and would like to write my own cookbook someday and maybe get my older daughter to help market it. Thank you.

FROZEN STRAWBERRY DESSERT

2 cups graham cracker crumbs
1 tablespoon sugar
½ cup butter
2 8-ounce packs of cream cheese
½ cup confectioners sugar
2 packs whip cream
4 cups mashed strawberries

Mix — pour over crumbs. Freeze. (Crust is optional.)

Lydia B. Zook

HARVEST TIME APPLE SQUARES

2 cups flower
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup granulated sugar
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
½ cup butter

Combine into crumbs. Reserve 1½ cups. Put the rest of crumbs into a 9-inch by 13-inch pan. Press.

1 8-ounce cream cheese (softened)
2 tablespoons milk
1 beaten egg
½ teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup sugar

Combine and pour over crumbs in pan. 3½ cups chopped apples. Place over cream cheese mixture. Sprinkle reserved crumbs over apples. Press slightly. Bake at 350 degrees for 30-40 minutes. Cool, cut into squares, and chill.

My husband Lynn and I are recently married and have begun dairy farming. I'm 21 and Lynn is 23 years old. I grew up on a dairy farm and Lynn did until he was 10 years old. We both enjoy working with the cows and tilling the land. We enjoy working together as a team in making decisions in the feeding, breeding, and milking programs. We are milking 44 Holsteins and eventually would like to milk 55. We are renting a farm but would someday like to own our own farm.

LEMON LUSH

1 cup flour
1 stick butter
½ cup chopped nuts

Mix together and press in bottom of 9-inch by 13-inch baking dish. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes. Cool.

Mix:
1 cup whipped cream
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
1 cup confectioners sugar

Put that on crust.

Beat together two 3 ounce packages of instant lemon pudding and 3 cups milk. Add 1 cup whipped cream and spread on white layer. Refrigerate 24 hours. Cut into squares.

Variation: For chocolate lush, use chocolate pudding instead of lemon and omit nuts from crust.

My name is Anita Moyer. We live near Bernville, Berks Co. My husband, Llewellyn, farms with his dad and brothers. We have two daughters: Linnea, 3 years and Kayla, 5 months. We like both flavors of this delicious dessert.

CHEESE-FILLED JUMBO SHELLS

1 box (12 ounces) jumbo shells, cooked
4 cups (2 pounds) Ricotta cheese
2 cups (8 ounces) shredded mozzarella cheese
¾ cup parmesan cheese, grated
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 eggs
1 tablespoon fresh parsley
¾ teaspoon oregano
½ teaspoon salt

Combine cheeses, eggs, parsley, oregano, salt, and pepper. Fill each shell. Spread thin layer of spaghetti sauce on bottom of 13-inch by 9-inch baking pan. Put filled shells on top of spaghetti sauce. Sprinkle with rest of spaghetti sauce and top with additional mozzarella cheese and sprinkle with oregano. Bake at 350 degrees for 30-35 minutes or until hot and bubbly and cheese turns a nice golden brown.

PINEAPPLE CHEESE PIE

Crust:
1 package graham crackers (crushed)
¼ cup granulated sugar
¼ cup butter (softened)

Mix all ingredients well. Press into a 9-inch pie pan. Bake shell at 350 degrees for 15 minutes. Cool till cold on cake rack.

Filling:
1 8-ounce cream cheese (softened)
¼ cup granulated sugar
1 cup heavy cream (whipped)
1½ cups crushed pineapple (drained) (press juice out in sieve)

Whip softened cream cheese and sugar together till smooth, light and fluffy. Stir in drained pineapple, mix into cream cheese/sugar mixture. Fold in whipped crea, then spoon filling into cooled baked crust (do not fuss with the filling too much). Refrigerate 1-2 hours before serving. Great!

This recipe was handed down to me from my grandmother. I can remember enjoying it when I visisted with her on my summer vacations.

HEARTY HAMBURGER STEW

2 cups water
5 cups potatoes (diced)
1 cup carrots (diced)
½ cup celery (diced)
¼ cup onion (chopped)
2 teaspoons salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
2 chicken bouillon cubes
1 teaspoon parsley flakes
2 cups tomato juice
1 pound hamburger, browned
½ pound Velveeta cheese
¼ cup flour
½ cup water
4 cups milk

Cook water, potatoes, carrots, celery, onion, salt, pepper, bouillon cubes, and parsley flakes together for 15 minutes, then add tomato juice and hamburger. Cook about 5 minutes or until vegetables are soft, then add Velveeta cheese. Make paste with flour and ½ cup water and add to mixture. Cook and stir until thick. Then add the milk.

My husband and I and our three children live on a dairy farm in Lebanon Co. We are all involved in helping with the farm chores. We all enjoy living on a farm and working around animals.

4-H

HAPPENINGS

Berks Co. 4-H Dairy, Veal Clubs

The 1990 Berks County 4-H Dairy and Veal Clubs award winners were honored recently at their annual banquet held at the Berks County 4-H Community Center in Reading.

A banquet dinner was followed with the program led by senior 4-H members Scott Youse, Sandra Gross, Amy Richard, and Randy Balthasher.

Suzann Moyer, Berks County Dairy Princess, presented the various awards. All 4-H Leaders were recognized and thanked for their part in a very successful year.

Susquehanna Co. 4-H Dairy Judging

Susquehanna County 4-H Dairy judging is having another very good year at state contests.

The team members have been practicing for several months and have competed in two state contests. There are 12 youth who are now participating in dairy judging.

The annual Penn State Spring Judging contest was held in March and there were four seniors and two juniors who participated. In the senior division, the Susquehanna County team placed second overall. Individual highlights included a tie for fifth place overall by Matt Curley and Dan Gesford. These two individuals also tied for first place on reasons in the 4-H division.

There were more than 200 youth at this contest to judge in the junior and senior 4-H, FFA, or collegiate divisions. Other Susquehanna County participants in this contest were Cathy, Michele, and Steve Pavelski and Andrea Garner.

At the Delaware Valley College annual dairy judging contest, the Susquehanna County senior team placed first overall in the 4-H division. This contest is held in April and is open to 4-H, FFA, and collegiate participants. There were more than 100 youth at this year's contest.

Individual highlights of this contest included three of the four seniors placing in the top five in the overall contest. Those three include Tim Empet and Cathy and Steve Pavelski. Michele Pavelski was the other senior and she placed fifth in reasons. Andrea Garner competed in the junior division and did very well.

The Susquehanna County 4-H judging teams are now continuing their practices for the state 4-H judging contest, which will be held at the State 4-H Achievement Days. Winners form this contest will qualify to go on to the national judging contest held in Wisconsin each fall.

As well as dairy judging, there will be a dairy bowl team participating in the state contest.

FFA HAPPENINGS

Littlestown FFA Holds Annual Awards Banquet

On Saturday, May 18, the Littlestown FFA Held its third annual FFA Awards Program at Littlestown High School.

The program was conducted entirely by the 1990-1991 chapter officers: President Mandy Hilbert, Vice President Jeff Buckley, Secretary Michelle Markline, Treasurer Carliss Brown, Reporter Steve Chalk, Sentinel Steve Dutterer, Junior Advisor Jody Brown, and Chaplain Duane Koontz. Presenting awards was Larry Feeser of the Pennsylvania State FFA Association.

The Greenhand Degree is awarded to first-year members who have been active in chapter activities and demonstrated knowledge about the organization. Brandi King, Crissy Barnes, Joe Bowman, Chad Fowler, Ron Hilbert, Jason Hoff, Heidi Rode, Jesse Roop, Randy Wiseman, John McMAster, Neal Klingler, Brian Reaver, Keith Rohrbaugh, Allen Sanders, and Missy Toller were presented with their Greenhand.

Ron Hilbert was selected Star Greenhand. Ron has been a very active member of the Littlestown FFA, having attended the Freshman Leadership Conference at Penn State and the FFA Mid-Winter Convention in Harrisburg. Ron won the Adams County FFA creed contest, placed fourth out of 34 in the ag mechanics contest, and participated in the Envirothon and volleyball tournaments, and many other activities. Ron raises swine for his supervised agricultural experience program and showed his animals at the farm show this year.

The Chapter FFA Degree is awarded to older students who have established SAE projects, demonstrated leadership ability, and been active in many chapter activities. This year's winners were Chad Dutterer, Steve Dutterer, Jesse Beachtel, Michelle Markline, and Duane Koontz.

A Star Chapter Farmer is chosen from all students currently holding the Chapter Farmer Degree. This person must be a proven leader and have an outstanding SAE project. This year's winner was Chad Dutterer. Chad's SAE includes raising swine, which he has shown at Farm Show and the Adams County Sheep and Swine Show, working on a Morgan horse farm, and milking cows for an area dairy farmer. Chad has been elected sentinel of the Littlestown FFA for next year. Chad was presented his award by Mandy Hilbert, last year's Star Chapter Farmer.

A Star Agribusiness Award is given to a person holding the Chapter FFA Degree but with a project in the agribusiness area. This year's winner is David Inglis. David is empolyed by Patty and John's Restaraunt in Hanover.

Youth To Study In Germany

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Janessa Burkholder of Ickesburg has won a 1991-1992 Congress-Bundestag scholarship. This scholarship provides her the opportunity to study agriculture in Germany for a year as a part of the National FFA Organization's World AgriScience Studies (WASS) exchange program.

Fourteen FFA members from across the nation were chosen for this special scholarship. Burkholder, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Burkholder and a member of the West Perry Senior High School FFA chapter. Samuel Wagner is her FFA advisor.

The United States Congress and the German Bundestag, the German parliament, provide funding for this program through a grant to the National FFA Organization. Fourteen FFA members and 12 German youth will participate in the agricultural program in 1991-1992. In addition to agricultural exchanges, the Congress-Bundestag Program provides funding for 300 scholarships in academic, vocational, and young professional exchanges.

Janessa Burkholder

Before departing, scholarship winners will attend a six-day orientation at the National FFA Center. Seminars will focus on political systems in the USA and Germany, cross-cultural communication, and adapting to another culture.

Following the orientation and travel to Germany, Burkholder will complete two months of German language training in Radolfzell, Germany. She will then live and work with a German farm family while attending agricultural school for the next 10 months.

4-H'ers Model At Trade Show

Five York County 4-H members modeled the outfits they made in a fashion show at the Creative Festival in Valley Forge on Sunday, May 19.

They were among the 45 4-H'ers from southeastern Pennsylvania to participate in the fashion show. The 4-H models were Jessica Price, Davidsburg 4-H Club; Jana Lamberson, Davidsburg 4-H Club; Nichole Koons, Airville 4-H Club; Samantha Koons, Airville 4-H Club; and Tanya Thoman, Loganville 4-H Club.

The Creative Festival was a trade show for sewing, quilting, needlework, and craft enthusiasts.

4-H Swine Club

The Lancaster Co. 4-H Swine Club met on May 14 at 7:30 p.m., at the Farm and Home Center.

Jeff Eyer was introduced to the club as a new leader. He will be helping in the Solanco area. Chet Hughes explained the new project books.

The next meeting will be held at West Lampeter Fairgrounds. The Lancaster Co. 4-H Swine Club will be joining the Lancaster Co. 4-H Woolies Club and the Lancaster Co. 4-H Beef Club in an ice cream and recreational social, June 5 beginning at 6:30 p.m.

4-H Members At State Capitol

Lebanon County 4-H members met with area legislators and other government officials during State 4-H Capital Days activities held recently in Harrisburg.

4-H'ers participating in the citizenship program from Lebanon County were Londa Brandt, Christine Habecker, and Wendy Pierce. They were among 160 4-H members from across the state who participated in the citizenship awareness event.

While in Harrisburg, they received a guided tour of the State Capitol Building and the Governor's Mansion, visited local legislators in their offices, and participated in educational workshops geared to increase their understanding of the legislative process.

Ed Arnold was the guest of the county delegation at a legislative breakfast. 4-H members and lawmakers discussed local issues and defined the purpose of the 4-H educational youth program.

4-H, FFA Fair

Flea market and craft vendors are wanted for Carroll County 4-H and FFA Fair on Sunday, July 28, 1991, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., rain or shine.

Dave has worked to improve his mechanics skills. This year Dave, together with Jody Brown, won the Adams County small gas engines contest and went on to defeat teams from York and Franklin counties to earn the right to participate in the state contest during FFA week at Penn State in June.

Dave was presented his award by Jody Brown, last year's Star Chapter Agribusinessman.

WALNUT PINEAPPLE CAKE

2 cups flour
2 cups sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup walnuts, chopped
1 20-ounce can crushed pineapple with juice

Combine ingredients. Pour into 9x13-inch cake pan. Bake cake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. When cool, top with the following then refrigerate.

Topping:
1 stick butter
8 ounces cream cheese
1 cup confectioners sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

I am a farm wife. I have been married for 12½ years to William H. Ford III. We have four children, Heather, 12, Billy, 11, Michael 10; and James 6. They help around the farm a lot. We live on a farm and my husband and I also work on a dairy farm. I raise all the calves from birth. Bill is the herdsman and h also feeds all the animals. Our family has been farming for a year and a half. We have started out slow, but we hope to have our own dairy someday soon. This has been a dream of our whole family.

I am a 4-H leader for the livestock club and the Clever Clover Club. We are also involved in the dairy club and a horse club for easy riders. We own a horse, a pony, two dogs, cats, and seven lambs. Four of our lambs are for breeding projects. Last year we also raised three pigs as 4-H projects. As you can see, we like all kinds of animals.

I enjoy doing many things. I enjoy cooking, baking, horseback riding, crafts, ribbon work and paper quilling.

SUMMER SNOWBALLS

1 cup sugar
3 eggs
1 cup milk
4 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
Confectioners sugar

Beat eggs and sugar; add milk. Beat in the flour and baking powder. Drop by teaspoonfuls in hot oil and brown. When cool, shake in confectioners sugar.

We live on a farm in Perry County. Kids love these snowballs and like to help shake them. I made these often when my two children were at home. Very easy to make and tasty too.

ICE CREAM DESSERT

60 Ritz crackers (crushed)
1 stick butter, melted
2 packages coconut cream instant pudding
1 quart softened vanilla ice cream
1½ cups milk
5 ounces of whipped topping

Mix crackers and melted butter. Press ¾ of crumbs in bottom of buttered 9-inch by 13-inch cake pan or baking dish. Blend pudding and milk. Add ice cream. Blend well. Pour mixture evenly over crumbs. Let set in refrigerator until chilled. Spread with whipped topping. Sprinkle remaining crumbs on top.

My parents have about 60 cows and about 30 heifers. There's eight of us altogether. My parents are only 31, I'm 11, Glenda is 9, Kevin is 7, Christine is 6, Dennis is 5, and Bryon is 2. We all have our own jobs and garden.

GRAHAM CRACKER TORTE

Crumbs:
20 graham crackers
½ cup butter, melted
½ cup brown sugar

Pudding:
3 egg yolks
1 cup sugar
½ cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
3 cups milk
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup coconut

Meringue:
3 egg whites
½ teaspoon cream of tarter
6 tablespoons sugar
1 can crushed pineapple, drained

Mix butter, cracker crumbs, and sugar. Set aside. Scald milk, add egg yolks, sugar, flour, and salt. Cook until thick. Beat egg whites and cream of tarter until stiff; add sugar. Line dishes with crumbs, pour in pudding and spread pineapples on top of pudding. Place meringue on top and brown in oven.

SASSY BEEF

Meat:
2 pounds sirloin or veal cubes
½ cup white wine
½ cup chicken broth
2 tablespoons cornstarch
Salt
Pepper
2 tablespoons oil
1 cup sour cream

Cheese sauce:
1 tablespoon finely diced celery
1 tablespoon finely diced onion
¼ cup finely chopped broccoli florets
1 tablespoon oil
8 slices Swiss cheese, thinly sliced
1 quart water
¼ cup chicken broth
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup half and half
1 pound broccoli spears
½ pound mushroom caps

Meat: Season the meat with salt and pepper. Saute lightly in oil. Remove meat from pan. Add white wine and chicken broth to pan. Thicken with cornstarch. Return meat to pan and simmer for 40 minutes. Just before serving, stir in sour cream.

Cheese sauce:

Saute celery, onion, and broccoli florets in oil. Add water and broth. Bring to a hard boil and cook until broccoli is soft. Use a whisk to mash broccoli. Thicken with tablespoons cornstarch. Add half and half. Bring to a boil and turn off heat. Add a dash of butter. Add Swiss cheese. Let the sauce stand until the cheese is melted.

On a platter, arrange cooked broccoli spears around the outside edge (heads facing out). Between the broccoli spears place the mushroom caps. Spoon cheese sauce over the broccoli and mushrooms. Place the meat in the center. Serves 6.

My husband and I live on a dairy farm in the mountains of southwestern Pennsylvania. Our farm has been in the family for more than 130 years. Allen is the fourth generation to farm our land.

We have three children, Lisa, Karen, and Scott. Our children all help with chores on the farm and are active in Somerset County 4-H. I have taught school for 26 years.

EASY-COOL DESSERT

Crust: 2 cups graham cracker crumbs
5 tablespoons sugar
½ cup butter — soften

Mix together and press into 9-inch by 13-inch pan. Set in freezer and cool until set.

Filling: 2 cups whipped cream or topping. In separate bowl, whip one 8-ounce cream cheese until soft. Next, put whip cream in cream cheese, add 1 cup powdered sugar.

Pour on top of cooled crust. Let set before serving top with 1 can of prepared pie filling — your favorite kind.

We have a dairy farm in Warren Co.

We have four girls, and all help on the farm. Two are married now, one married a dairy farmer in Snyder Co., and one was 1989 Warren Co. dairy princess. Now with three graddaughters, it looks like an all-girl thing.

I love going to farm stock markets and I collect cows. Just in my kitchen we have 86 different items with cows on it so far.

ORANGE JULIUS

1 cup frozen orange juice concentrate
1½ cups water
1½ cups milk
¾ cup sugar
18 ice cubes
1½ teaspoons vanilla

Blend well in blender at high speed until ice cubes are crushed. Approximately four servings. A very refreshing drink on hot summer days.

ICE CREAM DESSERT

2 cups graham cracker crumbs (scant)
2 quarts ice cream (vanilla)
1 cup nuts (chopped)
1 cup chocolate chips
½ cup butter
2 cups confectioners sugar
1 can evaporated milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 pint cool whip

Press crumbs in a 9-inch by 13-inch cake pan. Reserve 1 cup crumbs for top. Put ice cream on crumbs, sprinkle nuts on ice cream. Melt chocolate chips, butter, confectioners sugar, and milk in saucepan. Cook until smooth and thick (stir often), add vanilla. Pour mixture on ice cream and freeze until firm. Then put whipped cream on top and sprinkle crumbs on top of whipped cream

CHICKEN 'N' CHEESE SOUP

2 teaspoon butter
½ cup each finely diced celery, onion and carrot
2 teaspoons flour
1 cup water
1 pack instant chicken broth mix
½ cup frozen peas
½ cup skim milk
2 ounces shredded cheese
4 ounces skinned and boned cooked chicken, diced
½ cup cooked long-grain rice
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash salt and pepper

In 2-quart saucepan, heat butter until bubbly, add celery, onion and carrot. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally until tender. Add flour and stir quickly to combine; gradually stir in water. Add broth mix and, stirring constantly, bring to a boil, add peas, and cook three minutes. Reduce heat and add milk and cheese, cook, stirring constantly, until cheese is melted. Add remaining ingredients and cook, stirring occasionally, until thoroughly heated. (Turkey may be subsituted for chicken).

I love the recipes! Theyre great!

ORANGE JELL-O DESSERT

3 ounces orange Jell-O
1 cup hot water
1 cup cold water
½ cup vanilla ice cream

Make Jell-O and water according to package directions. Chill until partially set. Whip with mixer; add ice cream. Beat until smooth. Pour in bowl and decorate with marshmallows. Chill until set.

We live on a small dairy farm. This is an easy recipe for our girls to make with very little help. They can choose other flavors to suit their tastes.

CREAMY TAPIOCA

1 quart milk
¾ cup sugar
4 eggs beaten
3 tablespoons minute tapioca
¼ teaspoon salt

Scald milk in top of double boiler. Add salt, sugar and tapioca and cook 15 minutes or until clear. Beat eggs and add some of the hot mixture until a smooth paste is formed. Add paste to hot tapioca and continue to cook for 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Pour into serving dish and chill.

ALL-BRAN MUFFINS

1 box All-Bran cereal (13.8 ounce box)
2 cups boiling water
1 cup oil
4 beaten eggs
3 cups sugar
5 cups unsifted flour
1 quart buttermilk
5 teaspoons soda
2 teaspoons salt

Mix together cereal and boiling water. Let stand. Pour oil into mixture. Add rest of ingredients (optional: add 1½ cup raisins.) Bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes.

These can be baked all at once and frozen, or batter can be kept in refrigerator and baked as needed. Serve with real butter!

My husband, Ernie, and I were married last May. We started shipping milk in August and are now milking 36 cows—mostly first calf heifers. Our first child, Elizabeth, was born in April.

Maryland DHIA Issues Report

The May 1991 DHI information for Maryland dairy herds is listed by herd name, county, total number of cows in the herd, and the average production per cow on a 3.5% Fat Corrected Milk (FCM) basis for all milking cows in the herd. The herd must consist of at least 10 cows averaging 60 lbs. or more of 3.5% FCM per cow per day. All of the herds are on official DHI or DHIR test.

Also listed are the top 10 herds in Maryland for the Brown Swiss, Guernseys and Jerseys, and the top seven herds for Ayrshires.

GET THE EXTRA EDGE

Put a Vicon three-bladed disc mower through wet, tangled crops - even fire ant hills - and then compare the difference.

With almost double the number of cuts per minute over two-bladed disc competitors, and the extra suction created by Vicon's unique triangular discs, it's easy to see why Vicon CM disc mowers are the choice for fast, clean NO-PLUG performance.

Rugged, low profile cutterbars in 5'6", 6'9" and 7'10" widths, reversible blades and heavy duty discs, deliver reliability and capacity when time is tight.

Vicon's got the edge. The extra edge.

BUTTERSCOTCH ICE CREAM PUDDING

2 cups Ritz cracker crumbs
½ cup melted butter
½ gallon ice cream
2 cups milk
1 box instant vanilla pudding
1 box instant butterscotch pudding

Make a crust with crumbs and butter. Beat together milk and pudding mixes. Stir in ice cream. Top with whipped cream. Freeze. Put into refrigerator three to four hours before serving.

My family includes Allen and Emma Sommers, Sarai, 27; Samuel, 27; Joanna, 22; Jason, 18; and Lois Veronica, 15.

We milk 62 cows. We have one part border collie and part labrador retriever dog.

We live in Madison County, N.Y., about 30 miles south of Syracuse. Allen, my dad, Jason, Dave and I usually milk. Joanna fills in when needed. We have a 240-acre farm with 160 tillable and two houses on it.

PINEAPPLE-APRICOT BREAD

¼ cup toasted sliced almonds
¾ cup milk
½ cup butter, melted and cooled
1 8-ounce can crushed pineapple
1 cup chopped dried apricots
1 egg, slightly beaten
3 cups all-purpose flour
¾ cup sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon baking soda

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Generously butter a 9x5-inch loaf pan. Sprinkle with sliced almonds; gently press almonds to sides and bottom of pan. Combine milk, butter, pineapple, apricots, and egg in large mixing bowl. Combine dry ingredients. Stir dry ingredients into milk-fruit mixture just until all ingredients are combined. Spread batter evenly in pan. Bake until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean about 70 to 75 minutes. Cool in pan 15 minutes. Remove from pan and cool completely on wire rack. Wrap tightly in plastic wrap and store 24 hours before serving.

My husband, Paul, my son, David, 22, and I operate a 350-cow dairy farm with seven full-time employees. We raise corn for silage and harvest grass for hay and silage. We bought the farm 23 years ago when there were 40 milking cows. Yesterday my son said that there are 675 Holsteins on the farm. We are proud of being dairy farmers and try to promote the dairy industry with open farm visits for the public. This is a very busy season; of course with the spring being so hot and dry, we have been able to get the crops in early.

We enjoy your newspaper and have always shared it with the other people who visit us. Farming in our area is on the decline and we enjoy reading about other farmers and their methods.

I will share the recent article about the dangers of the milk house detergents with my daughter in Virginia who recently gave us our first grandchild just before Christmas. She also lives on a dairy farm where her husband is the herdsman.

Keep up the good work and thanks for making our days a little brighter.

BREAD CUSTARD PUDDING

3 cups bread crumbs
4 cups "Jersey" milk
¾ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 eggs, beaten
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup coconut

Soak bread in scalded milk for 15 minutes. Add sugar, salt, and egg. Blend together. Add melted butter, vanilla, and coconut. Stir. Pour into a casserole dish and bake 325 degrees for 25 minutes.

Remove from oven and stir. Return to oven at 300 degrees for 20 minutes.

Set casserole in pan of water to bake. Sprinkle with cinnamon before serving.

I live on a large Jersey cow farm in northeast Pennsylvania. My father -in-law is the fifth generation. My husband, who was killed in an accident in 1988, was the sixth generation. Our children are the seventh. Now we have grandchildren who are the eighth to live and work on the farm.

I'm so proud of my five children, especially my two sons, Steve and Stuart, who since their father's death are trying hard to keep the family farm in operation.

My husband collected milk bottles and I collect cows. We would display them at dairy shows.

GOURMET POTATOES

6 medium potatoes
1 cup sharp cheese
1 cup Velveeta cheese
1½ cups sour cream
2 tablespoons butter
¼ cup onion
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Parsley

Cook potatoes until soft. Cool, peel, and shred. Add sharp cheese and Velveeta, which is also shredded. Add remaining ingredients. Put into 2-quart buttered casserole dish. Cover and bake or refrigerate or freeze. Bake 45 minutes at 325 degrees.

We are a farm family of eight. We milk about 100 cows at Danville R.6. The town is coming to the country, but not like Lancaster County. We like the hills and mountains around here. Do enjoy your paper.

PECAN TARTS

8 ounces cream cheese
8 ounces butter
2 cups flour

Mix and form balls the size of walnuts. Press into tart pans forming the shape.

Filling:
3 tablespoons butter, melted
3 cups brown sugar
3 beaten eggs

Mix the melted butter, brown sugar, and eggs together and spoon into the shells. Sprinkle with ground nuts. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes. Fill little tarts ½ full.

COCONUT CREAM EGGS

In small bowl, beat:
2 egg whites
½ cup heavy cream

In large bowl, combine:
1 pound flaked coconut
2 pounds confectioners sugar

Stir in the egg white mixture and add:
½ stick butter, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla

Roll and coat with:
½ pound dark sweet chocolate
⅓ stick paraffin

Sherri Sattazahn

STRAWBERRY DELIGHT

1½ cups graham cracker crumbs
⅓ cup butter, melted
2 8-ounce packages cream cheese
½ cup confectioners sugar
½ cup water
1½ (8 ounce) containers whipped topping
8 cups strawberries
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch

Combine cracker crumbs and butter; pat in bottom of 13x9-inch pan. Beat cream cheese and confectioners sugar. Fold in the topping. Spread on top of the graham cracker crusts. Mash enough berries to measure 1 cup. Stir together sugar and cornstarch. Gradually stir in water and crushed berries. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and boils. Boil and stir 1 minute. Cool. Spread remaining berries on cream cheese mixture. Pour chilled berry mixture over top. Chill.

CHERRY CHEESECAKE

Beat together until creamy:
2 8-ounce packages cream cheese
¾ cup sugar
Add and beat well:
3 egg yolks
2 tablespoons flour
1 pint sour cream
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Fold in:
3 stiffly beaten egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla

Pour mixture into graham cracker crust in a spring form pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes. Turn oven off and leave cheesecake in oven until cool. Chill and top with cherry pie filling.

TAPIOCA PUDDING

3½ cups milk
3 tablespoons minute tapioca
1 egg
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix together all ingredients in pan except vanilla. Let stand 5 to 10 minutes. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until full boil. Cool and add vanilla. Chill and serve.

This was a pudding I enjoyed while growing up and now my daughters enjoy making it. Since we live on a dairy farm, we have it often.

SOUR CREAM LEMON PIE

1¼ cups sugar
4 tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup fresh lemon juice
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1½ cups milk
¼ cup butter
1 cup cultured sour cream
1 baked 9-inch pie shell
1 cup heavy whipping cream, whipped
Lemon twists for garnish

Combine sugar, cornstarch, lemon juice, egg yolks, and milk in heavy saucepan; cook over medium heat until thickened. Stir in butter and cool mixture to room temperature. Stir in sour cream and pour filling into pie shell. Cover with whipped cream and garnish with lemon twists. Store in refrigerator.

CHEESE POTATO SCALLOPS

15 medium potatoes, pared and sliced
½ cup butter
1½ cups onion, chopped
½ cup flour
2½ teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons dry mustard
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
6 cups milk
1 pound cheddar cheese, shredded
1 cup saltine crackers
¼ cup melted butter
Paprika

Cook potatoes in boiling water until tender. Drain well. Melt ½ cup butter in large saucepan. Add onion and saute until tender. Blend in flour, salt, dry mustard, and Worcestershire sauce. Gradually stir in milk. Cook, stirring constantly until sauce thickens and boils 1 minute. Remove from heat. Add cheese, stir until melted. Place potatoes in 2 11x7-inch baking dishes. Pour on cheese sauce and sprinkle with cracker crumbs combined with ¼ cup butter. Dust with paprika.

Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 14 servings. Unbaked casserole may be frozen until ready to use.

My husband, Randy, and I have two children, Adam, 4; and Kristie, 7 months. Adam just had a birthday so he is enjoying his new toys and Kristi enjoys watching him. Our family enjoys all kinds of outdoor activities, hiking, bike riding, kite flying, swimming, boating and so forth. So we look forward to a fun summer.

CREAM CHEESE BRAID

1 cup sour cream
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup butter, melted
½ cup sugar
½ cup warm water
2 packages yeast
2 eggs
4 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
Filling:
1 pound cream cheese
¾ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon lemon
1 beaten egg
Glaze:
2 cups confectioners sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 tablespoons milk

Scald sour cream. Stir in sugar, salt, and butter. Cool to lukewarm. Measure warm water in large warm bowl. Sprinkle yeast and stir. Add lukewarm sour cream mixture, eggs, and flour. Mix until well blended. Do not knead. Do not add additional flour. Cover tightly and refrigerate overnight. Next day: divide dough into 4 pieces. Roll each piece into a rectangle 8x12-inches. Filling: Mix ingredients until smooth. Spread each rectangle with filling. Keep filling away from edges. Roll up like jelly roll. Pinch ends together and fold under slightly. Lay roll on greased sheet. With scissors, cut each roll deeply, making cuts alternating from side to side. Allow to rise until double in bulk, 2 hours. Bake at 375 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes. Spread while hot with glaze. Yields 4 braids.

I enjoy knowing what's going on in Pennsylvania.

LEMON PUFF

1 stick butter
1 cup flour
½ cup nuts

Mix ingredients and pat into 9x13-inch cake pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 20 minutes. Cool. Prepare 1 envelope whipped topping according to directions. Mix ½ of the whipped topping with 8-ounces cream cheese and 1 cup confectioners sugar. Spoon into baked crust. Prepare two small boxes instant lemon pudding using 3 cups milk. Pour onto cheese layer. Spread reserved whipped topping on top and chill until well set.

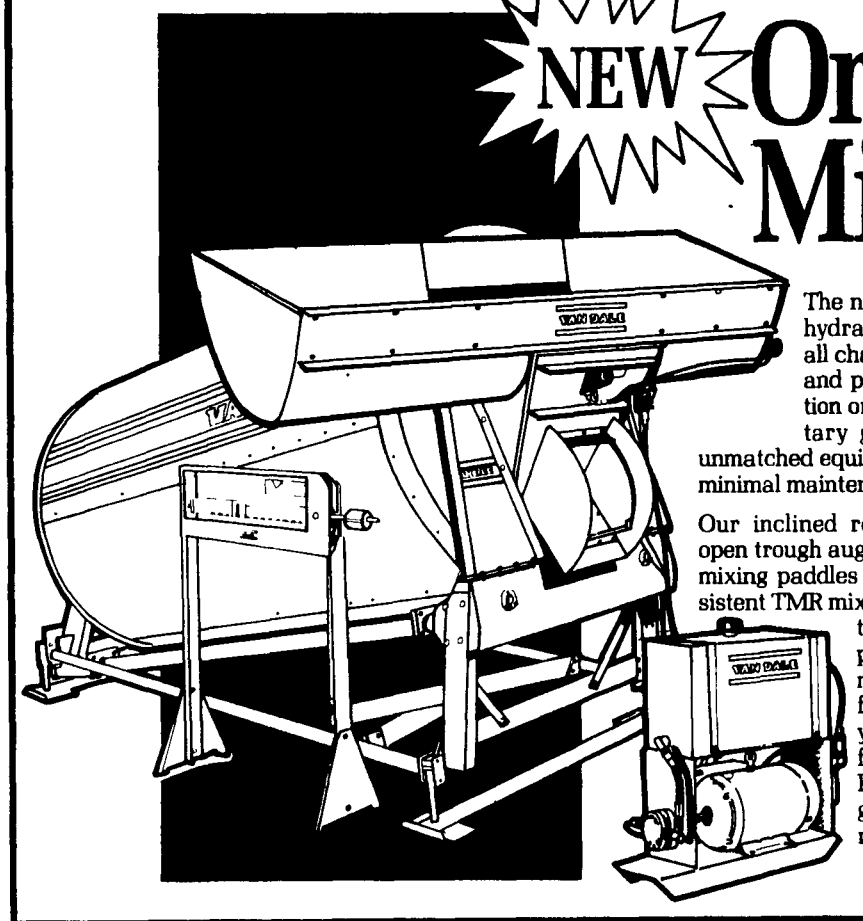
NEW Orbit II Mixer



The new Van Dale Orbit II hydraulic mixer eliminates all chains, sprockets, belts, and pulleys. The combination orbit motor and planetary gear drive give you unmatched equipment reliability and minimal maintenance.

Our inclined rotating drum, large open trough auger and six full length mixing paddles give you a fast consistent TMR mix time after time. And the optional eight foot power hopper permits loading with a front end loader. If you're thinking TMR feeding, think Van Dale Orbit II Mixer. It gets the job done right.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Lancaster County
4-H Woolies Club

The Lancaster County 4-H Woolies Club met recently at the East Donegal Township Building, Maytown. The meeting was called to order by Mark Tracy, president.

It was announced that there will be a carcass lamb show along with the roundup on Thursday, August 8, at the Solanco Fairgrounds. All interested members were asked to sign up for this show. Members were also informed about some up-coming sales to buy project lambs.

The program for the evening was "Project Lamb Selection." Leader Gerald Tracy gave a demonstration with live lambs on what to look for when choosing project lambs, both market and breeding. The lambs used represented the Dorset, Suffolk, Hampshire, and Polypay breeds.

Lancaster County 4-H
Production Club

At the recent reorganizational meeting of the Lancaster County 4-H Horse Production Club, officers were elected and the yearly calendar was established.

Renamed president for the third year in a row was Alison Farrington, Lititz. Kim Kettering, Manheim, was voted vice president, and secretary is Heidi Rainville, Rising Sun, Md. News reporters for the club are Kerra Allen and Giovana Grumelli, and Kerra Allen and Lyndsy Holton are in charge of the club scrapbook.

Club meetings for the 1991 year are as follows: June 11, meeting place to be determined; July 15, club show at Lower Hopewell; August swim party at Ketterings (date to be determined); Oct. 15 meeting, place to be determined; Nov. 19, record books to be turned in at this meeting, place to be determined.

Leaders for the club are Rose and Dan Fellenbaum. Anyone involved in the 4-H Horse Clubs with a horse two years old or younger is invited to get involved in the production club, which is specifically designed for members raising young horses.

Adams Co.
4-H Assistant

Adams County Cooperative Extension recently announced that the position of 4-H assistant for the summer of 1991 will be filled by Karl L. Tyson, son of Jared and Peggy Tyson of New Oxford, Pa.

Karl began his duties as 4-H assistant on May 13, 1991 and will continue with extension through August 3, 1991.

He will be working with 4-H summer events such as Regional 4-H Presentation Night, 4-H State Achievement Days, 4-H Fair, 4-H Fashion Review, 4-H Day Camp, and miscellaneous other local and county 4-H events.

The main focus of Karl's 4-H assistant program will deal with Citizenship Club development. Karl will be teaching two projects, "Township Government and You" and "Your Community Heritage," in several communities throughout Adams County.

The main focus of this program is to develop a 4-H program in communities where one does not exist. Karl will be promoting his program in several elementary schools in May. This program will be geared toward 8- to 12-year-olds and will include educational as well as recreational activities.

No-So-Ann Dairy 4-H Club

The No-So-Ann Dairy 4-H Club held its monthly meeting on April 25 at 7:30 at the Lebanon Ag Center.

The club had a Dairy Bowl with four teams. Andy Martin gave a demonstration on hair balls that form in a cow's stomach.

THE MAJOR LEAGUE PLAYER FOR DOUBLE-CROP SOYBEANS

PURSUIT® herbicide won't slow you down when planting double-crop soybeans. Just a single "early postemergence" application of PURSUIT® herbicide combines contact and long-lasting residual activity to shut out over 40 of the toughest broadleaf weeds and grasses. With the highest degree of overall control. And you don't have to worry about carryover when you rotate to wheat or field corn. Its advanced chemistry and low rates of application also make PURSUIT an ideal choice for the environment. And for the applicator. For all the facts, see us soon—and discover a whole new league in soybean weed control.

How to use PURSUIT® herbicide: Application: "early postemergence." Timing: majority of weeds 1"—3" tall (approximately 14-25 days after planting). Rate: 4 oz./acre. Weed control: 44 broadleaves and grasses, including velvetleaf, foxtails, cocklebur and shattercane. Tank mix: 10+ gal. water/acre (20 for no-till), 4 oz./acre of PURSUIT, non-ionic surfactant (1 qt./100 gal. spray mixture) or Dash,[1] 10-34-0, 28% or 32% fertilizer solution (1-2 qt./acre) or ammonium sulfate (17 lbs./100 gals. spray solution). Spray pressure: 20-40 psi. Tillage system: conventional, minimum or no-till.

GEHL®

Gehl Mix-All®: the "can do" machine!

On-farm feedmaking has never been better. Or more worry-free. In fact, Gehl Mix-All® portable grinder-mixers are truly "can do" machines. Because they fit into any feedmaking operation; uniformly grind and mix ingredients for a higher quality feed; and save work and time with efficient hydraulics. Choice of 100 or 135 bu. capacity models.

Come in today and see what a Mix-All® "can do" for you!

Gehl's thrifty feeder wagon features rugged construction and operating simplicity. This economical unit fills the needs of farmers and ranchers who don't require the complete mixing action provided by our mixer feeders. The simple two-auger system smoothly transfers feed to the wide unloading conveyor for high-capacity discharge into feed bunks. The Model 7190 is rated at 190 cubic foot struck capacity.

Gehl TMR Mixer Feeders Are #1

Nothing can maximize the return on investment in your dairy or beef feeding operation like a Total Mixed Ration (TMR) feeding system. And nothing makes TMR work better than a Gehl mixer feeder. Here's why:

- Better Mixing Action - Unique four-auger design creates a double figure-8 mixing pattern for fast and complete mixing of all feed ingredients.
- Energy Efficient - Planetary drive system requires less horsepower.
- Built To Last - Patented star couplers absorb shock loads by allowing the bottom augers to flex, providing long service life.
- Six Sizes - From 150 to 500 cubic feet mixing capacities.
- Three Styles - Trailer type, stationary and truck-mounted units to fit your operation.

The 2nd session of the sale of a private collection of 18th, 19th and 20th century American-made German language imprints was held June 15 at Horst Auction Center, Route 322 and Durlach Road, Ephrata, Lanc. Co., Pa. The collection was owned by Donald R. Hinks of Gettysburg, Pa. Fifty registered bidders attended.

The collection was catalogued by Clarence E. Spohn and included books and "broad sides"-- single sheets of paper printed on one side with a poem or hymn. Items sold that had been printed at the Ephrata Cloister included: 1748-49 Martyr's Mirror $950, 1745 Conrad Beissel book $850, 1763 book about mining $550, 4 books printed from 1792-1796 $260 to $650, handwritten music book $600 and 1770 Bible $190.

Also sold were: 1767 book "Wondering Soul" printed by Christopher Sauer of Germantown $440, 1842 songbook printed in New Berlin $550, 1792 children's story book "Genoveta" printed in Lancaster $650, 1815 Adam & Eve broad side $575 and 1844 Mount Joy broad side $170.

T. Glenn, Timothy G. and Thomas A. Horst were the auctioneers.

Junior Angus Show Draws Youth Throughout U.S.

The grand champion bred-and-owned heifer was owned by Zachary Weaver, Peoria, Illinois, and was named WAF Julia Belle 005. First named the spring heifer calf champion, the heifer is a January 1990 daughter of Hoff Hi Spade S C 491.

The reserve grand champion bred-and-owned heifer was Kruegers Belladonna exhibited by Erin Krueger, Coatesville, Pennsylvania. A March 1989 daughter of Grubbs Mac Kenzie, the heifer first topped the junior division.

In "owned" heifer competition, grand champion laurels were presented to Angela Johnson, Mt. Airy, Maryland, for her senior heifer calf winner. D A Brittany 7693 is the name of the grand winner that is a September 1989 daughter of Brost Dan Patch.

The reserve grand champion "owned" heifer entry was S A V Mac Jestress 1761 owned by Sarah Hill, Bidwell, Ohio. The reserve winner first won the spring calf division and is a February 1990 daughter of Grubbs Mac Kenzie.

Sarah Hill also exhibited the grand champion bred-and-owned bull named C F Inferno. The bull is a June 1990 son of Northcote Excitement. He weighed in at 1,250 pounds for a weight per day of age of 3.5 pounds.

Lori Cash, Centre Hall, Pennsylvania, paraded the reserve grand champion bred-and-owned bull named W C Cash Investor 010. The bull weighed 1,265 pounds and had a weight per day of age of 3.09 pounds. The April 1990 bull is sired by Rito 2100 G D A R.

In steer competition, R R Ponderosa 2260 won grand champion honors for Ty Krebs, Gordon, Nebraska. The steer is a February 1990 son of 76 R Ponderosa 216W. He weighed 1,095 pounds and had a weight per day of age of 2.42 pounds.

The reserve grand steer was a 1,045-pound entry owned by Casey High of Lititz, Pennsylvania. The April 1990 son of Rally Ivy League 171 had a weight per day of age of 2.52 pounds and was named F W Bart 12.

In the cow-calf pair division, Carousel Monique won the bred-and-owned cow with natural calf division. The cow is a March 1989 daughter of Skyway Hill Big Time. The bull calf is an April 1991 son of T C Stockman.

Whitestone Blackbird 9524 won the grand champion "owned" cow with natural calf division for Michael Roddey Jr. of Travelers Rest, South Carolina. The cow is a January 1989 daughter of Grubbs Mac Kenzie, and the April bull calf is sired by T C Stockman.

The reserve grand champion "owned" cow with natural calf was Kruegers Bellona exhibited by Whitney Dalton, Altavista, Virginia. The May 1989 daughter of Grubbs Mac Kenzie had a May 1991 Hoff Hi Spade S C 491 son at her side.

Fifty-eight junior Angus members competed in showmanship competition. J.W. Mc Curry, Mt. Hope, Kansas, won the overall champion showman laurels after topping the beginner division. The champion novice showman was Chad Goodman, Sycamore, Ohio. Tad Melton, Bridgewater, Virginia, won the intermediate division, and Ashley Davis, Springfield, Kentucky, won the senior category.

Louisa Krebs, Gordon, Nebraska; Bruce Stertzbach, Bidwell, Ohio; and Jack Ward, Roanoke, Indiana, judged the showmanship

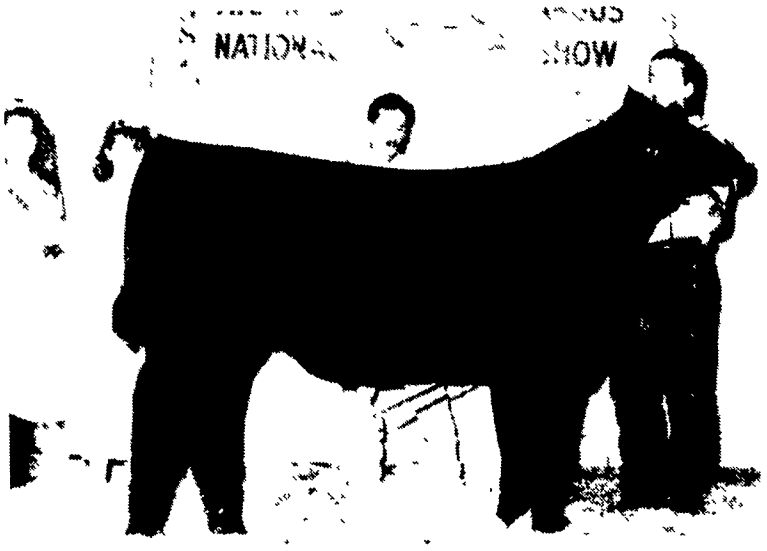
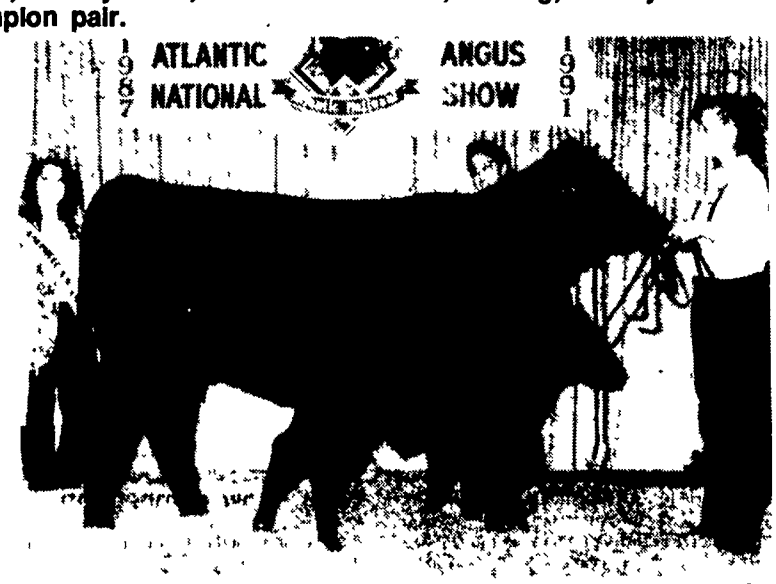
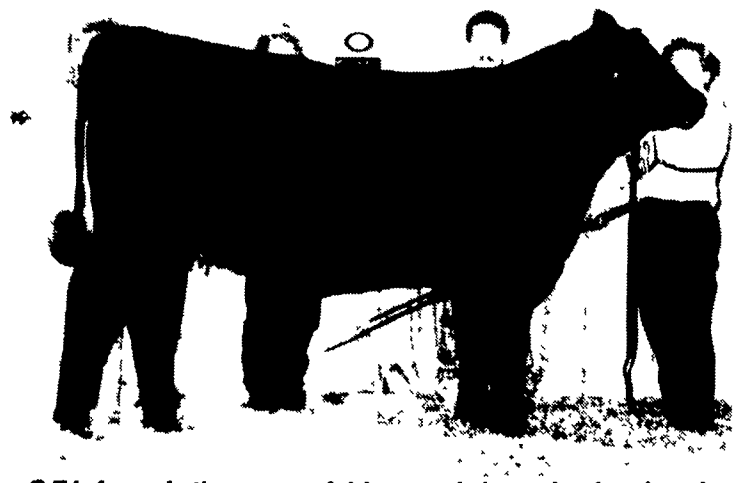
W A Scaara Macbeth is the name of this grand champion cow with embryo calf at the 1991 Atlantic National Roll of Victory (ROV) Angus Show in Timonium, Maryland. A November 1988 daughter of Grubbs Mac Kenzie, the cow was also named the senior champion female. Her November bull calf is a son of VDAR New Trend 315. Greg Krueger and Family, Coatesville, Pennsylvania, and William Warren, Furlong, Pennsylvania, own the grand champion pair.



Reserve grand champion steer laurels, were presented to Casey High, Lititz, Pennsylvania. The steer is F W Bart 12, an April 1990 son of Rally Ivy League 171. He weighed in at 1,045 pounds and had a weight per day of 2.52 pounds.



Monica Feeser, Taneytown, Maryland, owns this grand champion bred-and-owned cow with natural calf entry. The cow is Carousel Monique March 1989 daughter of Skyway Hill Big Time. The cow also was named the reserve junior champion bred-and-owned female in the junior show competition. The April 1991 bull calf is sired by T C Stockman.



C F Inferno is the name of this grand champion bred-and-owned bull. The June 1990 son of Northcote Excitement is owned by Sarah Hill, Bidwell, Ohio. The bull weighed 1,250 pounds and had a weight per day of age of 3.5 pounds.

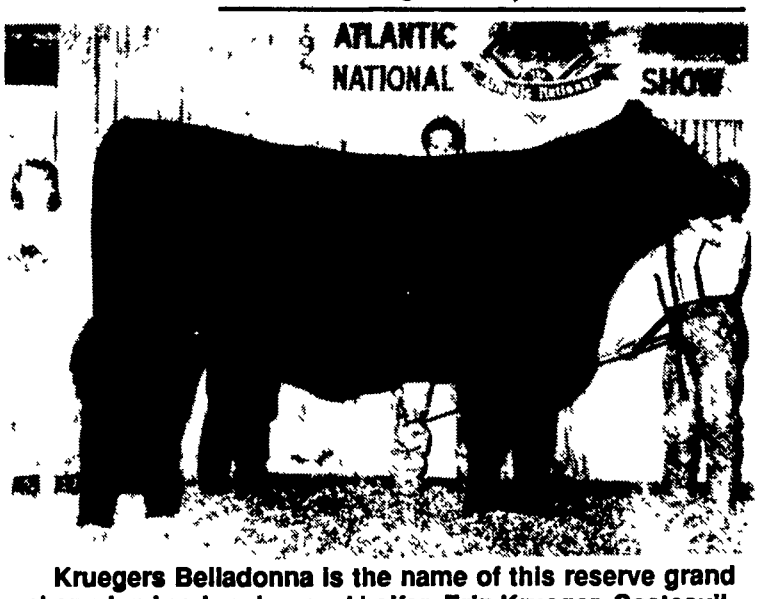
W C Cash Investor 010 won reserve grand champion bred-and-owned bull laurels. Lori Cash, Centre Hall, Pennsylvania, exhibited the reserve grand winner. The bull is an April 1990 son of Rito 2100 G D A R. The bull weighed in at 1,265 pounds and had a weight per day of age of 3.09 pounds.

Greg Krueger and Family, Coatesville, Pennsylvania, topped every group class entry at the show. This group won the best Six head competition. Also, Grubbs Mac Kenzie progeny topped the get-of-sire, junior get-of-sire, and calf get-of-sire divisions for Krueger.



Kruegers Belladonna is the name of this reserve grand champion bred-and-owned heifer. Erin Krueger, Coatesville, Pennsylvania, exhibited the reserve grand winner. The heifer first topped the junior division and is a March 1989 daughter of Grubbs Mac Kenzie.

Md. Polled Hereford Assoc. Sets Field Day

FREDERICK, Md. — The Maryland Polled Hereford Association will be holding a field day June 30, 1991 at the Howard County Fairgrounds.

The day will start at 10 a.m. with one hour of informative lessons, including tagging, tattooing guideline information, and a lesson in preparing footnotes for a sale catalog. There will be hands-on training for those interested in the various forms needed to register and transfer cattle and filling out guidelines.

There will be a number of booths set up to educate, instruct, and provide answers to cattle-related issues such as clipper blade sharpening, show supplies, and cattle supplies.

The Poll-Ettes will hold a craft show to benefit the junior national trip and there will be a cattle-related flea market for sale and exchange of used equipment and supplies.

The eighteenth annual Maryland Sheep and Wool Festival was held at the Howard County Fairgrounds recently. The festival, one of the largest events of this kind in the nation, annually draws a crowd of approximately 40,000 people. Fourteen-year-old Carrie Clabaugh, a student of Thurmont Middle School, was selected as the Sheep and Wool Queen. She raises a flock of 20 Dorset ewes at her family's Dogwood Meadow Farm in Sabillasville, Md.

Business News

Students Enroll In Bank Internship

LEWISBURG (Union Co.)— Five students from Penn State University are spending their summer this year as interns in the four Pennsylvania Farm Credit ACAs and the District Farm Credit Bank in Baltimore, Md.

The students were selected on the basis of their academic records and their dedication to the agricultural industry. In addition to summer employment, each student will be given an educational grant by Farm Credit.

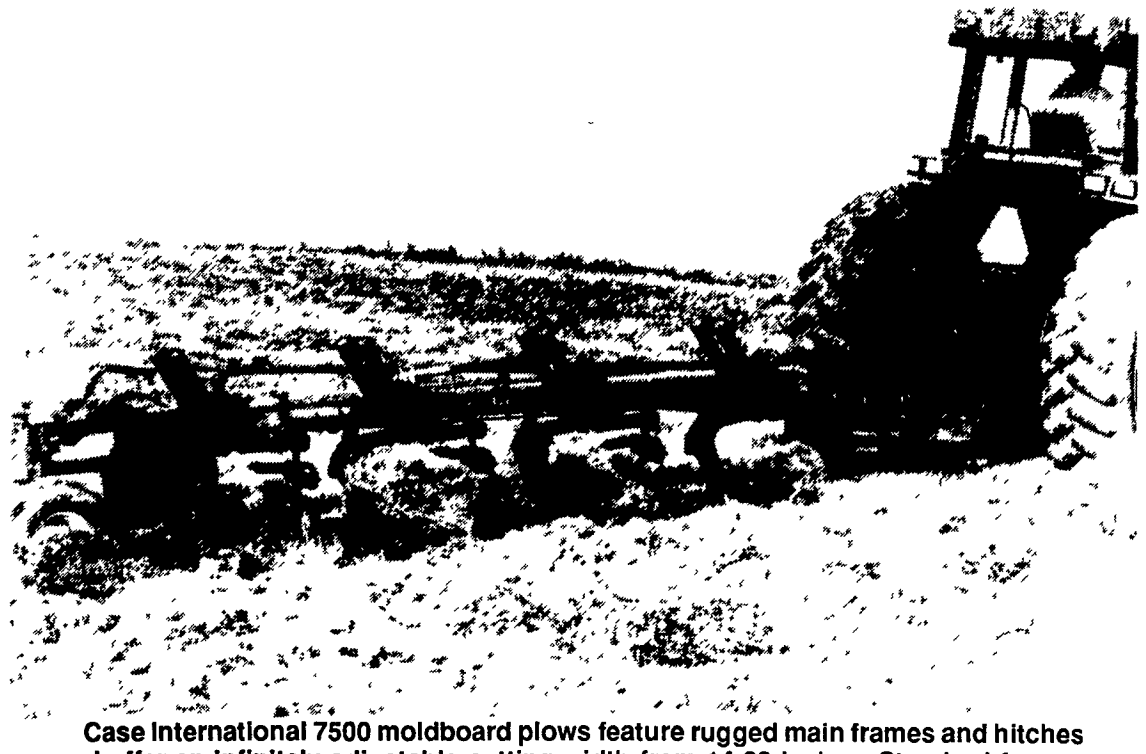
Tammy Balthaser, Bernville, is interning at the Keystone Farm Credit in Shoemakersville. Balthaser's major is in agricultural business management.

Barry Sands of Montrose is serving his internship at the Northeastern Farm Credit, ACA Towanda branch office. Sands is majoring in dairy and animal science.

Brian Short from Home is majoring in ag business management and interning at the York Farm Credit, ACA Chambersburg branch office.

Kay Goehring of Darlington is serving her internship at Penn-West Farm Credit, Mercer, and is majoring in animal science.

Serving her internship at the District Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore, Laurie Hutchins of Portville, N.Y., is majoring in ag business management.



Case International 7500 moldboard plows feature rugged main frames and hitches and offer an infinitely adjustable cutting width from 14-22 inches. Standard frames come in four- to seven-furrow versions. Universal mountings allow all 7500 plows to be equipped with either automatic reset or toggle-trip beams.

7500 Models Handle Heavy Duty Plowing

RACINE, Wis.— The new Case International semi-mounted 7500 moldboard plow handles heavy-duty plowing needs while providing an infinitely adjustable cutting width to match varying needs and conditions.

"The cutting width is infinitely adjustable from 14 to 22 inches," said Joe Neville, product director for Case International tillage equipment. "Optional hydraulics, which allow on-the-go cutting width adjustment, enable the operator to match the cutting width to tractor capability, vary the amount of residue left covering the field, or narrow the plow for transport."

On in-furrow models, hydraulically adjustable line of draft is another option that provides the benefit of on-the-go adjustment. Manual line of draft adjustment is standard on in-furrow or on-land models.

Both in-furrow and on-land 7500 models feature rugged main frames and hitches designed for the application of increased horsepower per bottom. Standard frames come in four- to seven-furrow versions. Field-installed extensions can be added to all models except the 6-bottom, in-furrow plow.

A universal, heavy-duty rear furrow/gauge wheel is bolted directly to all main frames. "The wheel is designed to stay in alignment with the rest of the plow when the operator changes the width of cut on the go," Neville said.

Universal mountings allow all 7500 plows to be equipped with either automatic reset or toggle-trip beams. "With automatic reset, you can keep going even when the plow meets obstructions such as stumps or rocks," Neville said. "A new toggle trip has been designed with fewer parts than previous models for greater reliability.

Euro-style bottoms meet special needs

Customers who plow heavy clay soil, light loam soil, and sod often require a shallower plow depth. Case has responded to this need by offering an optional long, cylindrical, European-style bottom on any Case International moldboard plow.

"The European-style bottom, often called a 'narrow' bottom, permits shallower plowing with slower turnover of the soil. Yet tractor speeds of approximately 4 mph are possible," Neville said.

Earth Metal® withstands abrasion

Like all Case International moldboard plows, the 7500 plow features moldboards made entirely of Earth Metal as standard equipment. This material is strong enough to endure abrasive soil conditions, yet resilient enough to withstand repetitive impact.

"Replacement of an Earth Metal moldboard only becomes necessary after it is 70 percent worn versus the 40 percent wear of the typical hard steel/soft steel sandwich design of competitive models," Neville said. "This saves the farmer countless hours of downtime as well as replacement costs."

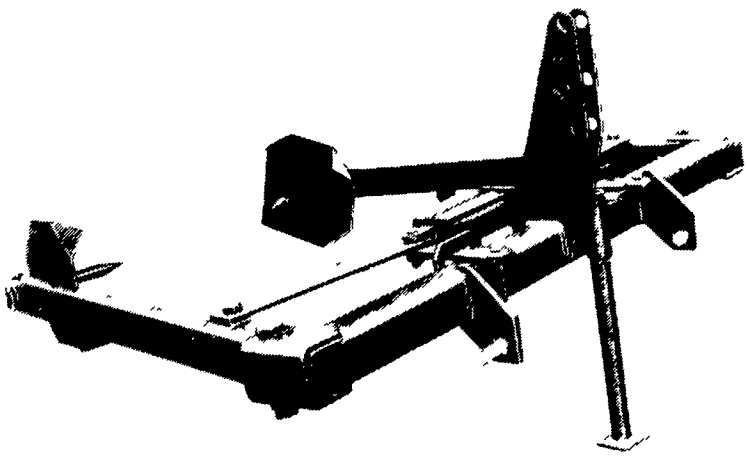
Handler/Unroller Handles 4-Foot Bales

LITCHFIELD, Ill.— Unroll, load, carry, and unload 4' round bales with new handler/unroller, Model HHUN-1548, from Worksaver, Inc.

In addition to Worksaver's line of hay handling equipment, Model HHUN-1548 fits Category I and II 3-point hitches.

The new hay handler/unroller is designed specifically to handle smaller, 48" wide round hay bales. Features include heavy steel construction. The Hay Handler/Unroller weighs 306 pounds.

Worksaver also manufactures a larger hay handler/unroller, Model HHU-1550. With a maximum arm spread of 76", Model HHU-1550 handles up to 6' wide bales. This unit fits Category I and II 3-point hitches and weighs 354 pounds.



Unroll, load, carry, and unload 4-foot round bales with Worksaver's new handler/unroller, Model HHUN-1548, which fits Category I and II 3-point hitches.

Dairy Farmer Falls Short $19,000

LEWISBURG (Union Co.)— James Putnam, vice president of business research at Farm Credit Banks of Springield, recently gave testimony before the U.S. Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry in Washington.

Speaking on behalf of Pennsylvania dairy farmers, Putnam described the recent sharp and rapid downturn in dairy prices as unprecedented in recent history.

The Northeast data that Putnam used came largely from the Agrifax® farm records data base which the Farm Credit organizations maintain. Agrifax® is a high quality farm accounting service provided to individual farmers by their local Farm Credit office. Agrifax® data is quite complete and accurate as it is used by farmers to file income tax returned and to apply for credit. It includes complete income and expense items, cash flow transactions, assets and liabilities, and certain farm management evaluation factors.

"Even in a relatively good year like 1990, about 30 percent of our dairy farms have cash flow problems," Putnam said. "This year, 70 percent will be in serious difficulty."

The dairy market, which is always sensitive to fluctuations in supply and demand, is reacting dramatically to slightly higher milk production coupled with slightly lower demand.

The Senate Ag Committee is currently considering emergency legislation proposed by Senator Leahy (D-Vermont), who is chairman of the committee, and Senator Jeffords (R-Vermont) to create a federal dairy cow purchase program. Similar to a 1985 dairy herd buyout, the program would allow farmers either to get out of dairy production entirely or reduce their herd size. Most cows bought by the government through such programs are sold for meat.

More long-term solutions are included in a report just submitted to Congress by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. They include a two-tier price support system that would pay farmers one rate for milk produced within specified limits and a lower amount for surplus. Another proposal is to sell surplus U.S. Dairy products in the world market.

Putnam has been active in giving testimony on dairy farmers' financial situation to both state and federal governments. In the past month, he has spoken in Washington, D.C.; Hartford, Conn.; Albany, N.Y.; Trenton, N.J.; and Harrisburg, Pa.

Summitcrest Farms Named Seedstock Producer Of Year

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Fred Johnson, owner of Summitcrest Farms, Summitville, Ohio, was recognized as the 1991 Beef Improvement Federation (BIF) Seedstock Producer of the Year at the group's annual conference in San Antonio, Texas.

Johnson has been a registered Angus breeder since 1949. He owns one of the largest Angus seedstock operations in the country with operations in Ohio, Iowa, and Nebraska. The operations include more than 17,000 acres with 1,150 seedstock cows and 200 commercial cows.

Johnson uses a well-organized farm records system and the Angus Herd Improvement Record program to keep individual performance records on all cattle. Performance records are a key to this successful herd that has produced herd bulls for use in 45 states and several foreign countries and provinces.

Johnson focuses on a balanced trait selection scheme with emphasis on moderate birthweight expected progeny differences (EPDs) and high yearling weight EPDs for selecting his seedstock herd. Emphasis is also placed on positive EPDs for carcass traits, including marbling, ribeye area, and average carcass weights.

Johnson is a member of the Ohio Cattlemen's Association, a director on the Ohio Beef Council, and committee chairman of the National Beef Board.

These cattlemen were award winners at the 1991 Beef Improvement Federation (BIF) Annual Conference in San Antonio, Texas. They are, left to right, Henry Bergfeld, manager, and Fred and Betty Johnson, owners, of Summitcrest Farms, Summitville, Ohio, which was the BIF Seedstock Producer of the Year; John Crouch of the American Angus Association, St. Joseph, Missouri, winner of the Continuing Service Award; Dave and Sandy Umbarger, Pendleton, Oregon, BIF Commercial Cattlemen of the Year; and Dr. Bob Long, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Pioneer Award winner.

Gehl Announces 2-Year Warranty

WEST BEND, Wis.— Gehl Company announces a new two-year warranty on its complete line of round balers and sicklebar mower conditioners purchased after May 15, 1991.

The warranty policy is in effect on all new Gehl round balers, including the 1470 and 1870 variable-chamber models, and the 1310 and 1710 fixed-chamber balers. The two-year warranty also covers new Gehl conventional mower conditioner models 2140 and 2170, as well as the 2240 and 2270 swing-frame mower conditioners.

"This extended coverage reflects our confidence in the quality of these products," said Jim Phillips, Gehl product development manager for hay tools. "We strongly believe these are the best round balers and mower conditioners we've ever built, and we're backing that up with this warranty."

With the exception of normal high-wear items, these units carry a two-year parts and labor warranty that protects the original owner against mechanical failure caused by defect in material or workmanship as outlined in the warranty that accompanies the product.

For more details, contact your local Gehl dealer or write Gehl Company, Marketing Services Department, 143 Water St., West Bend, WI 53095.

Christmas Tree Growers Meeting Scheduled

NEW BLOOMFIELD (Perry Co.) — Christmas tree growers and individuals interested in growing Christmas trees are invited to programs sponsored by the Penn State Cooperative Extension of Perry, Juniata, and Mifflin counties.

The meeting will be held Thursday, June 27 from 1-3 p.m. at the Perry Valley Tree Farm, Millerstown, and will be repeated at the Walter Harpster Tree Farm, McClure from 7-9 p.m. the same day.

The meeting will qualify for two category credits toward pesticide license recertification. Dr. Paul Heller, Penn State University entomologist, will discuss Christmas tree insects. Heller will update growers on this year's pest control problems as well as conduct a visual observation of insect feeding symptoms in the tree plantation.

The new publication, "Woody Ornamental Pest Control Suggestions for 1991," will be available for $7.

James Finley, also from Penn State, will discuss tree culture, including planting techniques, site selection, the use of antidesiccants at planting, varietal concerns, and weed control. Finley will also discuss shearing techniques for the top of the tree.

Jack Ferrell, Strathmeyer Forests, Inc., will demonstrate the SAJE mechanical Christmas Tree shearing machine.

For more information, contact Dave Swartz, Perry County agent, (717) 582-2131; Bob Hockenbrock, Juniata County agent, (717) 436-8991; or Dave Filson, Mifflin County agent, (717) 248-9618.

DEKALB Completes China Breeding Project

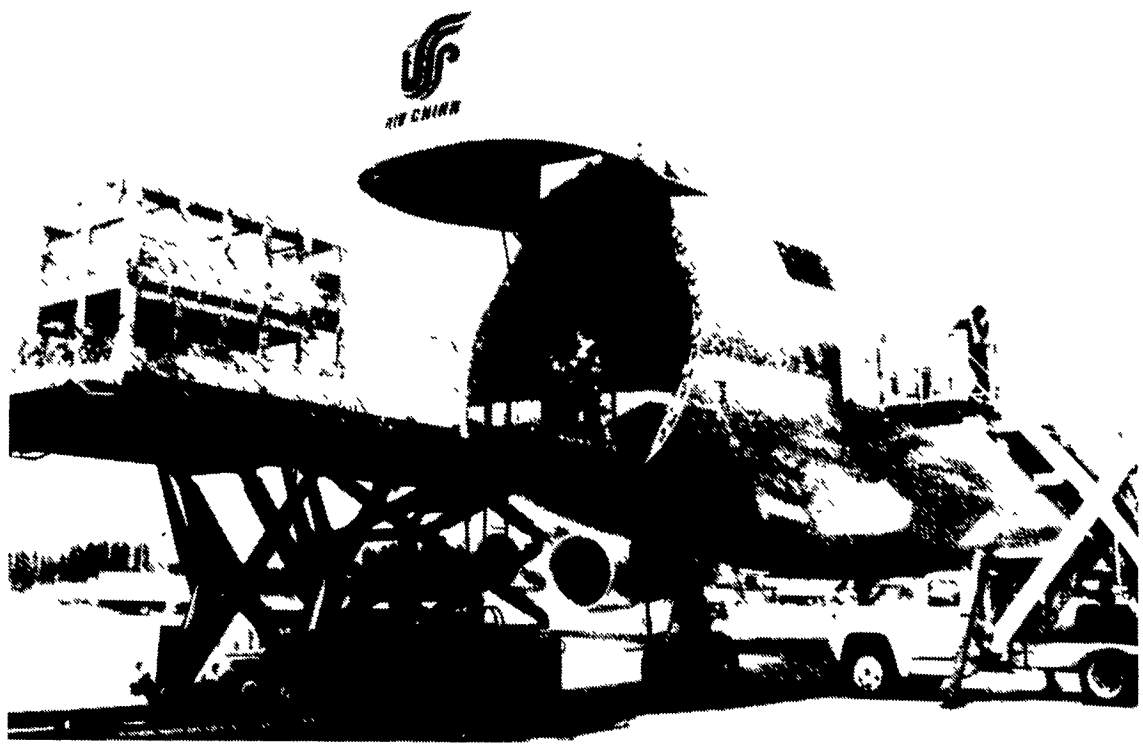
DE KALB, IL — DEKALB Swine Breeders, Inc. announces the successful completion of a breeding project with the People's Republic of China. The project is scheduled to produce in excess of 1 million market hogs per year once the program reaches maturity.

After two years of dedicated preparation, breeding stock was shipped from DEKALB'S research and development farms on May 2, 1991 and arrived in Beijing, China on May 6, 1991 All of the animals arrived in excellent condition despite the four-day journey.

During the preparation process, the breeding stock successfully passed the rigorous health requirements needed for swine importation into China. Dennis Kahle, international operations manager and Steven Hao, far-eastern projects manager, both of DEKALB, worked closely with representatives of the government of China to complete the agreement and shipment of the animals.

In addition to the sale of breeding stock, DEKALB Swine Breeders, Inc. will provide swine production expertise at the farm site near Beijing. Chinese representatives from the farm project will participate in swine production training at DEKALB's Swine Management Training Center near Plains, Kan. Students will receive both classroom and actual swine management experience on DEKALB's Foundation Farms near Plains,. Kan.

China's per capita consumption of all meat is about one third of U.S. levels, despite its production of nearly 40 percent of the world's pork. To increase per capita consumption, the Chinese government plans to significantly expand the production of high quality lean pork within the next 15 years.



DEKALB breeding stock loaded through the nose of an Air China 747 in San Francisco, Calif.

Eastern Regional Shorthorn Show Set

WOODBINE, Md. — Classes at the Md. Eastern Regional Shorthorn Show set for Sat. June 29 include steers and showmanship for junior members, female breeding classes for junior and adult breeders, and bull classes for adult breeders.

Entries have steadily climbed since the first show. Entries are coming from Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia, and Kentucky. The show is becoming recognized as one of the premier shorthorn shows on the East Coast.

This year's show is being dedicated to George Bowman for his vision and interest in promoting the shorthorn breed.

Dr. Wayne Neely will be recognized as Maryland's nomination for Shorthorn Builder of the Breed. This is an annual recognition announced in July to recognize contributions of shorthorn enthusiasts around the country who contributed to the promotion and advancement of the breed.

Neely is a recognized authority on the history of the breed, its contributions to American agriculture, and the resurgence of interest in the breed around the country.

The Maryland Shorthorn Association sponsors the Eastern Regional Shorthorn Show at the Howard Co. Fairgrounds. Officers of the association are Martin Hamilton, president; Sue Eyler, vice-president; Marjie Eyler, secretary and Ray Ediger, treasurer. The board of directors include Duane Harper, Kippy Hevner, David Bowman, Michael Buck, Carl Holland, and Terry Sewell. The association sponsors an annual calf sale in October, the Eastern Regional, a Steer Incentive Program to encourage juniors to raise shorthorn steers, and a trophy program for county fairs to recognize shorthorn steers and heifers. Current membership numbers in excess of 90 members.

Beef Council Elects Chairman

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Ralph McGregor, a York County dairy farmer, has been elected chairman of the Pennsylvania Beef Council board of directors. McGregor replaces Ray Grimes, a beef producer from Adams County, whose term as chairman expired.

A member of the Beef Council's board of directors since 1988, McGregor had previously served as the council's first and second vice chairman. He is a member of the Cattlemen's Beef Promotion and Research Board, and is current chairman of the York Farm Credit Association.

Kathy Roberts, a veal producer from Lycoming County, was elected first vice chairman. Dennis Byrne, a beef producer from Chester County, was elected second vice chairman. Lowell Wilson, of Centre County, and Faith Peterson, of Adams County, were elected treasurer and secretary of the council, respectively.

Co-Op Board Welcomes Meabon

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Randall Meabon, a dairy farmer from the Erie County town of Wattsburg, was recently appointed to the board of directors for the Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives (PCC).

Meabon is a director for Milk Marketing, Inc. (MMI), a milk cooperative based in Strongsville, Ohio. He has served as an MMI director for the past two years. As an MMI member, Meabon and his wife, Paula, participated in the MMI Young Cooperative Couples program and served on the National Milk Producers Federation Advisory Council.

The Meabons have owned their 500-acre dairy farm for the past 14 years. The milking herd averages 100 head of Holstein cattle.

In addition to his activities with MMI, Meabon is also active in the Pennsylvania Farmers Association, serves on the county ASCS/SCS committee, and belongs to Atlantic Breeders Cooperative. His family belongs to the Beaver Dam Mennonite Church. The Meabons have two children, Nichole, 11, and Bradley, 9.

Randall Meabon

Meabon and his wife participated in the Young Cooperative Leaders Conference from 1984-1986. Randy is also active in the Erie-Crawford Co-Op Council. Meabon replaces Bill Perry, director of governmental relations for MMI, on the PCC board.

SUDENGA IS ON THE LEVEL!

PLY-FOIL is a very efficient form of insulation In application after application it has proven to be extremely effective at controlling heat gain/loss, thus significantly reducing heating and cooling costs. PLY-FOIL Insulation uses an aluminum foil to reflect up to 97% of the radiant heat.

PLY-FOIL BENEFITS

PLY-FOIL products are clean, lightweight, and non-toxic; are unaffected by changes in humidity; do not shrink; and once installed require no maintenance. They do not promote the growth of fungi or bacteria, and provide no nesting support for rodent or insect pests. PLY-FOIL, which has a Class A/Class 1 fire rating, meets the fire and smoke safety requirements of most federal, state and local building codes.

NO. 1 DAIRYING DIESEL

2 Cyl. F2L-912

KHD DEUTZ

Since 1968 F2L-912 diesels have earned the reputation as the most reliable diesel. Don't settle for less

EASIER STARTING: Heavy flywheel provides easy starting. No electric heater plugs.

QUIETER: Runs quieter than most water cooled diesels. Very quiet exhaust.

Continuous Duty Rating:
26.5 HP @ 1800 RPM

It has direct injection, lube oil cooling, and oil cooled pistons. This engine has proven to survive the extreme heat of a heavy load in a small engine house better than any other engine.

PLUS-FAMOUS DEUTZ FUEL ECONOMY

If you ever thought about giving your dog the run of the yard, but couldn't see putting up a big fence to do it, a DogWatch™ Hidden Fence System could be what you're looking for.

DogWatch™ keeps an "eye" on your dog by transmitting a harmless radio signal through a hidden boundary wire. A special receiver collar then warns the dog when it gets too close.

Find out more about DogWatch™ Hidden Fence Systems by calling us today.

CUSTOMER FORMULA FEED MFG.

Wet brewers grain is more than a good feed. It's a good business ingredient.

Each day, up to 100,000 U.S. dairy cows feed on rations containing wet brewers grain. That's because their owners know it minimizes feed costs while it maximizes production.

Wet brewers grain is a high-protein feed ingredient. It's always fresh, because it's delivered directly to your dairy. It fits into most programs, is easy to handle, and easy to store.

Call us today. One of our professional feed consultants will help you work wet brewers grain into your ration, so you can make it a profitable ingredient for your business.

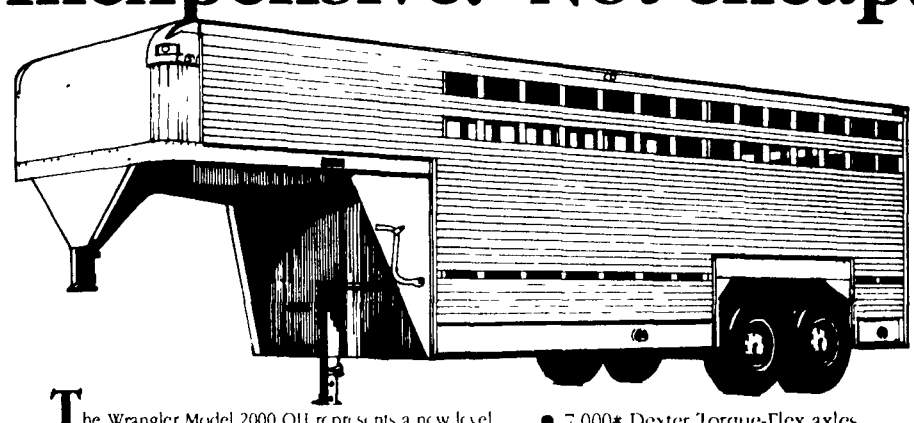
Introducing The Wrangler 2000-OH Inexpensive. Not cheap.



The Wrangler Model 2000 OH represents a new level of value in livestock trailers

Its standard specifications top quality components and proven engineering are found in other Wrangler models But the new 2000 OH is less expensive By standardizing height and width and by limiting the number of optional accessories Eby lowers the production costs for this model Now you can get all our traditional craftsmanship in a top value gooseneck

Unlike other 'budget' trailers on the market the Wrangler 2000 OH achieves a price breakthrough without compromising quality Consider these features, standard on the new Wrangler 2000 OH

- 7,000# Dexter Torque-Flex axles
- Steel-belted radial tires, 10-ply rating
- Aerodynamic, attractive design
- Sealed beam lights with enclosed, externally accessible wiring
- 2-year warranty

Specifications

- Available in 14', 16', 18', 20' lengths
- 7' Width
- 6'6" Inside height

Special introductory pricing.

All this and more for under $9,000.*

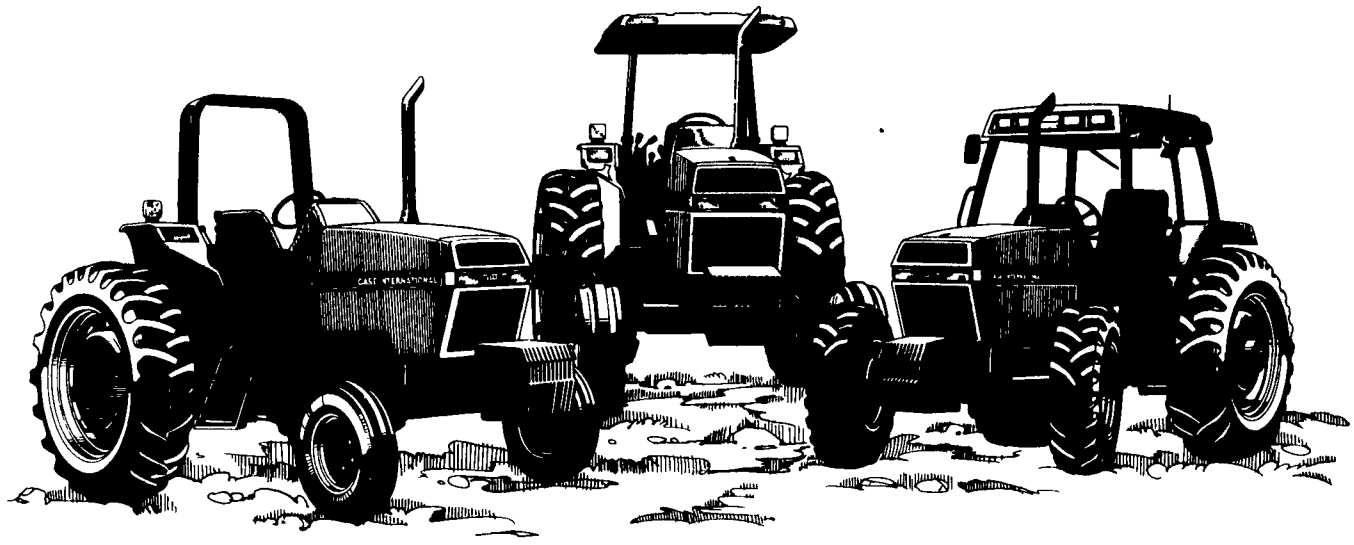
Best Values in New Equipment



MAXXUM.
Setting new standards for mid-range tractors.

Power, comfort, convenience, durability — no matter how you judge them, MAXXUM tractors are in a class by themselves. You can see it in the way they perform. And in the way your investment is protected with an exclusive 5-year/5000-hour warranty.

The MAXXUM line includes three mid-range tractors designed to deliver the muscle you need to work the field along with the versatility you expect to lift and load around the farm. Choose from 77, 86 and 94 PTO horsepower (57, 64 and 70 kW).

Durable, proven engines power these rugged tractors. You can depend on these diesels to deliver years of trouble-free use. More than 250,000 are in use around the world.

Innovative transmissions are at the heart of every tractor. Optional powershift and creeper transmissions add to the versatility. A standard forward-reverse shuttle shift makes MAXXUM tractors perfect for loader work.

Ask for an on-farm demonstration. Unequalled versatility matched with uncompromised performance. That's what puts MAXXUM tractors in a class by themselves. Ask your dealer to bring one out for an on-farm demonstration, so you can prove it to yourself.

*Excluding tires, which are covered by their own manufacturers' warranties A $200 deductible applies to each repair after the first year

NEW THE BRILLION BRH RO-CROP CULTIVATOR IS SOMETHING SPECIAL NEW

The heart of the BRH Ro-Crop is Brillion's No-Wobble Parallel Linkage. Heavy duty is an understatement, the linkage for each gang weighs over 50 pounds. Strength where it's needed, a Brillion tradition.

The extra long gang frame offers excellent trash clearance, allowing you to handle the heavy residues left from minimum tillage practices.

The new BRH Ro-Crop Cultivator is available in six models, from 4 to 16 rows with row spacings of 30-40 inches. Optional equipment includes cut away discs, open top shields, rolling shields, and down pressure springs.

EGGS AND SALMONELLA

Thomas S. Dimick
Sr. Extension Aide
Dept. of Food Science

Eggs are one of the most nutritious, economical, and versatile foods provided by nature. When properly handled, eggs and egg-rich foods are also safe foods.

However, if improperly handled, eggs may lead to illness (Salmonellosis) caused by a group of bacteria called Salmonella when ingested in large numbers.

Symptoms of Salmonellosis include abdominal cramps, fever, headaches, nausea, vomiting, and diarrhea. The severity of an attack differs among individuals, depending on the number of bacteria ingested, the health of the individual, and the particular species of Salmonella involved.

Although the attacks are usually relatively short in duration, they may be more prolonged in infants, convalescents, and the elderly. But Salmonellosis is rarely fatal. Additionally, an individual who is recovering from a recent infection may remain a potential carrier for varying lengths of time.

Food poisoning caused by Salmonella is not uncommon, largely because the organisms are widely distributed in nature and easily spread. Salmonella is found in the intestinal tracts of humans, domestic and wild animals, birds, poultry, seafoods, reptiles, and insects.

Salmonella organisms can be passed from the intestinal tract to the hands and onto food. So, before preparing food, it is very important to wash hands and food contact areas well. Food and preparation areas exposed to pets or insects may also become contaminated if proper sanitation practices are not used.

A newly laid egg does not ordinarily contain bacteria. However, the shell may become contaminated because of contact with cages, feces, and other parts of the bird or during washing, handling, and storage.

Several natural mechanisms exist in eggs to protect the eggs against microbial organisms. These are the shell and cuticle, the shell membrane, the egg white, and the chalaziferous layer. Because freshly laid eggs may have Salmonella on the shells, industry standards require that eggs be washed in special detergent and sanitizing solutions before packing. This process should kill the pathogenic bacteria on the outside of the egg.

If the process is not properly done or if the shell is reinfected from other sources, bacteria may remain on the shell. Like other bacteria, Salmonella need food, moisture, a favorable temperature, and time for growth. All animal protein foods — meat, milk, eggs, poultry, and fish — if they become contaminated by bacteria, provide a ready environment for bacterial growth.

Contamination of the interior of the egg rarely occurs. However, it may be introduced during the preparation and service. Salmonella organisms reproduce rapidly at temperatures between 40 degrees F and 140 degrees F. If foods are held between these temperatures for more than an hour, the microbial population can multiply to hazardous levels.

Clean hands, counter tops and utensils, sanitary food handling practices, proper cooking temperatures, and adequate refrigeration are essential in safely preparing any food or egg product.

Tips for handling shell eggs:

- Buy eggs at retail from refrigerated cases only. For food service, use eggs delivered under refrigeration.
- Refrigerate eggs at 40 degrees F or below (but not below freezing) as soon as possible after delivery or purchase.
- Use only clean unbroken eggs for dishes such as scrambled, poached, or soft-cooked eggs.
- Egg dishes for those who are pregnant, elderly, very young, or ill should be thoroughly cooked.
- Dirty or leaking eggs should not be used.
- Keep cold food and egg products below 40 degrees F and hot foods above 140 degrees F.
- Do not allow foods or egg-rich products to remain on the counter top for more than one hour, including preparation and service.
- Always wash hands with soap and water before preparing food.
- Thoroughly wash equipment and utensils, and counter tops that have been in contact with raw food, before preparing other foods.
- Do not mix shells with egg contents.

BREEDING LEAN HOGS GAINS FATTER PROFITS

Dr. Richard Barczewski
Extension Agent
U. of Delaware

For some producers, decisions on which animals to keep and which to cull can be difficult. These are individual judgments that should be based on the overall plan and goals you have for your swine operation.

During the past few months, many producers have felt the impact of the new Hatfield Packing plant pricing structure, which offers premium prices for animals with leaner carcasses and places penalties on overly fat hogs.

Since that time, I've heard a number of hog producers discuss this initiative. Of course, producers of leaner hogs are happy with the incentive program, but producers of fatter hogs began to explore alternative markets. While seeking other options makes sense in the short term, hog producers eventually must face the fact that most packing houses will fall in line with Hatfield and reward producers of leaner hogs.

This makes culling decisions based on leanness more important than ever. Selection and genetics are the most important considerations in your ability to improve your livestock. And it doesn't happen overnight. It takes time and planned effort on your part to achieve better carcass traits.

Improvement for any trait depends on several factors. First is the variation that exists for a given trait between the parents and the herd. For example, if you are selecting for backfat thickness and the sow and the boar you are mating averaged 1.2 inches at the last rib at 230 pounds, you can expect their offspring to be leaner than the herd average, even though the sow and boar are out of the same herd.

The second factor to be considered is that all traits are not equally inherited. Heritability for a specific trait is usually expressed as a percentage. This percentage is indicative of the amount of variation in a trait that can be inherited. Swine reproductive traits are generally considered to have low heritability. Litter size at birth has a heritability of 15 percent, litter size at weaning is 12 percent, and litter weight at weaning is 17 percent. Performance rates are generally considered to be medium in their heritability. Daily gain from weaning to market weight has a heritability of 30 percent, while feed efficiency is 30 percent inherited.

The greatest gains in inheritance can be obtained with carcass traits. Body weight has a heritability of 60 percent while fatback thickness, loin-eye area, and percent lean cuts (based on carcass weight) are 50 percent inheritable. This is an advantage to hog producers who are making the move toward leaner hogs because improvements can be achieved more rapidly.

One final factor in the selection process is the variation that exists within a population. If wide variation exists, then producers have the potential to get outstanding individual animals for their breeding programs. If little variation exists for a given trait, only a few will be able to achieve superior individual animals for their breeding programs.

As a herd approaches the upper limits of variations within a population of animals, improvements will be harder to come by because the differences between the herd and selected individuals in the mating program will be smaller.

The good news is that producers who are unable to get incentives for the hogs they market should find it easier to obtain boars that have the potential of positively influencing their breeding program. These production-tested boars may cost a little more money, but improvements made should go a long way to returning those costs to the operation. Producers who currently command incentive payments for their hogs will need to look harder for quality boars that are better than the herd average in order to continue to make improvements.

While it has been the practice of many farms in the past to restrict selection decisions for improvement on the boar alone, consideration can be given to the gilt pool. Use a fatback probe to select female replacements that are the leaner animals in your herd. Faster gains can be realized if you are able to select carcass traits in both your boars and sows.

Youngsters: Set Goal To Raise Quality Pullets

Herbert C. Jordan
Associate Professor
Poultry Science
Penn State

In 1985, 32 Pennsylvania youth in 4-H and FFA completed the pullet project, while only 16 did so in 1990.

Raising female chicks to 20-week-old pullets is an art as well as a science. Health, quality, and productivity of the started pullet are the goals we must reach. Pullets from youth projects are sold to perform well in small backyard flock situations where adverse conditions may exist.

Pullets can be evaluated and given a quality designation. A Mark I pullet at 20 weeks of age is usually 2.5 to 3.5 pounds live body weight, with little or no fat in the abdomen when handled. The weight should agree with the breeders' chart at that age. The pullet must have a normal beak. The body should be fully feathered, muscles should be dense and strong, while bones and joints should be dense.

Wings, legs, and feet must be powerful and normal. Eyes must be bright and clear, skin of the mouth should be pink, and there should be no lesions or health disorders of any kind present. The bird should have a complete, normal beak. Vent, abdomen, comb and body capacity must be adequate to superior in development. A Mark I pullet can be pastured, while lower quality pullets may not do well on pasture.

A Mark II pullet may have two pointy primary wing feathers unmolted on the end of each wing. She may be toward the top or bottom of the accepted body weight range for the particular breeder. Some soft abdominal fat may be present but no hard fat nor excess soft fat can be present. Muscle and bone should be dense and adequate. Skin in mouth or on head may appear slightly anemic. Bird must be properly debeaked. Eyes must be clear and health must be adequate. Wings, legs, and feet must be normal. Vent, abdomen, comb, and body capacity must be normal or adequate but need not be superior.

A Mark III pullet may be debeaked but otherwise normal. It may be retarded, obese, too thin and/or have a light body weight, be too heavy, poorly feathered, or have poorly developed comb, vent, abdomen, leg, or foot as well as have a pale head or bleached legs. This bird, if cared for properly, could do reasonably well in the laying house.

These pullets may range in price from $3 to $9 each when sold in small numbers, depending on the market and quality of the pullet.

The pullet project does not return large profits. It does, however, give a pleasant sense of accomplishment when a high quality pullet is grown. A high quality pullet is like a fine timepiece — the quality is remembered after the price is forgotten.

A growing trend in Pennsylvania since 1970 is to molt a laying pullet at 60-70 weeks of age and return her to a normal second cycle of egg production. This must be done only if the pullet is grown well and has the breeding to do so.

Pullet quality is low in some areas of Pennsylvania. Our goal is to improve pullet quality with every flock. From day-old, give the pullet the necessary environment, nutrition, grit, pure water, health program, and behavior to succeed. Be careful with surgery on a pullet — do it right or not at all.

Farm Leaders Demand GATT Agreement

ROME, Italy — The president of the National Farmers Union (NFU) said world farm leaders are deeply concerned about instability in the global farm sector, and say a sound agreement under the Uruguay Round of international trade talks would help.

NFU President Leland Swenson, who also serves as a vice president of the Paris-based International Federation of Agricultural Producers (IFAP), said new trade conflicts are imminent since commodity surpluses have built up in many countries and low prices threaten producers.

The IFAP executive board, meeting in Rome this week, passed a resolution urging a successful conclusion to the current General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) negotiations by the end of the year as a way to stave off such conflicts.

IFAP President Hans Kjeldsen, a farmer from Denmark, said the surpluses are creating a serious income problem for farmers everywhere, but particularly in exporting and developing countries.

IFAP has supported proposals to do away with export dumping and other trade practices aimed at doing away with surpluses. But Swenson said farm organization leaders believe long-term, production-based farm programs must be maintained to stabilize world commodity supplies and support farmers.

IFAP leaders add that national reconstruction of farm policies is taking place in nearly all industrialized countries without a multilateral agreement to make them consistent. Swenson said many farmers are disappointed that regional trade discussions, such as the proposed U.S., Canada, and Mexico free-trade agreement, are taking place without analyses of their affects on the rest or ihe world.

Swenson said GATT won't solve the problems farmers face, particularly if an agreement is reached which would weaken domestic farm programs. But, he said, farmers everywhere are frustrated with depressed prices, pressure on government agricultural budgets, and the inabllity of governments to agree on a policy framework.

"The drift from the land is accelerating again," said Kjeldsen. "And this time, it's the young, educated farmers who are leaving."

IFAP is a federation of 81 national farmers organizations from 55 countries. It represents several hundred million farmers in developing countries as well as farmers in the industrialized nations.

NFO Commodity Programs Fit In With Ag Marketing Clubs

AMES, Iowa — Agricultural group marketing clubs are in a growth trend across rural America. And they represent a potential growth opportunity for the National Farmers Organization (NFO), according to Richard Ellinghuysen, assistant director of NFO's livestock department.

"Marketing clubs are a popular topic in the farm media and within farm groups these days," said Ellinghuysen. "The farm magazines feature marketing club stories. The extension service is promoting the trend. The National Pork Producers Council is promoting group marketing. Neighboring cattlemen in southwest Missouri pool their feeder calves for marketing each fall. Such clubs are sprouting up all over."

Ellinghuysen sees the interest in marketing clubs as a natural response to economic conditions in agriculture. "Commodity prices are low. There's general discontent with the farm bill. Farmers are finally perceiving that they need to create an alternative to their so-called 'normal' marketing activity."

The existing clubs have several activities. According to Ellinghuysen, some try to pool production with emphasis on quality, quantity, and consistency of hogs or grain. Others try to act in a buy/sell relationship with packers to negotiate a better price.

Still others educate members about risk management and futures options, forward contracts, and other marketing strategies. Members exchange ideas and often call on outside industry "experts" to find out about industry trends, commodity outlooks, industry standards, politics, trade, weather patterns, and the farm program.

"What does all this marketing club activity tell us?" he said. "Ironically, it tells us that the pendulum has swung back to where it was some 35 years ago when farmers became unhappy with the economic conditions in agriculture, and created their own structure which became the National Farmers Organization.

"The bottom line is that these restless farmers feel they are not finding the type of marketing structure that they want within the industry, so they are creating their own structure," Ellinghuysen said. "They don't realize the NFO offers all these benefits — in place and ready to work for them immediately, but on a national basis through collective bargaining."

Steve Halloran, director of the NFO grain department, also sees marketing club numbers on the rise. "It's not a social phenomenon. It's an economic one," he said. "The purpose behind their formation is not a long-term marketing plan per se, but extracting more income from the marketplace short-term. Farmers realize that many outside forces and factors are affecting their farms' incomes, and they are trying to keep abreast of those changes.

"That's why such clubs give NFO a real opportunity to 'plug into' their formation and operation. We've successfully been doing for years, what these clubs are trying to do," he said. "We have the experience and the expertise to give the clubs leadership and direction that can lead to success."

Halloran cites one specific marketing club in Nebraska that invited NFO input into its programs. Over time, NFO collective bargaining concepts predominated in the club. Currently, an Illinois marketing club is considering NFO marketing concepts. "That club is coming along slower, but NFO is assisting every way it can," Halloran said.

With growing interest in marketing clubs, Ellinghuysen said that "given the nature and goals of these clubs, which coincide precisely with what NFO programs can do for them, it seems that NFO's programs are one of the 'best kept secrets' in agriculture today," he said. "There's no need for all these marketing clubs to reinvent the wheel when NFO's wheel is already rolling along to the benefit of farmers and ranchers nationwide."

Conservation Districts Should Pursue Stronger Role

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — County conservation districts should pursue a stronger role in helping local governments protect water quality, said Caren Glotfelty, deputy secretary for water management, Department of Environmental Resources.

In remarks before the State Conservation Commission recently in New Hope, Bucks Co., Glotfelty expressed the need for technical assistance at the local level.

"Increasingly, municipalities are finding it difficult to comply with the requirements set before them," she said. "I would like to see the involvement of conservation districts strengthened with regards to wetlands protection, nutrient management, land use planning, and sewage disposal." Currently, conservation districts' primary role in assisting local governments centers on erosion and sediment pollution control.

In noting the partnership between conservation districts and DER, Glotfelty said that it's important to have a local presence in many areas of water quality, especially where there is a close link with agriculture.

In response to a related report from DER spokesman, Michael Steiner, the commission supported the notion of involving conservation districts in DER's program for the application of sewage sludge on agricultural land.

"Conservation districts could and should get involved up front in the preliminary stages of the permitting process," said Steiner, "before the formal permit application in made."

The Commission also heard a report on the state's erosion and sediment pollution control program, which is administered jointly by conservation districts and the DER. Representatives of the Chesapeake Bay Education Office concluded the meeting with a demonstration of a new educational program for vo-ag students called Farm Management Jeopardy.

Automatic Appoints Members

PENDER, Neb. — Automatic Equipment Manufacturing Company has announced the appointment of two new members to the Product Safety Committee: Merton Hahne, director of engineering, and John Bessmer, quality assurance manager.

"Automatic Equipment Manufacturing Company is committed to the safety of the owner/operator of all our products," said Jay Hesse, president. "We feel the formation of this committee not only strengthens our commitment to safety but assures our customers that we are committed to them."

The Product Safety Committee's responsibilities include:

• Making sure all Automatic products are designed to meet the safety standards of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers.

• Oversee that retrofit programs are initiated to update older equipment with new shielding and decals.

• Review products using a hazard analysis system.

• Actively support and comply with safety programs of the Equipment Manufacturers Institute and the Farm Equipment Manufacturers Association.

• Manage cooperative programs with insurance carrier on equipment design, employee training, etc.

• Provide educational programs for district sales managers, distributors and dealers on their responsibilities regarding safety.

For more information, contact Automatic Equipment Mfg. Co., One Mill Road, Pender Nebraska 68047, (402) 385-3051.

Ag College Scholars Recognized At Honors Day

NEWARK, Del. — Students from the College of Agricultural Sciences were recognized by the University of Delaware during its Honors Day ceremonies recently. Honors were given for contributions to the college and to the campus community.

Randall S. Risser (Holtwood, Pa.), an agricultural economics major, was named to the university's panel of distinguished seniors. The panel includes one student with outstanding personal and academic qualities from each college in the university.

The Alpha Zeta Prize, given to the highest-ranking sophomore in the college, went to Claudia P. Dwyer (Wilmington, Del.), an animal science major. The Honors Day Book Award went to Lee W. Richardson (Willards, Md.), a junior in general agriculture. The Wall Street Journal Award went to Randall S. Risser. The Embassy of the Federal Republic of Germany Book Award went to animal science major Sarah C. Schroer (Wilmington, Del.).

The following students were recognized by the university chapter of Collegiate Future Farmers of America for earning at least a 3.0 grade index: Andrew J. Groff (Lancaster, Pa.), Karen A. Knutsen (Rising Sun, Md.), Lee W. Richardson, Randall S. Risser, Tiffany L. Rohrer (Nottingham, Pa.), Nicol A. Tentromono (Wilmington, Del.), and Karen L. Vestergaard (Princeton Junction, N.J.).

The Outstanding Collegiate FFA Member Award went to Lee W. Richardson. Outstanding Animal Science Club senior member is William F. Schrader Jr. (Earleville, Md.). The Outstanding Equestrian Club member is Judith A. Bardsley (Wilmington, Del.). Outstanding Food Science Club member is Deanna L. Rubulotta (Colonia, N.J.).

The following students were selected as Undergraduate Research Award recipients to conduct undergraduate research under faculty supervision: Robert McMullen (Trenton, N.J.), agricultural engineering; Dawn Shu-Hsiao Chang (Brooklyn, N.Y.), entomology; Christopher J. DeHeer (Newark, Del.), entomology; Dale Seemans (Wilmington, Del.), agricultural engineering; Patricia L. Whetzel (Wilmington, Del.), animal science; Jessica G. Geiger (Newark, Del.), entomology; Tamara E. Bagdon (Wilmington, Del.), food science; Elizabeth H. Locke (Poughkeepsie, N.Y.), food science; Anh S. Le (Newark, Del.), food science; Aaron C. Venables (Laurel, Del.), food science.

The following students are named Science and Engineering Scholars. They are sophomores who serve a 10-week summer research apprenticeship with a faculty researcher. The research program continues part-time during the student's junior year. The students are as follows: Alexandra Bartnikowski (Cherry Hill, N.J.), animal science; Teresa L. Harasika (Wilmington, Del.), animal science; Jessica G. Geiger (Newark, Del.), entomology; Tania K. Dautlick (Newark, Del.), plant science; Elizabeth H. Locke, food science.

The following students were elected to Alpha Zeta, a national agricultural honor fraternity electing students from the upper two-fifths of their respective classes who demonstrate superior scholarship, leadership, and service: Judith A. Bardsley, Alexandra Bartnikowski, Dawn 5. Chang, Tania K. Dautlick, Kenneth R. Diebold (Altoona, Pa.), Paul F. Doherty II (Bridgewater, Mass.), David R. Edwards (New Providence, N.J.), Christin L. Eley (Newark, Del.), Suzayn M. Fair (Newark, Del.), Tracy A. Firth (Ridley Park, Pa.), Michelle D. Gels (Trenton, N.J.), Kathleen L. Grant (Darien, Conn.), Dina K. Knott (Westminster, Md.), Elisabeth M. Kreck (Middletown, Del.), Craig R. Kreider (Quarryville, Pa.), Elizabeth 5. Lynch (Fallston, Md.), E. Denise Magner (Jarretsville, Md.), Christopher M. McGonnell (Chadds Ford, Pa.), Martha K. McKeown (Wilmington, Del.), William A. O'Day Jr. (Seaford, Del.), Susanne J. Poff (Lebanon, Pa.), Valerie J. Quillen (Seaford, Del.), Denise B. Rachlin (East Northport, N.Y.), Lee W. Richardson, Randall S. Risser, Robert E. Rohrer (Nottingham, Pa.), Tiffany L. Rohrer, Karla E. Schmidt (Wilmington, Del.), William F. Schrader Jr., Sara C. Schroer, Nicol A. Tentromono, David S. Troeber (Islip Terrace, N.Y.), Karen L. Vestergaard, Patricia L. Whetzel, Marni J. Winder (Wilmington, Del.)

The following students were elected to Phi Kappa Phi, a national honor society electing students from all colleges of the university who demonstrate scholarship: Patrick J. Byrne, Ellen M. Cooper (Oxford, Pa.), Elizabeth H. Locke.

Jennifer J. Goetz was elected into Omicron Delta Kappa, a national honor society recognizing leadership, scholarship and service.

Several students were recognized in 1990-1991 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" for scholastic ability, participation, and leadership in academic and extracurricular activities, citizenship and service, and potential for future achievement. They are as follows: Judith A. Bardsley, Kenneth R. Diebold, David B. Hughes (Wilmington, Del.), Elizabeth H. Locke, Randall S. Risser, Robert E. Rohrer, Cynthia M. Stewart (Newark, Del.), Nicol A. Tentromono, Aaron C. Venables (Laurel, Del.).

The College Council Student Recognition honors students demonstrating an outstanding amount of dedication, interest, and enthusiasm in the College of Agricultural Sciences. The students honored include:

Kenneth R. Diebold, George J Fennell (Lansdale, Pa.), Michelle D. Gels, Lauren M. Newnam (Haddonfield, N.J.), Lee W Richardson, Randall S. Risser, Robert E. Rohrer, William F Schrader Jr., Karen L. Vestergaard, Andrew W. Wedel (Pittstown, N.J.), Scott E. Wright (Woodside, Del.)

The Alpha Zeta Annual Freshman Award is certificate of merit awarded to freshman students who, by maintaining Dean's List standing with a minimum GPA of 3.25, best represent the fraternity's ideals of scholarship, leadership and fellowship. This years recipients are as follows:

Derrick E. Bender (Furlong, Pa.), Sally L. Goodman (Hockessin, Del.), Jennifer E. Neal (Schenectady, N.Y.), Laura E. Towers (Harrington, Del.), David P. Tuch (Pennington, N.J.).

While others just monitor, M-F electronics perform.

Once you see what M-F Autotronic tractors will do, you'll wonder what anybody sees in those other tractors.

ONLY M-F Autotronic™ tractors can...

Prevent 4WD windup. They automatically disengage 4WD at road speeds, re-engage at field speeds

Smooth PTO starts. They automatically engage the PTO at the best rate for the load

Pull straight and true. Engage the differential lock and it automatically engages the 4WD

MASSEY-FERGUSON — WARITY

WARNING
Don't test drive our tractor if your heart is set on one of our competitors tractors. It will only destroy your delusions about their tractor and create a lot of inner conflict.

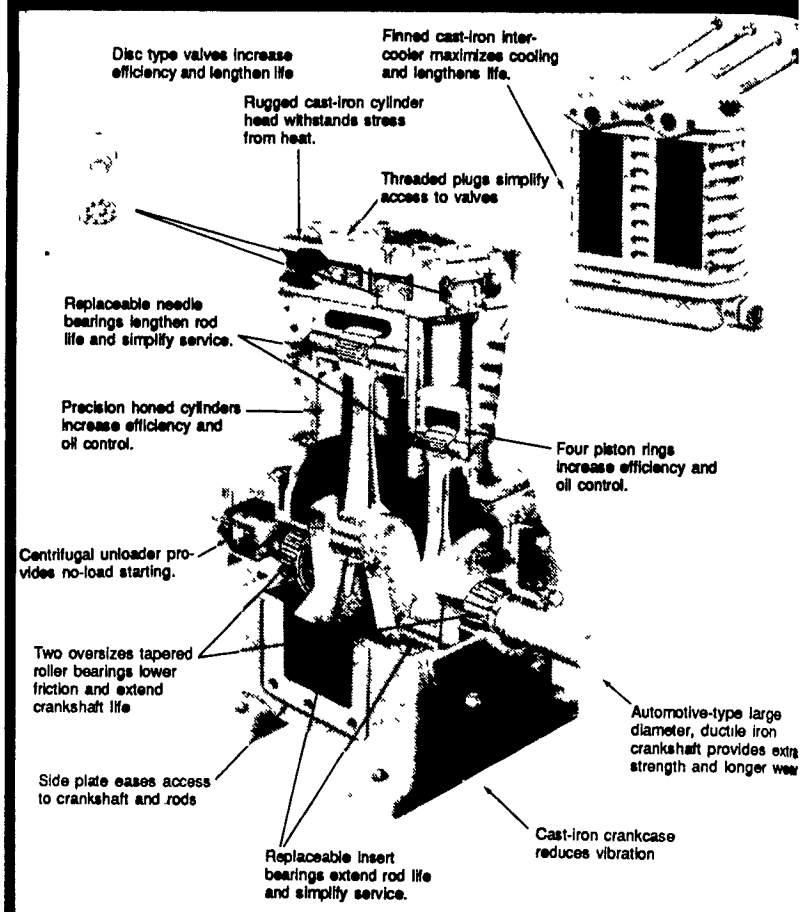
WHAT MAKES A SAYLOR-BEALL AIR COMPRESSOR



Disc type valves increase efficiency and lengthen life
Finned cast-iron inter-cooler maximizes cooling and lengthens life.
Rugged cast-iron cylinder head withstands stress from heat.
Threaded plugs simplify access to valves
Replaceable needle bearings lengthen rod life and simplify service.
Precision honed cylinders increase efficiency and oil control.
Centrifugal unloader provides no-load starting.
Two oversizes tapered roller bearings lower friction and extend crankshaft life
Automotive-type large diameter, ductile iron crankshaft provides extra strength and longer wear
Side plate eases access to crankshaft and rods
Cast-iron crankcase reduces vibration
Replaceable insert bearings extend rod life and simplify service.

ALL COMPRESSORS ARE AVAILABLE WITH EITHER SPLASH LUBRICATION OR PRESSURE LUBRICATION

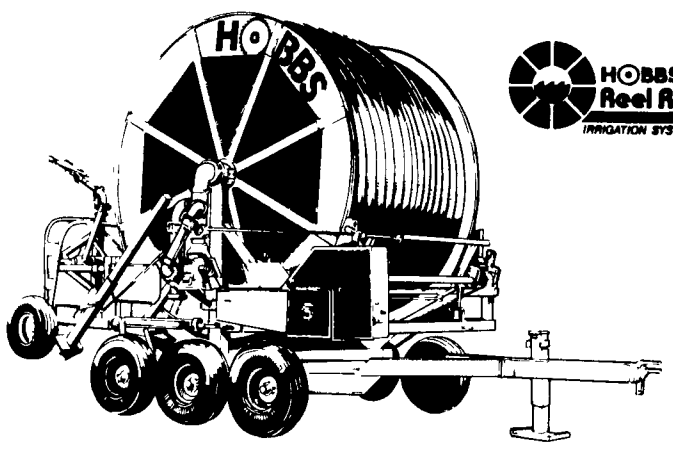
BIG SAVINGS

NOW - Factory Discounts
NEXT YEAR - BIG PROFITS
WITH YOUR REEL RAIN IRRIGATION SYSTEM



Now is the time to come in and make a special deal on the Reel Rain Irrigation system that's right for your operation. Factory discounts are in effect for a limited time and we're anxious to pass the savings along to you.

Adequate water at critical times during crop development is one of the most important factors in increased yields. Even in a normal high rainfall year, your yields may suffer if rain doesn't come at the right time. You are the BOSS when you give your crops the water they need when they need it. Invest in your future now. You will save BIG BUCKS for the whole family if you invest now.

BEILER ENGINE SERVICE

This twin 20 hp is becoming very popular for hay balers and other applications traditionally equipped with 2 cylinder Wisc. engines and can also replace the older 4 cylinder engines on some applications.

This engine has been in use on hay balers for over 10 years and is doing a very good job. We can also mount Wisc. clutches or reductions on it for some applications. Fuel efficiency is very good.

Buy now while we still have this heavy duty engine. New model coming next year.

S & S SILO SERVICE

ATTENTION FARMERS
Strengthen And Reseal Your Silo With Shotcrete

STRONGER AND WILL OUT LAST PLASTER

S & S Silo Service Has 10 Years Experience With Shotcrete Relining

IS YOUR SILO READY TO BE FILLED WITH GRASS SILAGE?

PLEASE CHECK YOUR FILL PIPES AND DISTRIBUTORS NOW BEFORE FILLING SEASON

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.

The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

CONSIDER THE MANY ADVANTAGES OF POURED CONCRETE

WE WANT TO HELP!!!!!!

Contact us soon to discuss "special discounts" for early orders on silos for fall. During the "lull" between our busy spring season for wilted hay storage and the even busier fall season - we are anxious to help during this period when milk prices and cattle prices are down.

"NOW IS THE TIME TO MAKE YOUR BEST DEAL ON A POURED CONCRETE SILO FOR 1991."

Since 1908, SOLLENBERGER SILOS CORP. has been providing the Silo Structures now in demand by more and more farmers concerned about "silage quality." "Nothing keeps feed better than our poured concrete silos."

Dairy Tips By Dr. Randy Lyle, Ph.D.

Purina Mills Dairy Consultant

Flies = Stress = Less Milk And Average Daily Gain

With the summer heat upon us the fly season has also arrived. Purina has many options for you to choose from to help control these pests. The fly not only spreads disease, but also creates more stress for your livestock thus lowering production. Take a look at what Purina has to offer:

1. Purina offers ready-to-use dust, dust bags and dust kits for use on poultry, hog, horse, and cattle. Some of the actives include permethrin, malathion, methoxychlor, Co-Ral* and Sevin **.
2. Also included in Purina's fly control program are ready-to-use fly spray products. This would include permethrin and pyrethrin fly bombs and also liquid for in your sprayers and pour-on.
3. Economy concentrated sprays are also included in our program. Permethrin, Malathion and Xylene, Fenthion and coumaphos.
4. Many other options remain such as ear tags, blocks, boluses and Purina's new Tailspin - an improved fly bait formula.

Call your Local Purina Dealer Today and let us put together a fly control program to meet your operations' needs.
